Fear of Another General Walkout Arises; Lewis' Deadline Sunday

Rail Strike Vote

STRIKE VOTE, returnable by November 25, is ordered by leaders of nonoperating railroad unions. Page 7.

The Specter Walks

By Ben W. Gilbert

The War Labor Board last night rejected the proposed Illinois coal wage agreement on the ground that it contained an unjustified wage increase of 37½ cents a day, but set out specifications for an acceptable wage pact which the board said would give an average miner $60 a week for six days' work.

Simultaneously, the board took cognizance of spreading coal strikes which have caused the idleness of 45,000 miners and warned United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis that "if the coal strikes do not cease by Thursday morning, the board will immediately refer the matter to the President for appropriate action."

Conceivably, further spreading of the strike could result in presidential action placing the coal mines once again in Government hands to avert a fourth general coal strike this year by the UMW's current "truce" deadline, midnight Sunday. The present flurry of strikes started in Alabama after Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes terminated Government control of the mines on October 12 in accordance with the Connally-Smith antistrike law.

'Portal to Portal'

The Illinois contract proposed to compute mine pay on a strict "portal to portal" basis for an 8½-hour day at straight time rates, instead of the present 7 hour day which does not include underground travel time.

Assuming that half the additional 1½ hours a day represented extra work time, WLB found that the miners were entitled to $1.12½ cents of a total of $1.50 additional compensation provided under the Illinois pact. The $1.12½ figure is the amount that would be received under the existing working agreement, which provides time and a half compensation for work in excess of 7 hours a day.

Since the Illinois agreement proposed to pay for the additional 45 minutes' work time at the straight time rate of 75 cents, WLB action trimming away 37½ cents had the effect of leaving a 37½ cents remainder to compensate for the estimated 45 minutes travel time each day.

By coincidence, this proposal would pay for travel time at the compromise rate of 50 cents an hour—half the present basic rate—as was revealed exclusively in yesterday's Washington Post.

Pact Turned Down

The Illinois pact—signed on September 23—was turned down by a vote of 8 to 4, with labor members dissenting—the same vote by which UMW wage demands were rejected by the WLB on three previous occasions since the coal wage dispute commenced on March 10.

Chairman William H. Davis then offered the counterproposal which was approved by a vote of 7 to 5 with Almon E. Roth, industry member, joining the labor bloc in dissent. Roth explained that he ap-

$5 Above Each Offering Will Put Fund Over

Capital Must Pledge $1,931,152 to Achieve Victory by Friday

With the deadline for Washington's Community Fund Drive set for Friday, the city last night stood $1,931,152 short of its goal of $4,800,000.

In an effort to raise the necessary amount, extra efforts will be made by Fund workers who are determined that Washington, the Capital of the Nation, shall not fall short of its quota, needed to support its war agencies and charities.

If every adult here will give $5 over and above his base contribution, the job will be done.

Evidence that Washington is rallying to the emergency comes from a report by the Fund's Metropolitan Division that in the Friendship section the "house-to-house" team chairmaned by Mrs. Walter A. Bloedorn has collected 152 per cent of its quota, and is after still more contributions.

Units Go Over Top

In the Advance Gifts unit, which has collected $414,911.54 to date, one section, headed by Dr. Paul F. Douglass, has gone over the top. The same is true for several Business and Finance sections, which report total returns so far of $764,466.80. The Government unit has $1,618,879.82. And Metropolitan, to which the final spurt is looked to, has collected in its canvassing to date $52,881.23 in the District, $6611.70 in Arlington, $6858.35 in Montgomery County, and $4238.50 in Prince Georges County. Fairfax has not reported yet.

Today at 12:30 p. m. another joint report by eight divisions will be made by the U. S. Chamber's "Hall of Flags." It is hoped that contributions announced by the divisions will bring the drive closer to its goal.

Also scheduled for this morning at 11 o'clock is a mass meeting and rally of employes of the Department of Justice, to be held in

Purse Discovered In Suspect's Home; He Awaits Hearing

By John Singerhoff

Charged with the murder of Charlotte W. Robinson, 30, secretary for the Recreation Services, Inc., Frederick C. Mergner, 45-year-old bakery worker, at first confessed to police and then denied the crime when arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage late yesterday.

Shot four times in the head, Mrs. Robinson, who became an American citizen less than three months ago, was found on the sidewalk at 7th and A sts. ne., four blocks from her home, Monday night.

Seized at his home, 3328 University ave. nw., in the Spring Valley section, Mergner drew a gun on two detectives. They disarmed him only to find his gun, a .32-caliber revolver, was unloaded.

Police Visit Home

The police were led to the house through information supplied by Verna Harrison, the slain woman's roommate at 325 East Capitol st.

Sergts. W. D. Perry and Bernard Crooke, homicide squad, went to the Mergner home and were admitted by the accused man's father. Mergner, they said, was in a living room off a main hallway.

The officers recognized Mergner—he was in police custody in 1939, charged with performing an illegal operation. Perry started to telephone police headquarters and Mergner drew the gun from his hip pocket and charged at Crooke.

Dropping the telephone, Perry reached Crooke's side in time to snatch the weapon as Mergner was thrown to the floor. The man offered no further resistance.

Prisoner Makes Confession

Mergner first was taken to the Tenth Precinct station where he made an oral confession to Detective Chief Robert J. Barrett, his assistant, Capt. Clyde N. Strange, Lieut. Jeremiah Flaherty, chief of the homicide squad, and Detective Sergts. John K. Baker, Richard Felber and David Ennis.

Sergts. Michael Caranfa, Perry and Crooke searched Mergner's home and found the dead woman's pocketbook in Mergner's bedroom. Her missing shoe and coat were

House Passes Bill to Delay Father Draft

Hershey Backed

A revised father's draft bill, requiring Selective Service to drain the pool of nonfathers before parents are drafted, and virtually nullifying the "work or fight" order of War Manpower Commissioner McNutt, yesterday passed the House by an overwhelming voice vote.

Before speeding the measure down the last lap to conference, the House tightened Senate provisions placing pre-Pearl Harbor fathers "last" on the draft call, and vested "all" draft authority in the Selective Service director.

Granting Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey independence in Selective Service matters from the over-all administrative authority of the War Manpower Commission, the bill further slapped at McNutt by nullifying his "nondeferrable lists."

Occupational Angle Hit

The bill did this by prohibiting induction of men solely because of their occupations, or by occupational groups. McNutt's order designating certain occupations as nondeferrable, has been under continuing congressional fire because it offered the choice of getting into essential occupations or induction.

Existing law prohibits deferment of men by occupation, and the House change would write the converse into law, prohibiting inductions in that manner.

The "nonfathers first" rule approved by the House makes it a Selective Service obligation to see to it that nonfathers are inducted into military service before pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, on both a Nation-wide and a State-wide basis, regardless of occupation.

In other words, States having a reserve of eligible nonfathers would have their quotas increased before pre-Pearl Harbor fathers are inducted from other States. The same rule would apply to different boards within a State.

Other Provisions of Bill

Other provisions of the bill call for:

Appointment of a five-man medical commission by the President to review physical standards for induction of men into the armed forces.

Require reexamination of approximately 500,000 men already released from the armed services for physical or other reasons, basing reexamination on any changes in physical standard recommended by the commission.

Require decisions of Selective Service appeals boards to be made public.

Permit preinduction physical examinations on request of men soon to be called up, but making this contingent on schedules announced by the Secretary of War and the Selective Service Director.

Two separate attempts were made to amend the bill to call fathers up by age groups. Both

Nazis Flee Wildly in Attempt To Escape Dnieper Bend Trap; Withdraw to New Line in Italy

5th and 8th Armies Strike Forward Up to 6 Miles, Capture 10 Towns

By Edward Kennedy

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Oct. 26 (AP).—The Fifth and Eighth armies striking forward up to 6 miles have captured 10 more towns, the Allied command announced today, winding up the first phase of the battle for Italy as the Germans withdrew into a new mountain defense line stronger than any they have held before.

The new line, running from Mondragone on the Tyrrhenian Coast northeast to Venafro and then to Vasto on the Adriatic, apparently is where the Germans have decided to make their first "permanent" stand. The position has natural advantages of mountains extending right across the peninsula and running several ridges deep.

In having crossed the Volturno and Trigno Rivers, the Allied armies might be said to have hurdled the moat of Hitler's fortress Europe, and they now stand before its first great wall.

Attempt to Hold Rome Seen

The enemy's retirement to the shortest and best defensive line anywhere between Naples and Rome and reports that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was bringing more troops into northern Italy were accepted as certain signs that the Germans are determined to attempt to hold Rome at least through the winter. It was even regarded as possible that the Nazis intend to launch a counteroffensive.

Of the 10 towns whose capture was announced today, 4 fell to the Fifth Army, including the important road junction of Froncolise, 2½ miles west of Sparanise and 6 miles north of the Volturno River.

The taking of Sparanise was announced yesterday.

Farther inland, American troops plunged northwestward along the upper Volturno, overrunning San Angelo d'Alife, 4 miles northwest of Alife, Raviscanina, a mile farther along, and Rocchetta, 4 miles northeast of Sparanise.

British Gain 6 Miles

The Eighth Army, whose Trigno River crossing was disclosed today to have been made at the Adriatic coast, scored its most recent advances far inland. Advancing 6 miles west from Vinchiaturo, the British captured Bojano, on the main inland highway toward the key communications center of Isernia, and five other towns.

These included the central sector towns of Spineo, Baranello, and Busso. Northeastward toward the Adriatic the British took Petrella and Palata.

American Mitchells, Bostons and Invaders and RAF Baltimores and Bostons bombed several towns in Italy, where the Germans were well established, hitting especially at communications. Formations of Mitchells bombed the coast town of Gaeta on the western side of Italy, and the leader of one, Capt. J. H. Brien of Bay St. Louis, Miss., reported heavy antiaircraft fire was encountered.

Other targets hit in Italy included a row of bridges near the

Many Angry Clashes

'An' Deleted From Resolution Sparks Senate Postwar Fight

By Robert C. Albright

The seemingly inoffensive article "an," deleted from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's compromise foreign policy declaration, yesterday became the angry center of a Senate word battle and a focal point in postwar debate.

A small bloc of Senators driving against hopeless odds to strengthen the broad compromise declaration, declared that two-letter word made all the difference between a world organization empowered to enforce peace and a power alliance.

Chairman Tom Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Senator Claude Pepper (Democrat) of Florida exchanged bitter verbal blows over the phrasing in a day replete with many an angry Senate clash.

It was the second day of Senate talk on the compromise resolution, which an outnumbered group of Senators contends is a "Mother Hubbard, covering everything and touching nothing," but which Senate leaders insist is the only kind of resolution the Senate will pass overwhelmingly at this time.

The compromise provides among other things for establishment of "international authority" with power to prevent aggression and keep the peace. Pepper, and the little group of "B-2 H-2'ers," insist it should read "an international authority," and did read that way before a Senate subcommittee struck out the article, "an."

"We think it is essential and vital, something like the League of Nations, if you please, an organization which is an entity, something which is distinct from its members," Pepper told the Senate.

Pepper and Connally tangled after the Floridian read a declaration by a religious group containing the three-word phrase, and charged the Connally Subcommittee had first considered such a phrase and then "purposely deleted" it.

Connally jumped quickly to his feet to deny the subcommittee deleted anything but the article "an."

Pepper said there was "an element of correctness" in what Connally said.

Connally snapped that he was either correct or not correct. Pep-

Postage Boost, Liquor Tax Increase Voted

House Ways-Means Also Approves Levies On Communications

By Edward Ryan

A 200-million-dollar boost in the Nation's annual postage bill, and increased taxes on liquor, travel, communications, and some luxuries, to net about 1.2 billion annually in new revenue, were voted yesterday by the House Ways and Means Committee in a drive to wind up all main decisions on tax changes this week.

A 3 cents per ounce rate for all first class mail was approved by the committee, leaving the present out-of-town rate unchanged, but doing away with the 2-cent rate for local first class mail. The committee indorsed a boost in air mail rates from 6 to 10 cents an ounce.

Tobacco taxes were left as they are now, and the committee also refused to increase the tax on gasoline from 1½ to 2 cents a gallon, or to tax chewing gum, candy, and soft drinks for the first time. They indorsed a 10 per cent manufacturers' tax on soap, tooth paste, tooth powder and mouthwash, and boosted the retail levy on other toilet articles including cosmetics from 10 to 25 per cent.

They also sharply increased entertainment levies, and voted to tax pari-mutuel betting 4 per cent of the amount of the wagers.

With approval of the excise and postage rates, the committee fixed its revenue goal at not more than two billion dollars, compared with

Kaiser Blocked Brewster Grab, Witness Says

2 of Stockholders Mentioned Have Prison Records

By Mary Spargo

Recent attempts by three large stockholders, two of whom had served jail sentences for violation of the Neutrality Act, to regain control of the Brewster Aeronautical Corp. plants were blocked by Henry Kaiser, production genius who has just become president of the corporation, the House Naval Affairs Subcommittee learned yesterday.

Robert E. Kline, committee counsel, drew an account of the situation from Frederick J. Riebel, jr., former president of Brewster, who closed his lengthy testimony in the Brewster investigation yesterday.

Riebel told the committee that F. William Zelcer, on behalf of himself and the two Miranda brothers, I. J. and A. J., asked for an active, even if unpaid, position in the corporation management. Kaiser, according to Riebel, said bluntly that such participation would not occur while he was Brewster president. The Miranda brothers went to a Federal penitentiary for violation of the Neutrality Act. Committee hearings already have disclosed that they sold arms to Germany and Japan in violation of United States laws.

Briefly, the complicated financial picture which led to the hope on the part of the Zelcer-Miranda combination that they could get back in the Brewster picture is this:

There are approximately 546,000 shares of stock in the Brewster Corp. Zelcer owns 100,000 shares, the Miranda Brothers 46,000. They, with James Work, first president of the company, were in the management when the Navy, because of dissatisfaction with "obstructionist" tactics of management,

Reds Capture Rail Point Near Krivoi Rog; Report 12,000 Of Enemy Slain

London (Wednesday), Oct. 27 (AP).—Soviet forces captured a railway station only 2½ miles from strategic Krivoi Rog yesterday as the Germans—retreating in disorder before the blows of three Russian armies—sought to extract themselves from the closing Dnieper bend trap, Moscow announced today.

The midnight Russian communique reported that Soviet units took Karnovatka, northwest of Krivoi Rog, industrial, iron ore and rail center deep in the Dnieper River bend which the Germans said the Red army already is storming.

On the southern arm of the giant pincers, the war bulletin, broadcast by Moscow and recorded here by the Soviet monitor, told of the capture of Veseloye, 24 miles northwest of Melitopol after "particularly fierce fighting."

Take Nearly 100 Villages

In their drive the three Soviet armies have taken nearly 100 towns and villages, 28 of these being in the Melitopol sector.

More than 3000 Germans were listed as killed in the bitter battle of the Nogaisk steppes where the Nazis are trying stubbornly to hold their last escape route from the Crimea—the Perekop rail line.

The Germans were said to have lost more than 7000 dead in the fighting for Dnepropetrovsk and Dneprodzerzhinsk, newly captured sister industrial cities on the Dnieper, while in the latest engagement in the Krivoi Rog area German casualties amounted to about two regiments (more than 2000 men). This made a specified German death toll of 12,000.

Declaring that the Germans were offering stubborn resistance in the Krivoi Rog area—the goal of the northern arm of the pincers—the communique said the Nazis had thrown in fresh tank forces including the 24th tank division recently "transferred from Italy."

The Red Air Force followed up the ground attacks by bombing

Heavy Bombings Bar Japs From Solomons Bases

Allied Headquarters, Southwest Pacific (Wednesday), Oct. 27 (AP).—Constant bombings apparently have compelled the Japanese to quit using their most important air bases in the northern Solomons.

(A spokesman at South Pacific headquarters said the enemy's Bougainville fields of Kahili and Kara have not been used since October 23 and that the Ballale Island field in the Shortlands also is inoperative.

In the two latest raids on Kahili, heavy bombers, torpedo bombers and dive bombers carried out their methodical destruction without a single Japanese fighter intercepting. Two hundred and thirty American planes dropped 130 tons of bombs in those knockout assaults. Four recent Allied raids have destroyed more than 300 planes on Rabaul.

A headquarters spokesman reported that the Japanese troops near Finschhafen, New Guinea, seeking an avenue of escape to the coast, were bloodily repulsed in fresh counterattacks.

Detective Quizzed On Oakes' Print

Mad Total Now 71

10 More Are Attacked by Dogs As D. C. Orders Further Curbs

Ten more persons were reported yesterday to have been bitten by dogs, and the District Commissioners took further steps to curb the rabies epidemic here, as Health Department tests proved that three of four dogs recently killed had been rabid.

The three dogs brought the number proved rabid since June this year to a total of 71. Only five dogs had been found rabid in the previous 10 years, the Health Department said.

Dog No. 71 was a black and white untagged pointer which was first seen Saturday afternoon running around the 1700 block Upshur st. nw. He was reported by a private physician, and several police were sent out to investigate. They did not know what to do about the dog, however, the Health Department said, and he was allowed to go. After wandering around Saturday night and Sunday, through Rock Creek Park and into the Chevy Chase area east of Connecticut ave, he was finally shot by police in the 5200 block of Broad Branch rd. nw. Sunday afternoon.

Health Officer George Ruhland asked yesterday that any owner, believing that his dog might have been exposed to the pointer, either have his dog destroyed or quarantined for 90 days.

The victims who reported they had been bitten by dogs were William J. Ascherfeld, 9, of 4306 12th place ne.; Thomas N. Henderson, 46, of 1446 Newton st. nw.; Jesse L. Piefer, 55, of 937 Virginia ave. sw.; Austin Brown, Negro, 11, of 321 Virginia ave. se.; Edward Crawford, Negro, 5, and Lina Noden, Negro, 65, both of 2014 Kent st. nw.; Andrew Marron, Negro, 58, of 941 T st. nw.; Elizabeth Wood, Negro, 34, of 1621 Montella ave. ne.

Last night police reported two additional dog bite victims: ten-year-old Leonard Bennett of 218 I st. nw., and May Graham, 32, of 1315 Belmont st. nw. Both were sent home after hospital treatment.

Treasury Says

Americans to Pay More Taxes Each Than Britons, Canadians

By the Associated Press

Americans, in paying an estimated 49 billion dollars in Federal, State and local taxes this fiscal year, will shell out more on a per capita basis than either Britons or Canadians.

The comparable figures for the three countries, as made public by the Treasury last night, are $357 for every man, woman and child in the United States against $291 in Great Britain and $261 in Canada. Last year, when Americans paid an aggregate of $32,200,000,000, the per capita load was $237—$22 less than in Great Britain but $9 higher than in Canada.

The figures are in a report submitted to the tax-framing House Ways and Means Committee by Treasury General Counsel Randolph Paul at the committee's request.

While similar figures were not given for the current year, the report showed that only 23.8 per cent of this country's 135 billion dollars national income last year went for taxes, contrasted to 42.1 per cent of Britain's $29,500,000,000 national income and 35.6 per cent of Canada's $7,500,000,000.

The 49 billion dollars aggregate tax figure for this country compares with 14 billion dollars in British taxes, and $3,100,000,000 in estimated Canadian tax receipts.

25 Tanker Victims Have Sea Burial

Miami, Fla., Oct. 26 (AP).—The sea received today the bodies of 25 men who met death in flames that followed the collision of two tankers last Wednesday off Florida. They slid into the blue waters from the port side of a warship.

Both merchant seamen and members of the Navy gun crews were given sea burial with full military honors. The bodies were among the 37 recovered from the ships on which 88 died. Only 28 of the two crews survived the collision and the fires.

Another Lidice

Italian Town Wiped Out By Germans

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—A dispatch to the Columbia Broadcasting System today from the European continent, quoting diplomatic informants, said that enraged German troops wiped out an entire Italian village of 2000 "in the same manner that they destroyed Lidice" in Czechoslovakia.

The account said the Italian Alpine village of Boves, near the French border, was leveled by flame-throwers. It continued:

Italian Alpine guerilla fighters—warring on the German occupation forces—visited Boves in quest of food. The Patriots easily overwhelmed the few German troops in the village and carried four of the Germans away to the mountains as hostages.

Within a few hours a German motorized detachment arrived in Boves from Turin. The German commander called in the local priest and told him he would give the populace two hours to go into the mountains and bring back the four German soldiers.

The people of Boves tried to make contact with the guerillas, but the time was too short.

The deadline expired and the German cammander ordered a flame-throwing detachment into action. Every house in the village was set afire, and two hours later Boves was a smoldering ruin.

Gen. Guzzoni Reported Arrested by Germans

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—Gen. Alfredo Guzzoni, 66, Italian commander in Sicily during the Allied campaign and formerly one of Mussolini's most trusted officers, has been arrested by the Germans on a charge of treachery, a DNB broadcast announced tonight.

The broadcast, recorded by the Associated Press, did not disclose where the arrest took place, but said it was carried out "in continuation of the purge of treacherous elements in the state, army and party."

Yugoslav Partisans Take Industrial Center; Americans Bomb Vienna in Surprise Raid

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—Yugoslav Partisan fighters have driven the Germans from the last Nazi-held center of heavy industry in Bosnia, central Yugoslavia, capturing the steel city of Vares-Maydan after a 12-hour battle, a Yugoslav National Liberation Army communique announced today.

Stockholm reports, meanwhile, said that Vienna had been bombed on Sunday, and declared the bombers came from Foggia in Italy in the first American raid from new bases there to hit Austria and Hungary. Yugoslav patriots assisted the raid by sabotaging Axis communication, these reports added.

Taken by Surprise

The Stockholm newspaper Social Demokraten said Vienna was surprised by the unexpected raid from the south. The Germans had told the people that the bomb-battered Foggia airfield would not be ready for use by Allied planes for another week.

Allied headquarters in Algiers kept mum as to the bombers' base. This was the first report that Vienna had been one of the targets.

Northwest African Air Force planes struck yesterday at the Podgorica airfield in Yugoslavia and against shipping and coastal points.

In the zigzag struggle for control of the eastern Mediterranean islands—a potential gateway for Balkan invasion—the Middle East command acknowledged that the Island of Cos had been evacuated successfully.

Called Second Crete

The Germans invaded Cos October 4 with perhaps 4000 men, including 2000 parachute troops and many planes. It was a second Crete, even down to the caiques or small boats that rescued British defenders who hid in the hills many days after the Germans had won control of the island.

Capture of Vares-Maydan, 20 miles north of Sarajevo, by the Yugoslavs was announced in a communique broadcast by Yugoslav radio. Partisan warriors also stormed into the town of Breko on the Sava River far to the northeast, it said, and the Nazis had to rush 20,000 reinforcements to bolster 5000 garrison troops in order to force the Patriots to withdraw.

Kill 217 Germans

Cairo dispatches said a division of Gen. Draja Mihailovic's guerillas had captured three stations on the Belgrade-Sarajevo railway in Bosnia and killed 217 Germans in liberating the towns. Tchaijitchs also was said to have been freed.

German alarm over the Balkan situation was evidenced by Ankara reports that politico-military talks had been in progress in Sofia for three days in what was believed to be a new move in Hitler's desperate efforts to organize Balkan defenses as an answer to the Moscow tripartite conference.

The Germans, these advices said, apparently are convinced the Balkan peninsula soon will become a major battlefield.

Overweight Oil makes Old Cars Older—Fast

A Light grade of oil can make good, with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED

You can change to an OIL-PLATED engine by changing to any grade of Conoco N*th* motor oil—from lightest to heaviest—and you can change to any grade of Conoco N*th* at the same popular price. But the lightest possible grade of oil that's fit for the Winter change your car needs now will help to save your battery—your gasoline—your engine. The more the oil is overweight the greater the wear, and when that makes you try still heavier oil you get still more wear—still more oil and gasoline consumption—worse and worse and worse. Short-circuit this ruinous process by having your engine OIL-PLATED.

OIL-PLATING is distinct from the familiar liquid type of high-strength oil film also provided by Conoco N*th* oil. Both oil film and OIL-PLATING are paired against wear every mile. Every time your engine rests, however, any liquid film drains down to the crankcase. But OIL-PLATING doesn't all drain down. It tends to stay wherever attached by Conoco N*th* oil's "magnet-like" action—achieved synthetically. Often now you don't use your car for days. Yet when you start, the OIL-PLATED surfaces are still ready-lubricated..."faster than instantly." That's how the former fierce wear of cold starting is reduced by OIL-PLATING your engine. All other wear, too, meets its match in your OIL-PLATED engine. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station—today. He knows the lightest grade of N*th* for you.

Dread Engine Acid Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops.

Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Good mileage and speed heated your engine enough to oust acids.

But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

The CROW'S NEST

Thoughts and comment on a great American whiskey in wartime

These days one learns to appreciate more deeply than ever old friends, even old symbols of friendship. That is probably why men appreciate their Old Crow today more than ever before. That, and the very natural reason that we always like best what is hard to get.

At present Old Crow's plant is working 100% producing alcohol for America's war machine. The Old Crow you buy now is strictly allocated from stocks that were made before the war. Let's make it last till the war is won! . . . If your store runs short, fresh supplies are coming!

BACK THE ATTACK—BUY MORE WAR BONDS! By doing so, you help bring victory nearer—you help shorten the war!

THOSE IN THE KNOW—ASK FOR OLD CROW

A Truly Great Name AMONG AMERICA'S GREAT WHISKIES

There is in Old Crow a matchless quality and taste which only rigid adherence to time-proved methods and standards can preserve.

U. S. Workers Fight, President Insists

Only 3.2% Deferred in Draft, He Says; Hits Mud-Slinging at 3 Million Employes

Answering what he termed "mud-slingers" who have been calling the Government a haven for draft dodgers and slackers, President Roosevelt said yesterday that only 3.2 per cent of the nearly three million full-time civilian employes of the Government has received occupational deferments.

To Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn, for reading to Senate and House, the President sent a 2700-word letter of rebuttal to what he termed "groundless charges" and "irresponsibility rumors." Many of these charges came from Congressmen during arguments over the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

These "unfair accusations must be emphatically denied," the President asserted. Here are some of the figures he used to back up his denial:

Permanent full-time employes of the Government, both men and women—2,980,404, of whom 2,825,904 are in continental United States—as of July 31.

Of those in the United States, 1,952,700 work for the War and Navy Departments, and about 84,000 have been given occupational deferments.

The Postoffice Department, the next largest employer, has 315,741 workers, of whom only 61—all postal inspectors—have been deferred.

In all other governmental agencies, 13,992 men have been granted occupational deferments.

The total occupational deferment figure is 98,053.

In addition, there are 2003 uniformed personnel in the War Shipping Administration's training organization and 14,050 cadets in the training organization schools, who have been deferred, but the President said these men are not "really part of the civilian establishment of the Government."

"I am convinced that they (Federal workers) are anxious to put on their country's uniform and that they have been kept, often against their will, in their present jobs," he wrote. "Their Government itself decided that they could be more useful to its war effort where they are.

"This attempted discrediting of the public service is also unfair to the men who left the Government to enter the armed forces and who plan to return to their positions after the war. The estimated number today is about a half-million."

The President asserted that standards of deferment of Government workers are much stricter than in private industry. Unlike a Government employe, he said, a privately employed individual may request his own deferment even though his employer does not do so.

He said draft-age men in the War and Navy Departments are being "released constantly" for military service and are being replaced in accordance with replacement schedules. The record, he said, is much better than the occupational deferments in private enterprise.

The greater part of the civilians in these departments, the letter said, are engaged in war production in arsenals, ordnance plants, powder factories and navy yards, or in essential work at Government depots, warehouses, proving grounds, air bases, naval training stations and hospitals.

In Other Departments

Outside the War, Navy and Postoffice Departments, it was declared about 119,380 employes are men of draft age—exclusive of those in several small agencies which did not submit reports. Of these, 25,537 are single, 26,195 are childless married men and 67,647 are fathers.

Of the single men, the President said, 3592 were awaiting induction as of August 15, 11,667 were classified as physically unfit for military service, and 1502 had been deferred for dependency or hardship reasons. No information was available on 2743, and 6043 had been given occupational deferments.

In addition to the 2,980,404 full-time paid employes of the Government, there were 145,808 part-time employes on July 31, and 251,663 persons working for no pay or $1 a year. It has been the policy not to seek deferments for men in these categories.

Steve Early Sees Son Commissioned

Fort Benning, Ga., Oct. 26 (AP).—Steve Early, Secretary to President Roosevelt, today saw his son, Steve Early, jr., commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry.

The infantry soldier is "the man who finally determines when and where we win a war," Early, senior, who was an infantry captain in the last war, told the graduating class of which his 21-year-old son was a member.

So Sorry

Jap Situation 'Truly Grave,' Says Hirohito

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—Japan's two highest leaders—Emperor Hirohito and Premier Hideki Tojo—joined today in giving the eighty-third special session of the Diet a sober appraisal of the war outlook, with Tojo asserting that the Allies, "defeated at the beginning," were now "overcoming many difficulties and dangers and the war is growing in intensity."

The Emperor, in one of his infrequent declarations on the war, termed Japan's present situation "truly grave." His imperial rescript was read in his presence at the formal opening of the Diet session, according to a domestic Tokyo broadcast reported by the Office of War Information.

"The present war situation is very complicated," Tojo said.

Because there "is no time to be slack in war," he said, the government has decided on a new industrial and manpower mobilization program to "strengthen production of war materials, especially of airplanes, so that our defensive structure may be made unwavering."

The Premier's address, as broadcast to the Japanese people, contrasted sharply with the version broadcast by the Tokyo radio in English and directed at America.

Instead, Tojo was represented as expressing unqualified confidence in victory, assertedly telling the Diet that Germany would soon launch a "new plan of military operations in all directions" that would help "bring the United States and Britain to their knees."

Navy Minister Admiral Shigetaro Shimada admitted the destruction of only 18 warships, six of them destroyers, and 415 planes.

Shimada claimed Allied aircraft shot down totaled 1613. He went on to claim the sinking of 197 Allied ships including 17 cruisers.

Many Jap Subs With Evacuees Sunk Off Kiska, Admiral Says

By John G. Norris

Japan probably evacuated her forces from Kiska last August by submarine, but American warships sank "quite a few" of the enemy subs involved, the commander of the successful Allied reconquest of the Aleutians reported yesterday.

Rear Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, who led the United Nations forces which retook Attu and Kiska from the Japs, told the story of the campaign to reporters yesterday. His transfer from Allied commander in the North Pacific to be commander of naval forces in the Southwest Pacific under Gen. Douglas MacArthur was announced yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Kinkaid will succeed Vice Admiral Arthur S. Carpender, who returns home to be commandant of the Ninth Naval District. Rear Admiral John Downes, now holding the latter command, will retire for age, it was said.

"Treated Them Badly"

The former North Pacific commander said it was impossible to be sure that the evacuation of Kiska was by submarine, but there was no question about our destroying a number of enemy subs which gathered off the island after our landing on Attu.

Whatever they were there for—and it seems probable now that they were removong troops—our destroyers got in among them and "treated them rather badly."

"We got quite a few," Kinkaid added. "Enough to make it hurt."

The admiral said that the Jap submarines probably could carry out about 100 men each and that he hoped all of those sunk were full of evacuees.

Outpost Called Vital

Kinkaid told reporters that he considered the Aleutians "extremely important" as an offensive base for operations against Japan. Warning that he was an "enthusiast" with regard to this area, Kinkaid added:

"From Seattle to Paramushiru it is roughly 3000 miles and for three-quarters of the way it is protected by a chain of bases. That's the shortest route from our territory to Japan."

Asked if the retaking of the Aleutians definitely removes any threat to our West Coast, the Admiral said that he didn't see "how anybody can get gray hairs over an attack there."

British Convoy Force Sinks 4 Nazi E-Boats

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—British light naval forces protecting a convoy sank 4 German E-boats and damaged 7 more out of a force of 30 in a fierce 5-hour running battle in the English Channel off the coast of East Anglia Sunday night, the Admiralty announced today.

The battle lasted throughout the night, the Admiralty said, and all British craft rejoined the convoy without serious damage. Several casualties were acknowledged.

Actress Sues Drug Firm For $100,000 Damages

Los Angeles, Oct. 26 (AP).—Screen Actress Joan Davis filed suit today for $100,000 damages against a chain drug store firm, charging an employe placed improper directions on a prescription written by her doctor.

She alleged a stomach ailment from which she was suffering became aggravated as a result, necessitating her remaining in bed for a week and interfering with her picture work.

Chandler Quoted in Rap At Churchill

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—The Daily Telegraph said today that Senator A. B. Chandler (Democrat) of Kentucky had expressed belief in a letter to its New York correspondent that Prime Minister Churchill is opposed to accepting China as an equal partner in peace negotiations after the war.

Chandler, one or five United States Senators who recently returned to America after a tour of the war fronts, was quoted as saying:

"I am convinced, because of a statement made to us by Mr. Churchill, that he does not desire that China sit at the peace table as an equal partner with the United States, Russia, and Great Britain."

Chandler also was quoted as expressing regret "that the British have never seen fit so far to mount an offensive in the India-Burma-China sector, which is so badly needed in order to keep China in the war."

"We have important bases there at present very lightly held, and I do not believe anything could happen that would so seriously impair our good relations as the loss of our bases in China," Chandler was represented as saying.

"If they are lost it will largely be because of the failure of the British to mount a real offensive in that sector."

The Telegraph made no editorial comment on Chandler's letter, but in its lead editorial on the United States Senate discussion of the Connally postwar resolution it said:

"Repercussions must be expected in the (Senate) debate of the recent secret session in which five world-touring Senators acquired fame by their charges that the British Commonwealth was outwitting the United States. . . .

"What will decide the issue is not their attacks or reaction against them, but the proved, unalterable fact that the interests of the United States require international collaboration. The American people know as well as the peoples of Europe the dependence of their peace and welfare on agreement with the British Commonwealth and Russia for defense against aggression."

WPB Indicates Baby Is to Get Some New Shoes

Baby's going to get some new shoes, the WPB said, in effect, yesterday.

Daddy's in the Army, or the Navy, Marines, or Coast Guard, so War Production officials feel that some of the leather used by manufacturers for men's shoes can be diverted for use in making infants' footwear.

Mothers of war and victory babies who have found it difficult to purchase shoes for their young ones will take heart when they learn that the WPB is considering appeals from shoe manufacturers for permission to increase production of infants', misses', and children's footwear. The extra shoes should reach the market by Christmas, it was said.

German Crew Saved

Vigo, Spain, Oct. 26 (AP).—Forty-six survivors of a German merchant ship, apparently torpedoed in the Atlantic by a British submarine, were landed today by a Spanish fishing schooner.

Lieut. R. I. Downs, D. C. Bar Member, Hurt in Action

Word was received yesterday from the War Department by Roscoe I. Downs of 3531 7th st. south, Arlington, Va., that his nephew, First Lieut. Edward F. Downs, 26, of the Army Air Corps, was seriously wounded in action in the European area on October 14.

Lieutenant Downs graduated from Fairfax High School in 1937. He continued his studies at Southeastern College in Washington, where he was graduated from the law school in 1941. He was inducted into service in October, 1941. Returning on a furlough, he was admitted to the District of Columbia bar in December, 1941.

★ ★ All America is Proud of its Navy ★ ★

The Greatest the World has ever known

The Ammunition is being passed

In the days of wooden ships, nimble-footed 'powder-boys' raced to the loaders with boxes of explosives—and it was one gunner's job to see to it that there were no monkeyshines from these youngsters.

(Ordnance Department, U. S. Navy, 1864.)

There are no monkeyshines about the way the ammunition is being passed in this war, either. For example, the ammunition for the Navy's 5-inch 38 caliber gun must come to the gun in a steady stream, for it throws shells at planes or surface craft at a terrific rate. How is it done? With an ingenious hoist whose tolerances are so close that the mechanism is comparable to the movement of a fine watch.

Ammunition hoists for the Navy are being produced so fast and efficiently by the Busch-Sulzer Bros. Diesel Engine Company that the organization has been awarded a second star in its Navy E pennant. Busch-Sulzer, which made engines for submarines in the last war, was founded by Adolphus Busch, the founder of Anheuser-Busch. He was the first to build Diesels in America—and the first American-made Diesel went into the Home of Budweiser. Now as then, the quest for better methods and facilities to produce the world's most popular beer never ceases.

In addition to supplying the armed forces with glider parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs, Anheuser-Busch provides materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and textiles—to name a few.

took over the plants. By virtue of the power given by its contracts totaling many millions of dollars, and its power to guarantee loans without which the company could not run, the Navy forced these stockholders to put their shares in a voting trust, with the men who were to vote the shares acceptable to the Navy. That trust expires in 1944, but the Zelcers and Miranda hoped to have the trust lifted before that date, according to Riebel.

Work and Zelcer will appear before the committee today to explain their connection with the company and the so-called "offer" of Zelcar to help run the plant again without salary.

Riebel also disclosed yesterday that his resignation as president followed the publication of a full page story on the Brewster Corp. by Agnes E. Meyer in The Washington Post.

He said that immediately after publication of the story on October 3, he was called to Washington by Assist ant Secretary for Air Artemus L. Gates for a conference with him and Stuart Scott, counsel for the Bureau of Aeronautics, in which he was warned that his resignation might be requested. On October 6 it was asked for by Henry Kaiser, who took over as president the next day.

Chairman Drewry (Democrat) of Virginia said in the course of yesterday's hearing that the chief causes of production failure at Brewster appeared to be:

1. Weak and inefficient management.
2. Labor obstructionism.
3. Waste.
4. Fraud.
5. Sabotage.

Riebel denied charges of weak management on his part, asserting, "I may be a fool, but there was nothing weak about my management."

The fraud question, as developed by Drewry, had to do with the question of management's allocation of labor costs. Drewry asked if the management had not charged labor spent on British bombers to the Navy jobs, because the British contract was a lump-sum affair, while the Navy contract was a cost-plus-contract. Riebel, in general, denied that charge. The chairman also developed the fact that the few bombers which were sent to Great Britain were not used.

From Riebel's testimony it was developed that he had examined a Brewster-made plane in which two men were killed at Floyd Bennett Field. Riebel said, both in the diary and in testimony, that he had found an undriven rivet in one piece of the fuselage, and that he had also discovered "wisecracks" and dirty drawings on the fuselage. He demanded more careful inspection, he said.

Riebel denied waste at Brewster and denied shortages except in the subcontracting plants. He denied that there had been hoarding of manpower by management.

Row A, row B and row C figured largely in the testimony of the former president. These were the different factions in the labor union, the names being derived from their places on the voting machines.

Two Allied Planes Lost

Two Allied planes were lost in the day's operations in Italy, but all those which took part in a raid on Yugoslavia came back safely.

A military commentator at headquarters said today that enemy resistance was somewhat lessened yesterday along the entire front except for heavy artillery bombardment on the Eighth Army's Trigno bridgehead and against the British lines between Spineto and Petrella.

"The lightened opposition," said the spokesman, "suggests that the enemy is in the final phase of his retirement to strong positions on the obvious new line of defense extending from Mondragone to Venafro and then across to the area of Vasto on the Adriatic.

"There is no suggestion of collapse, but it is simply that he is taking up the line on which he chooses to fight the next battle."

Price Increase For Fine Hosiery Ordered by OPA

The Office of Price Administration yesterday authorized price increases for certain finer gauges of women's full-fashioned rayon hosiery.

OPA said previous price ceilings had been fixed too low on the basis of inadequate data then available.

The new prices for 54 and 57 gauge rayon hose are $1.41 a pair, up 23 cents from the old maximum. The price for 60 gauge and higher hosiery was established at $1.69, which is 38 cents over the old price.

'An' Missing From Compromise Postwar Resolution Draft Stirs Up Storm on Senate Floor

per retorted that if Connally wanted to be "captious about it, he was not correct." Connally said Pepper's remarks were "insulting."

Altered Whole Sense

Pepper said he had intended to say that only the word "an" was deleted, but that this change altered the whole sense of the resolution.

The Floridian accused Connally of attempting to "browbeat" Senators attempting to strengthen the resolution, and of objecting to any examination on the compromise language.

"He has been impatient with debate; he did not desire debate; and now every time a remark is made here he seems to take it as a personal affront," said Pepper.

Earlier Connally had vigorously disputed Pepper's assertion that spokesmen for Catholic, Jewish and Protestant religions, who recently joined in a postwar declaration, supported principles embodied in the "B-2 H-2" amendments. "It ain't so," shouted Connally.

In Clash With Ball

The Texan also had clashed with Senator Joseph H. Ball (Republican), of Minnesota, one of the group seeking to strengthen the compromise, accusing Ball of attempting to "emasculate" the resolution.

Once Senate Majority Leader

Barkley rose to defense of the subcommittee which drafted the resolution after Pepper charged "B-2 H-2" Senators had been "unconsciously intimidated" by the subcommittee. Barkley said there was "no effort at intimidation on the part of anybody."

Pepper held the floor all afternoon after opening speeches for the compromise resolution by Senator Wallace H. White, jr. (Republican) of Maine and Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway (Democrat) of Arkansas. The Floridian traced the Senate's historic defeat of Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations, and declared that defeat was responsible for World War II. He charged the United States was kept out of the League by "political chicanery, personal animosity and timidity" although a majority of the Senate and an overwhelming majority of the people were for it.

Claim New Convert

The little group of Senators attempting to spell out the postwar terms, led by Pepper, Ball, Hatch of New Mexico, Hill of Alabama and Burton of Ohio, claimed another convert yesterday, raising their total Senate strength to 18. The newcomer to the bloc was reported to be Senator James O. Eastland (Democrat) of Mississippi.

They reported "progress" in their efforts to persuade subcommittee members to "interpret" the compromise resolution, after Senator White indicated his belief that use of military force to maintain peace was implied in the resolution.

"Personally," said Senator White, "I believe that if we are to do the job effectively in future years there must be a military force to effectuate the conclusions at which the governing bodies arrive."

In one of her few Senate speeches, Mrs. Caraway supported the compromise, urging the Senate to give "prompt and overwhelming approval," and warning: "Isolation for America is archaic."

Church, Press Here Cooperating, Ministers Told

Increased cooperation between the churches and the public press was pictured yesterday by Robert Tate Allan, Washington Post church editor, in addressing the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance at the Twelfth Street Branch YMCA.

"I don't think there is a city or town in the United States where there are more harmonious relations between the public press and churches than in Washington," said Allan.

One of the chief responsibilities of a church editor, said Allan, is to interpret religion to the man in the street, to give the public a broad perspective of the church's' work. Dr. Robert M. Williams, president of the Alliance and pastor of Asbury Methodist Church, presided.

Kate Smith—Ted Collins
GIVE YOU THEIR "PICK OF THE POST" ON THE NEWSSTANDS TODAY

Kate Smith—Ted Collins, stars of General Foods' "Kate Smith Hour," Friday, 8 P.M. E.W.T., C.B.S.; and "Kate Smith Speaks," C.B.S., Daily, 12 Noon E.W.T.
IN 1918, General Pershing presented an eight-year-old singer with a medal for her contributions to soldier morale . . . and the advice: "You must keep on singing, child." She took that advice. Today, Kate Smith—and her thrilling, beautiful voice—are beloved by millions. Over the years, with the firm, able hand of Ted Collins at her elbow to guide her, Kate Smith has time and again challenged the impossible . . . and won! Six scheduled broadcasts each week; public appearances for worthwhile causes; weekly visits to army and navy camps; day-long appeals to War Bond purchasers—again the talent and seemingly inexhaustible energy of Kate Smith are helping to win a war.
"A busy life like mine," Kate says, "calls for minutes of relaxation that really count. And it's like taking a vacation—to be able to step into the adventurous worlds created by the Post's superb fiction writers. Why, just yesterday . . ."
"Pardon me, Kate," interrupts Ted Collins: "I'd like to say that we must continually have fresh viewpoints when we discuss world problems and events before a microphone. That's where those authoritative, thorough articles in the Post come in. Even though we don't always agree with them, they let us know what world leaders are thinking and doing."
Kate laughs that famous laugh of hers. "That's right, Ted. Whether we're relaxing or working, we need the Post. You can't get away from it—and personally, I never want to."
Here's what Kate Smith and Ted Collins think about this great issue of the Post
1. THE KING NOBODY KNOWS
By Four Distinguished Authors

KATE SAYS: "I met King George and his lovely wife a few years ago. That's why the title of this article—The King Nobody Knows—struck me so forcefully. It's true. He is charming, polished, every inch a king and a gentleman—but I came away from that meeting feeling that I knew nothing about him. No wonder it took not one—but four well-known writers to compose this word portrait. And it's fascinating. Now I really feel I know the man who is so courageously facing the gravest responsibility ever given a King of England."
2. POWER POLITICS SUCCEEDED IN ITALY
by Demaree Bess

TED SAYS: "One of the greatest questions today is whether America will play 'power politics' after the war. Lots of people think that America will be hopelessly outclassed. Well, this revealing account of what took place in Italy is bound to make them feel a lot more optimistic. Mussolini fell because our diplomats had started knocking his props out years ago . . . and didn't let up. Here's a story that will give you new confidence—and maybe a brand new outlook—toward our future as international diplomats."
3. THE GOOD NEIGHBORS
by Conrad Richter

KATE SAYS: "Here's my kind of story. It's just about a kid . . . a little, pug-nosed kid from the 'right' side of the tracks. But he's got a yen to see what's on the 'wrong' side. What he finds makes him want to see what's on the other side of the mountain. And then years later—what's on the other side of the ocean . . . and the world. He discovers these things . . . but always through the eyes of the boy peering over the fence from a yard in Pine Mills. You'll love this kid—this modern Sir Francis Drake—just as I did."

the Treasury's 10.5 billion demand.

Main remaining hurdles involve corporate rates, and the issue of a sales tax. The first may be decided today after Treasury and Capitol tax experts testify on reports that some nonwar businesses have been netting huge profits which are not touched by renegotiation or excess profits laws. Representative Knutson (Republican) of Minnesota said that if loopholes are found, the committee will close them.

Representative Robertson (Democrat) of Virginia said he will ask for a committee vote tomorrow on his plan for a 10 per cent retail sales levy.

The committee's excise and postage decisions were:

Lieut. Col. Hester Is Nominated For Full Colonel

Nomination of Lieut. Col. Thomas G. Hester, adjutant of Walter Reed Hospital, to full colonel was sent to the Senate by President Roosevelt yesterday.

Colonel Hester, who lives with his wife at 1320 Sheridan st. nw., enlisted in the Army in July, 1904, and rose through the ranks. He served on the Mexican border, in France, during World War I, and in Germany with the Army Surgeon's office of the Army of Occupation.

After serving in various post hospitals, he became adjutant at Fort Meade Hospital in 1920, served at the Army Medical Center at Walter Reed Hospital from 1922 to 1925. He saw service in the Philippines for the next two years, returning there in 1936 to become medical supply officer. He remained in the Philippines until 1938, when he returned to Washington to become adjutant at Walter Reed Hospital.

10 More Attacked By District Dogs

sued three orders for further regulation of dogs. The police were ordered to make a house to house canvass "for the purpose of ascertaining all dogs within the District of Columbia and to take such action as is necessary to see that such dogs are properly licensed."

At the same time they ordered that all dogs be substantially muzzled for a period of three months beginning October 24; any dogs not muzzled and running loose to be taken up by the poundmaster.

A third order said any person bringing a dog into the District must quarantine it for 90 days unless the owner can show a veterinarian's certificate proving there had been no epidemic of rabies in the place where the dog came from 90 days prior to the issuing of the certificate.

Frank Marks, Poundmaster, requested that his men be allowed to work 48 hours a week instead of the present 44 hours. He said they worked overtime Sunday, but not yesterday, when they picked up 24 stragglers. The rainy weather accounted for the decrease in the number picked up, it was said.

Asked for More Men

Marks also said that in his 1945 budget, he had requested two extra men and an extra truck. At present he is using an additional truck borrowed from another department.

The present roundup of stray and unmuzzled dogs brought a statement from the Washington Humane Society yesterday. The society stated that "many unfortunate creatures, finding themselves recklessly pursued and ruthlessly hunted down, become terror stricken and bite their pursuers, whereupon they are pronounced mad and become innocent victims of man's unreasoning wrath." They did not minimize the seriousness of the present condition, however.

Milo Denlinger, owner of the Dog Hotel, 7344 Georgia ave. nw., reported yesterday that he had from 700 to 800 muzzles for sale. He said he has already sold 150 muzzles since Sunday and has been swamped with requests.

Reds Advance on Krivoi Rog as Nazis Flee in Disorder to Escape Trap concentrations of German troops fleeing the Dnieper Bend, the war bulletin said. The German retreat westward is toward the Bug River in southern Russia.

The large German armies half-trapped in the great Dnieper Bend fell back in two main sectors before the victorious Russians, who advanced up to 9 miles southwest of Dniepropetrovsk, and according to a Berlin dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet, already are in the outskirts of Krivoi Rog.

A few miles northwest of Krivoi Rog the Russians, according to a Moscow radio broadcast, were already within 15 miles of the Znamenka-Nikolayev north-south railway which the Nazis are battling desperately to hold for evacuation from the Red army's closing Dnieper noose.

The Germans made no effort to conceal the gravity of the plight of their armies in southern Russia. The German High Command acknowledged penetrations in the Melitopol sector after fierce battles, and said only that "some" were sealed off, thus implying that others were not.

Although the Russians reported only reconnaissance and artillery action on sectors other than those in the south, Berlin said that the Red army had launched an attack "on a broad front" west of Krichev in White Russia, a front about which Moscow has been relatively silent lately—perhaps in preparation for an announcement of a big breakthrough.

Funeral Tomorrow For Mrs. Jones Cox

Funeral services for Mrs. Jones Cox of Alexandria, who was reported by City Coroner John A. Sims to have committed suicide by drowning in a bathtub Monday, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at her home, 5 Rosemont ave. The Rev. Crowley Appoints Economic Staff

By the Associated Press

Three major Government agencies—the Lend-Lease Administration and the Offices of Economic Warfare and Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation—were abolished as entities yesterday with announcement of Leo T. Crowley's setup in the new Foreign Economic Administration.

They were not even retained as identifiable divisions.

In addition, FEA takes over foreign procurement activities of the Commodity Credit Corp. and "such parts of the Office of Foreign Economic Coordination as may be transferred by the State Department."

Crowley, the head of the month-old FEA, drew heavily on personnel of the absorbed agencies in setting up the new organization, but he brought five new faces to center stage in the Washington scene, two of them from New York City's comptroller's office.

Named as part-time consultants were Joseph D. McGoldrick, New York City comptroller, and McGoldrick's aide, Joseph M. Cunningham, together with Samuel Zemurray and Arthur Pollan, both United Fruit Co. executives.

In addition, he appointed William H. Schubart, senior vice president of the Bank of Manhattan Co. of New York, as director of supplies of the new organization—a post charged with responsibility for all export and import controls, including lend-lease shipments and foreign procurement and development.

A second directorship—of area—went to James L. McCamy, former assistant director of the Office of Economic Warfare, who will be responsible for coordinating all activities abroad.

Bernhard Knollenberg will serve as executive adviser to the administrator, John Carter Vincent as acting special assistant, Oscar Cox as general counsel, and John Pratt, William Griffin, Philip Young, Arthur B. Van Buskirk and John F. Dirks as assistants to the administrator.

The policy-making section of the OFEC will be retained by the State Department as a means of effecting the liaison Crowley said had been arranged between his organization and the State Department.

In that connection Acting Secretary of State Stettinius told a press conference that Assistant Secretary Dean Acheson, head of OFEC, will remain in charge of economic liaison.

Under terms of the executive order creating the FEA last month, Crowley was directed to work within the framework of foreign policy to be determined by Secretary of State Hull.

Crowley named two deputy administrators to work directly under him. One is Lauchlin Currie, one of President Roosevelt's "anonymous assistants" whom he had borrowed previously to aid him as OEW director.

The other is Henry W. Riley, a South Carolinian long associated with Crowley as chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and alien property custodian.

Yesterday's reorganization affects some 4400 employes, but one official said that while overlapping functions will be eliminated the new agency probably will broaden its activities sufficiently to absorb any displaced personnel.

Schubart's bureau of supplies, in addition to importing rstategic materials and doing preclusive buying abroad, will assemble and screen all foreign requirements and will be responsible, Crowley said, for the presentation of requirements

The bureau of areas under McCamy will embrace three branches:

1. The liberated areas branch to be responsible for the development of economic plans and operation plans on behalf of the United States and to assist the military services and the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

2. The enemy areas branch which will include responsibility for programs and activities looking toward operations in enemy countries.

3. The general areas branch which will be responsible for the development ond coordination of programs and operations for all countries not included in liberated or enemy areas.

15 Nonoperating Railroad Unions Ordered to Vote on Strike

By the Associated Press

Chiefs of the 15 nonoperating railroad unions last night ordered a strike ballot among their 1,097,000 members. The ballot was made returnable November 25.

The operating brotherhoods, meeting in Chicago last week, also authorized a strike ballot.

Simultaneously rail-union chiefs made public a report to their membership charging that President Roosevelt made promises to them which he failed to keep as a result of "arbitrary and capricious" actions taken by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

Delays Cited in Report

Specifically, the report stated that President Roosevelt persuaded the union heads to accept an 8-cents-an-hour wage increase award at a White House conference on May 27, even though it was a "disappointment," but that Vinson subsequently acted to prevent it from going into effect on stabilization grounds.

Then, the report said, at the suggestion of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, the unions negotiated a contract with the carriers calling for the same 8 cents an hour increase, but has not gone into effect because government approval has been lacking.

On September 16, the report said, President Roosevelt offered to grant a 10 cents an hour increase to lower-paid workers, tapered down to 7 cents in the higher brackets. The following day, a White House secretary informed the union officials that the President, after reviewing the matter with Byrnes and Vinson, had decided to wait until the board considering the wage demands of operating workers had made its report.

On October 12, the union officials said, they conferred with the President, who informed them that higher-bracket rates would have to be tapered to 4 cents an hour—the same amount awarded the operating employes. The nonoperating workers demanded a 20-cents-an-hour wage boost last December.

The nonoperating chiefs, in a statement, said they saw no other way except through a strike vote, to secure a "satisfactory wage increase."

"It would be a neglect of our duty if, by failure to take concerted action and to allay growing dissatisfaction, we permitted the interest of the employes and the public interest to be injured by increasing individual discouragement which results in the drifting of large numbers of employes out of service of this essential war industry and also results in sporadic unauthorized strikes harmful alike to the employes, the carriers and the effective prosecution of the war," said the statement of the nonoperating brotherhoods.

The instructions to go out with the strike ballot cautioned members of the unions that no strike must take place until authorized.

"It must be further understood," the instructions say, "that no strike will occur until all reasonable efforts to secure an acceptable settlement have been exhausted."

FOR THE BOSS AND THE LITTLE WOMAN:

Have you ever been late for work or dinner because a street car "pulled a plow" or a "conductor-bar" failed and tied up the line? Of course, you can explain the delays to your boss and be excused; but letting the dinner get cold is another matter—the little woman deserves better treatment.

Plow delays are not new to Washington. We have had them since Old Dobbin gave way to the underground electric system. In 1935 we operated 19,000,000 car miles and had 2,400 plow delays, an average of 126 delays per million car miles. For the first nine months of this year we operated over 19,370,000 car miles and totaled only 523 plow delays, an average of 27 delays per million miles. Since the war we have had difficulty in obtaining first quality rubber tape and copper lead cables necessary to good maintenance. With our fingers crossed, application of American ingenuity, plus experience, our good record has continued but there are expectations that plow delays may increase.

Conductor-bar and cable failures are brought about by the larger number of street cars operated and the greater power required for streamlined cars. Back in 1941, our electrical experts studied the problem and tried to forecast our war-time load. They came up with 23 "redesigning" steps. Close to $80,000 was spent last year and by the end of this year we will have expended another $300,000 on copper cables, etc., to complete the most important half of the total project. Copper for cables and other electrical equipment has gone to war. Frankly, we don't know when we will get the rest of the needed material.

There will still be delays, still a lot more explaining to the boss and the little woman. In the meantime, our Engineering Department and outside experts are pursuing their studies to remedy the situation. They don't expect perfection but we are out to maintain our record and cut plow delays and conductor-bar failures to a minimum.

Julia says—

GIVE A HALLOWE'EN PARTY

OF COURSE we all know there's a war on—but in a way the war makes it even more important that we give the children a chance to observe Hallowe'en in a fitting manner. It seems to me the youngsters definitely feel, even if they aren't aware of it, the tension and excitement of war-time living. And it's a lot wiser to have them celebrate the Witches' Eve right in the home than to let them roam around the streets where there's always a possibility of their getting into trouble on Hallowe'en.

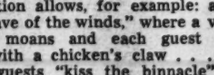
Why not suggest the theme of a special party for them, let them work out the details themselves and have their friends in for an exciting (but safe) evening?

For instance, a Pirates' Party! Let the invitations be written in blood-red ink . . . decorate with skull and bones . . . warn of spooks . . . insist that every guest wear some part of a pirate costume.

. . . costume details could include: fierce false mustaches . . . bandanas tied on the head pirate-style . . . cardboard rings in ears . . . black patch on eye . . . house decorations may involve: paper skulls . . . skeletons . . . bones . . . red lights or candles.

. . . entertainment can be as varied as imagination allows, for example: a darkened "cave of the winds," where a vacuum cleaner moans and each guest shakes hands with a chicken's claw . . . blindfolded guests "kiss the binnacle" three times, twice kissing a tin pan but the third time dipping the face into a bowl of flour . . . "walking the plank" (the plank is held just free of the floor while the young guest, blindfolded, climbs onto it; the plank is rocked while the guest is told to walk forward on it, over deep water; then the guest is made to jump and finds he was still only three inches over the floor!) . . .

. . . the treasure," of course, is exciting Hallowe'en refreshment, and here are some suggestions:



Evil-Eye Sandwiches
(Peanut Butter and Jelly or Jam, in Hallowe'en Cut Outs)

Grog
(Hot Chocolate or Cocoa)

Pieces of Eight
(Molasses Jack-o'-Lantern Cookies)

Cannon Balls
(Popcorn or Popcorn Balls)

And by the time that's all over, it's too late to get into trouble, outdoors!

proved the counterproposal in principle, but believed that the board acted with insufficient data on the exact amount of travel time called for under the agreement.

Davis explained that the proposal would increase basic wages for a six-day week by about $10 a week from $45.50 to $55.50. Since most miners generally earn more than basic wages, an average miner could expect $60 for a six-day week, Davis said. The miners' work week would total 51 hours under this plan, excluding lunch periods, or 54 hours a week including lunch periods.

Lewis Won't Comment

Lewis, reached at his home, declined to comment on the board's action, but K. C. Adams, UMW spokesman authorized the following quotation:

"You can say that the War Labor Board members have sinned away their day of grace."

Striking miners have intimated that they walked out because of the union's "no contract, no work" policy, and the number out increased considerably when intimations of the board action were reported.

Acceptance by the miners of the board counterproposal would not end the coal wage dispute, observers pointed out, because the question of applying the formula to the 90 per cent of the soft coal industry outside of Illinois and the entire Pennsylvania anthracite industry would still remain.

Legal Liability

Davis said the board's proposal would take care of any legal liability to pay for underground travel time which might exist under the Fair Labor Standards Act, with about $1.25 a week extra included to discharge this obligation.

Employer Member George Mead stated that he voted for the proposal with the understanding that the board would consider any additional data presented before extending the proposal to other coal-producing areas.

Labor Member Robert J. Watt, representing the AFL, stated that he dissented because of his belief that "a mine worker is at work whenever he reports to work under the direction of his employer and should be paid for all such time."

CIO Labor Member Van A. Bittner said, "Now that the board has rendered its decision in this case, I trust it will settle the controversy in the mining industry so that we can have continued production of coal, at least for the duration of the war."

Mary E. Murphy Dies; Prayer Service Tonight

Mrs. Mary E. Murphy, 89, widow of Timothy J. Murphy, died yesterday at her home, 4712 Butterworth pl. nw., after a month's illness.

Born in Wales, Mrs. Murphy came to this country during childhood. She lived in Rutland, Vt., until moving to Washington 20 years ago. Prayer services will be held at 8:30 tonight at her residence. Funeral services will be conducted Friday morning in Rutland, followed by burial in that city.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. W. F. Burke of Rutland, Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, Miss Joan Murphy, and Lieut. Agnes Murphy of the Women's Army Corps, all of Washington.

Masked Man Kills Physician, Wife in Bed at Home

Lubbock, Tex., Oct. 26 (AP).—Dr. Roy Hunt, 37, wounded in a sensational shooting last year, and his wife Mary were found slain in their bed today at Littlefield, Tex.

Their 6-year-old daughter, Joe Ann, told officers that a masked man, wearing gloves, killed her parents and placed her in a closet.

Their arms and legs were bound with metal coat hangers and rope and officers said their bodies were "in a condition so horrible as to defy description."

Dr. Hunt, 37, was the central figure in a shooting last year for which Dr. William R. Newton of Cameron, Tex., was given a seven-year sentence. Mrs. Newton is under indictment and awaiting trial. Dr. Newton is free on appeal bond.

Officers said the Hunts evidently were slain by a professional killer.

Dr. Hunt, prominent Littlefield physician, on May 21, 1942 staggered into his own hospital and clinic suffering from two gunshot wounds. Later charged with assault with intent to murder were Dr. Newton, member of a prominent central Texas family and son of a late physician-State senator, and Mrs. Newton.

At Dr. Newton's trial, Dr. Hunt testified that he and Mrs. Newton were friends before their marriage, while she was a nurse at a Houston hospital where he was an interne.

The Hunt's 8-year-old daughter, Joe Ann, found their bodies and raised an alarm. A second daughter, Jane, 2, was sleeping in a nearby room.

Mrs. Hunt, also a former nurse at the Houston hospital, was about 26 years old.

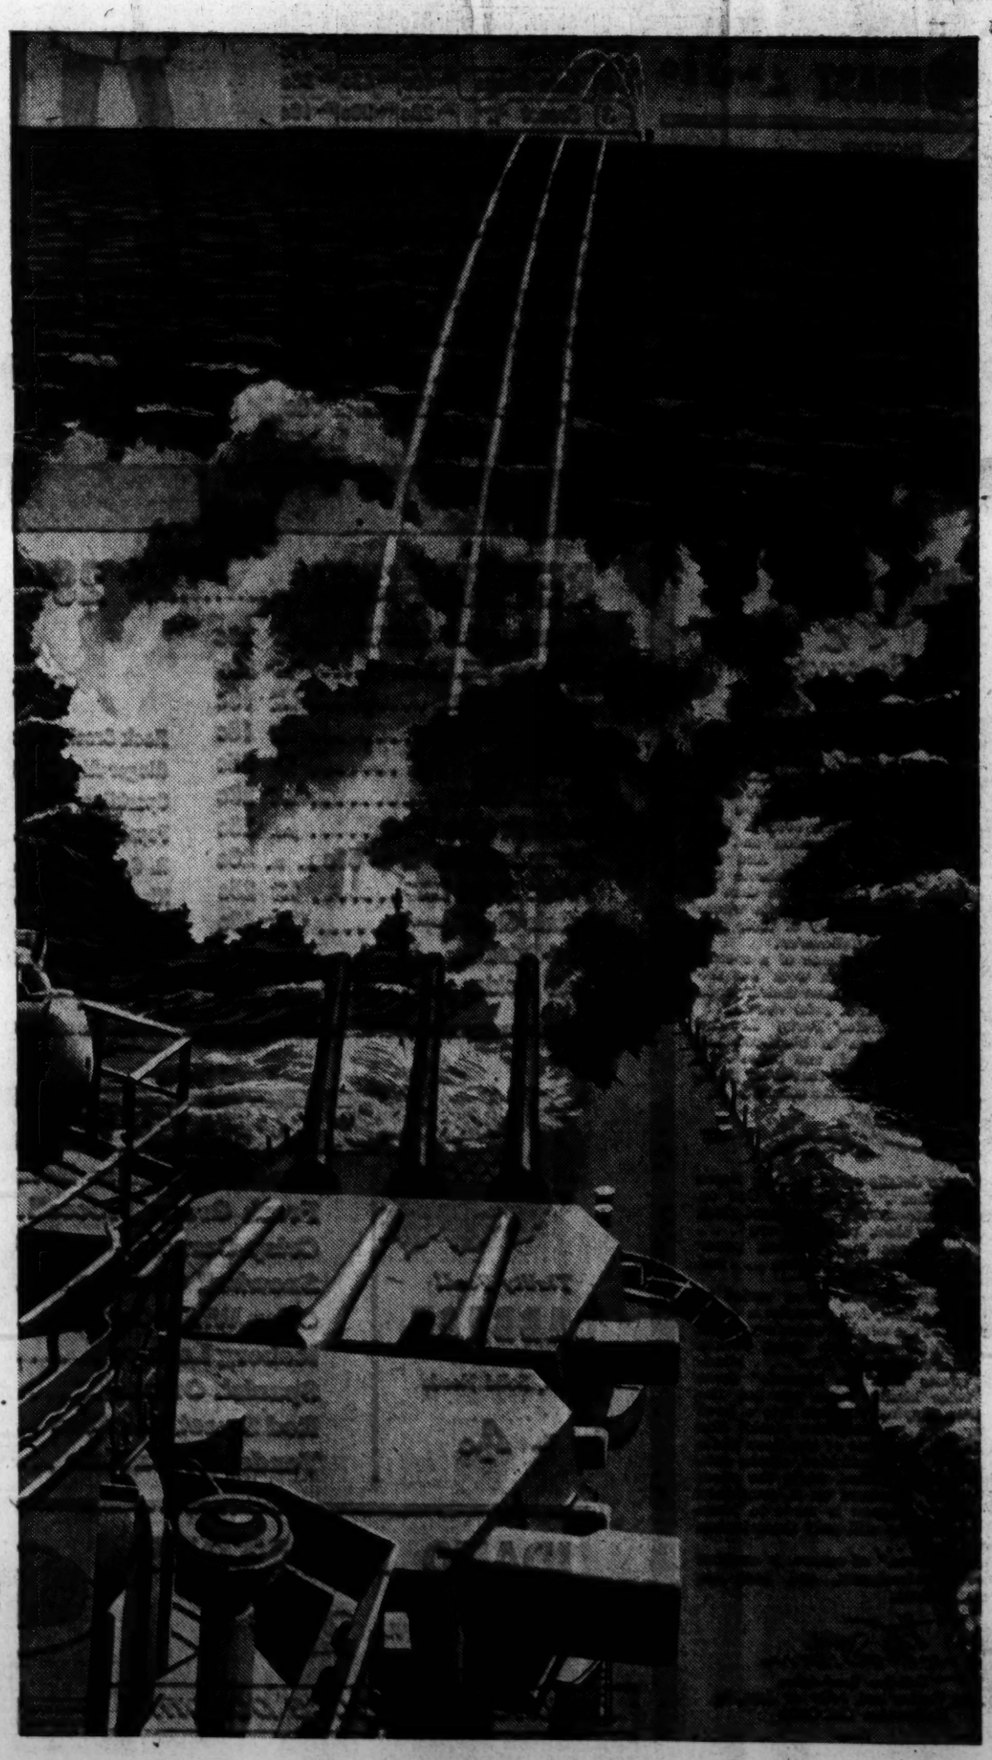
18 MILES AWAY!



How was this done? What made it possible?

TO HIT AN ENEMY SHIP miles away, from a rolling, pitching warship, involves complex problems, the complete answers to which are known only by our naval personnel and by a small group of companies specializing in such problems.

Here are a few of the factors which enter into the solution of these problems:

1. Direction and speed of enemy ship.
2. Direction and speed of our ship.
3. Distance to enemy ship.
4. Time required for shell to travel to enemy.

Furthermore, the shell travels in a curve, its true course being affected by many things, such as:

5. The rotation of the earth.
6. Direction and velocity of wind.
7. Weight, shape, and velocity of shell.

The answer, which takes into account these and other problems, must be available immediately, since both our ship and the enemy ship are on the move.

Our Navy must know where the enemy ship will be when our shells arrive, many seconds or even a minute after leaving the guns. And to get our shells to arrive at this precise spot, the angle of gun elevation, lead, and all other factors must be calculated with unbelievable accuracy, and the gun put into correct firing position.

The present mechanical marvel, called fire control, which solves these problems, involves among other things the use of hydraulics, optics, calculating machines, and electronics. Naturally, it did not spring into being overnight.

It is the result of years of inventive development by companies like Sperry, co-operating fully with and receiving full co-operation from the Armed Forces.

Since it takes so many years to perfect such equipment, the development work, engineering, and testing had to be completed during peacetime.

Otherwise there would have been no equipment ready when war came.

All this took large sums of money and the best efforts of highly trained, specialized engineers.

In addition to the development of many peacetime devices, Sperry companies have specialized in the creation and manufacture of fire-control equipment for the Navy since 1908.

The United States Navy leads the world in accuracy and speed of gunfire.

'Portal' Pay Granted ABW Bus Drivers

"Portal-to-portal" pay for bus drivers of the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co., in the form of half pay for the time they are required to report for duty until they actually start working, was granted by the National War Labor Board yesterday when it approved a wage agreement between the company and the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, AFL.

The agreement, which affects about 450 employes, also provides for increased vacation allowances, overtime pay and safety bonuses.

"Extra" bus drivers will receive half their regular hourly pay when the company requires them to be at hand, under the agreement, and time-and-one-half will be paid to bus drivers who make trips in addition to their regular assigned runs.

After a year of service, employes are entitled to one week's paid vacation, according to the new provisions. A second week of vacation will be granted to employes with five years of service or more in the form of double pay for the week rather than time off.

The safety bonuses, agreed upon by the company and the union, take the form of uniform equipment and will be granted to drivers for outstanding safety records. The WLB limited these awards to $28.25 in money value for one driver per year.

Apple Famine In D. C. Laid To OPA Prices

The virtual disappearance of apples from the Washington produce market has been caused by price ceilings imposed by the Office of Price Administration Friday, a poll of wholesale fruit dealers here indicated yesterday.

Although a small quantity of apples was still on the shelves of Washington retailers, the market report from the Department of Agriculture said for the second consecutive day that there were "practically no supplies of apples."

Many Apples Sold

Growers sold a great quantity of apples ahead of the ceiling deadline last Friday, Porter R. Taylor, executive secretary of the Cooperative Fruit and Vegetable Association, said yesterday, and they are presumably holding back additional supplies until November 1, when the sliding scale instituted by OPA will allow them a slightly better price, he said.

Taylor said that the October ceiling is 7⅛ cents a pound to the retailer, who is in turn allowed a 33 per cent markup. The November price, under the OPA order, will be 7½ cents, an increase of about 15 cents per bushel.

A similar boost has been ruled for December, Taylor added. He stressed that no price difference for various qualities has been allowed by the OPA.

Smaller Crop This Year

Considering the fact that this year's apple crop is only about 70 per cent of last year's and far below normal, Taylor said, growers are in no hurry to sell their limited stock. Apples can be kept in cold storage until next spring.

Apple prices were about 50 cents to a dollar a bushel higher before the new ceiling prices went into effect, Taylor said. As an indication of how far apart the OPA and the fruit growers are, Taylor cited the conferences which have been under way between the Government and fruit producers and dealers, and which resulted in the proposal of a 12½ cents ceiling per pound, more than 5 cents more than granted by OPA.

Freight Subsidy

The War Food Administration announced a subsidy for apple shippers Saturday which would give dealers here "about a 1-cent rebate on freight" for imported Northwestern apples, according to Taylor.

Although declining to comment on the efficiency of this subsidy, "because it has been in operation for only a couple of days," Taylor declared flatly that "without a subsidy the shipping of apples from the Northwestern States to the area east of the Mississippi would be impossible."

A substantial part of apples consumed in this area comes from Washington State, Oregon and Idaho, although it is impossible to indicate the exact quantity.

Present FOB shipping price ceiling in these states and in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New York, the seven main apple producing States, is 5¾ cents a pound. Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey, which are considered minor apple producers, are not included in this ceiling and can therefore sell at the 7⅛ cents price, Taylor said.

"The OPA can't say that we didn't predict this to happen," Taylor declared when asked to comment on the apple famine.

Senate Committee Approves Bill on Bond Advertising

The Senate Banking Committee approved yesterday by a vote of 11 to 5 the Bankhead bill authorizing the Treasury to spend up to 30 million dollars annually for war bond advertising in newspapers.

Only one minor amendment, providing that the advertising be placed at prevailing space rates, was inserted in the bill.

Senator Bankhead (Democrat) of Alabama said he would seek to call the bill up for consideration of the full Senate "without delay."

SUN'S NEWEST AVIATION FUEL PLANT DEDICATED TODAY!

Today Sunoco proudly dedicates a huge new aviation gasoline plant, the largest of its type in existence. In this self-contained plant, all petroleum components of aviation gasoline are produced and blended into the finest 100-octane fighting fuel.

The new plant, added to the giant facilities already in operation, makes our Marcus Hook refinery one of the largest producers of 100-octane aviation fuel in the world.

Sunoco Made Catalytic Cracking Commercially Practical

Sunoco's leadership really began long before Pearl Harbor, when the company first made commercially practical a now-famous process of catalytic cracking. No greater contribution has been made to the war effort. For, without the principle of catalytic cracking, Allied aviation fuel requirements could not have been met.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Sunoco's entire aviation fuel program has been accomplished without government aid or subsidy. Facilities costing more than 36 million dollars are now devoted to war production in the company's Marcus Hook refinery alone. It is only through such free play of private initiative that all American progress has been achieved.

Old Struggle Between Butter And Oleo Is Renewed in House

In a wartime setting, and with everybody in the audience conscious of the 16 ration points required for a pound of "America's favorite dairy product," the House Agriculture Committee yesterday raised the curtain on a 57-year-old congressional drama entitled "Oleomargarine versus Butter."

By staging the controversy while guns are still firing and fats are at a premium, it was immediately charged by Representative Andresen (Republican) of Minnesota Chairman Fulmer (Democrat) of South Carolina broke a truce with approximately five million farmers opposed to lifting restrictions on sale of the food "that wants to look like butter."

If margarine must be sold in other than its natural white state, Andresen queried, why can't it be colored red rather than yellow?

Promptly Challenged

Dr. A. J. Carlson, biologist from the University of Chicago, who had the floor at the time, replied: "Just try coloring butter red and see if anyone will eat it."

Carlson said he considered a tax against margarine a "tax against the common man," expressed belief there should be an abundant market at all times for both butter and its "substitute," and declared he was certain the two are equal in digestibility and nutrition.

"I'm talking about good margarine and good butter. There are many grades of butter and many of them have coloring and flavoring added, as all nutritionists know. But these additions do not have to be marked and certainly they are not taxed," he said.

LaGuardia To Testify

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia will appear before the committee this morning to speak in behalf of margarine and other friends of the product will speak until November 15, when the opposition will have its inning.

Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation—lamenting the hearing—declared it threatened to split the farm bloc wide open and would start a bitterness that would be reflected in the food subsidy fight already a-brewing.

"A fight about margarine and butter is just like a fight in a small country church," he said. "The church is all but torn down when the fracas is over. This thing started in 1876 and will be going on for many years yet."

Chairman Fulmer's bill calls for a removal of the Federal restrictions against the sale of margarine. The restrictions are numerous. They include a tax of 10 cents a pound on margarine with the color already in it, a tax of one-fourth a cent a pound on the uncolored variety, an annual tax of $600 on each manufacturer, an annual tax of $480 on wholesalers of colored margarine, an annual tax of $200 on wholesalers of uncolored, a tax of $48 a year on retailers of colored, and $6 a year on retailers of the uncolored.

If these Federal restrictions are removed, there still will be restrictions imposed in 32 States—for margarine has long been a product about which nobody was "neutral."

It is now fortified by Vitamins A and D, but the dairy industry declares it is not a "fair competitor" and strenuously objects to its "trying to masquerade as butter."

OES Sets Up Price Control On Live Cattle

By Christine Sadler

The Office of Economic Stabilization yesterday established price control over live cattle by setting a range of prices for various grades of animals and directing subsidy payments on beef be curtailed to processors paying outside the range.

In the same directive, the squeeze on small slaughterers was removed by granting them a bonus of approximately $10 per animal handled and the flat $1.10 per hundredweight subsidy for all grades of cattle was replaced by a graduated subsidy ranging from 50 cents per hundredweight on the lowest grade of cattle to $1.40 on the highest.

The directive settled a long-standing dispute between the Office of Price Administration and the War Food Administration and presumably answered arguments of Congress that a price ceiling on live cattle would be "unworkable" by having the cattle graded in the carcass rather than on the hoof.

The range of prices was left flexible enough, it was believed by officials, to enable cattle buyers to operate satisfactorily and to make up their losses—if any—within a workable period of time.

Prices set, Chicago base, were: Choice grade, $15 to $16 per hundredweight; good, $14.25 to $15.25; medium, $12 to $13; common, $10 to $11; cutter and canner, $7.45 to $8.45.

Prices between grades were arranged to encourage feeding of animals up to the A grade, and it was believed would result in many more animals going to feeders and thus eliminate the prevalent slaughtering of "skinny animals." On the other hand, the difference in prices between good and choice animals was left slight to discourage excessive feeding and finishing—which is considered by WFA to be too expensive in wartime and with a feed shortage on hand.

Wilbur LaRoe, counsel for the National Independent Meat Packers Association, declared: "This order helps to relieve the price squeeze, especially as to those who slaughter but do not process, but it gives very slight relief, if any, to packers who are also processors.

"Apparently the Government expects packers to make up on their sausage what they lose on the slaughter of beef. Our contention is that the law requires a fair margin on beef standing alone," he said.

He said the $80 bonus to slaughterers who do not process would relieve the worst price squeeze existing below retail beef levels. Also, he said the price ranges would encourage feeding of animals to grades more suited for marketing.

Visiting Clergy To Address High Schools

Several visiting clergy in the city-wide Baptist evangelistic campaign will address high schools here today at 9:30 a. m.

Dr. Roland Q. Leavell of Tampa, Fla., general campaign director, will speak at Roosevelt; Dr. Douglas Hudgins of Houston, Tex., at Eastern, and Dr. William Ward Ayer of New York City, at Central.

Approximately 53,600 persons have attended special services in Washington and nearby Baptist churches in the first nine days of the campaign, the Rev. James P. Rodgers, chairman of the local steering committee, declared last night.

The Rev. James P. Rodges, pastor of the Petworth Baptist Church, estimated that 500 new members have become affiliated with the co-operating 30 churches since the drive began, and 236 persons have been baptized. The two weeks' drive will be climaxed Sunday night with special baptismal services in cooperating churches.

Baptist ministers' wives were guests at the daily breakfast yesterday at the YWCA, 614 E st. nw. Another breakfast session is set for today at 8:45 a. m. Nightly services are continuing in all the Baptist churches and most of them are planning special programs for this Sunday to wind up the cooperative endeavor.

Without Painful Backaching

Many ordinary colds cause backache suddenly, when they disturb the kidneys. Your kidneys are filters. They help purify the blood by taking out poisonous waste matter. You can't feel them working. The kidneys are filters—not bladders. But you may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, tired, all worn out—when the trouble is caused by functional kidney disorder. Don't neglect such conditions. Use Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

TIRE EASILY? LACK ENDURANCE? NO PEP?

Do you wake up in the morning as tired as if you hadn't slept a wink? . . . Do you feel weak and pepless—all rundown? . . . Are your nerves on edge—your appetite poor? Then why—oh, why—don't you do something about it?

Often when people feel that way, it's because their blood is low in iron! If that's your trouble, good old Gude's Pepto-Mangan may be just what you need to help you get back your strength and endurance.

Pepto-Mangan replenishes whatever iron the blood may be lacking—helps to give it that rich redness which is so essential for radiant pep, vigor and vitality. Many doctors prescribe it for convalescents after illness and operations, and for pale, rundown and growing children whose blood is deficient in iron.

Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists with a money-back guarantee of satisfaction! Ask for the original and only Gude's Pepto-Mangan!

A U. S. NAVY KINGFISHER (above) observation plane lands in a spray of foam at an East Coast Naval Air Station. Known as "The Eyes of the Navy," the KINGFISHER'S principal duty is to scout and spot gunfire for the fleet, when catapulted from cruisers or battleships. It is also used for anti-submarine operations along the coast. Note the long after "greenhouse" to give maximum visibility to the observer.

11 Red Cross Aides Go Overseas

Eleven District area men and women with the Red Cross Field Service have arrived safely at stations overseas, National Red Cross headquarters announced yesterday. They were among 179 sent to hospitals, Army camps, and Red Cross offices in England, Australia, British Guiana, Egypt, North Africa, Hawaii, the Panama Canal Zone and Greenland.

Arriving in England were Mrs. Shirley Adams Alexander, 1826 Harvard st. nw.; Miss Cynthia Anderson, 3133 Connecticut ave. nw.; Claude E. Miller, 1355 Peabody st. nw.; Miss Clara Windham, 4604 Chase ave., Bethesda, Md., and Lucy Monroe, 3101 North Glebe rd., Arlington.

Two Reach Hawaii

Leonard W. Calvert of 4910 River rd., Friendship Station, D. C., and Herbert E. Walter of 4225 49th st. nw., reached Hawaii, and Miss Janis Goodman of 2000 16th st. nw., arrived at the Canal Zone. Sent to North Africa were Miss Florence Kantor of 2032 Belmont rd., I. Benjamin Parrill of 3415 38th st. nw., and Thomas N. Smith of 412 Warwick pl., Chevy Chase, Md.

Mrs. Alexander, who was formerly employed by Julius Garfinckle, Inc., and Miss Anderson, daughter of Capt. Lorain Anderson, USN, will serve as staff assistants. Claude Miller, appointed assistant field director for the Red Cross, was formerly a sales agent for the Mutual Life Insurance Co. Miss Windham, who was with the Civilian Defense Volunteers, and Miss Moore, employed in the office of Dr. Chaphain P. King, will become hospital secretaries.

Assistant Field Directors

Calvert, an insurance agent, and Walter will take over the duties of Red Cross Assistant Field Director, and Miss Goodman will be stationed at a hospital. Until his Red Cross appointment, Walter was business manager and treasurer of American University. He is a veteran of the First World War and a graduate of Roosevelt High School and Benjamin Franklin University. Miss Goodman was formerly a War Department employe.

Before joining the Red Cross as a hospital secretary, Miss Kantor was with the War Production Board and the Department of Agriculture.

Parrill, who will serve as an accountant with the Red Cross, was employed in a supervisory capacity by Government departments here.

Smith, until his overseas appointment, was assistant chief of personnel services to the armed forces at Red Cross national headquarters. He will serve as a personnel director in North Africa.

Stair Collapse Kills 38

Merida, Mexico, Oct. 26 (AP).—The collapse of a stone stairway in front of a church during an impromptu bullfight yesterday killed at least 38 persons and left more than 100 injured in Izamal, 40 miles from this city, authorities said today.

Jewish Refugee Woman Gives 10th Pint of Blood

Mrs. Karl Darmstaedter, Jewish refugee from Nazi Germany, wanted to aid the Allied war effort. Language difficulties and an alien status prevented her from getting a war job. Then a year and a half ago, she heard about the Red Cross Blood Donor Center and contributed a pint of blood.

Mrs. Dormstaedter

She has been donating ever since, a pint every two months, as frequently as the Red Cross permits. This week she made her tenth contribution and considers it a privilege.

"I do what I can in appreciation for having found a home in the United States," she commented. "A pint of blood is such a small gift, but it is one that I can make."

With her husband, Karl Darmstaedter, and two sons, she escaped from Germany into Holland in 1939 during the Jewish persecutions. In Holland for a year, the family made its way to America through the assistance of Maj. and Mrs. Louis T. Nathan, 1700 Taylor st. nw., and came to Washington to live. Formerly a teacher of languages in a state high school in Mannheim, Germany, her husband found work here as a private tutor. Her oldest son, Henry, 19, is now a private in the Medical Corps, in training at Camp Grant, Ill., and Joel, 15, attends Powell Junior High School. The Darmstaedters make their home at 1719 Lanier pl. nw.

Yale Professor Defends Esquire On Sex and Art

By the Associated Press

Esquire magazine's emphasis on sex was defended Monday by a Yale psychiatrist who declared "there is nothing indecent about sex."

Dr. Clements C. Fry acknowledged that such reading material offends some people, but "there are some people who won't talk about anything." It is "unfortunate," he said, that sex is not regarded by most people as a normal topic for conversation.

When the average Yale man looks at a Varga girl drawing, Fry said, he exclaims, "There's something pretty nice, boys!" and may be stimulated romantically. However, Fry added, the drawings will not give Yale men any ideas they do not already have.

The professor was testifying for Esquire at a Postoffice Department hearing to determine whether the magazine's second-class mailing privileges shall be revoked.

CARLOS MOLINA, whose topflight South American orchestra is now at Del Rio

JUSTIN STONE, noted pianist on WEAF, generall rated as the Nation's top radio station, will bring a specially assembled orchestra to the Victory Room on November 5, succeeding Denny Beckner's band. Intriguing angle on the new Stone orchestra is that the Victory Room engagement is expected to get it in perfect trim for a prize radio spot it's due to occupy around Christmas.

Jackie Miles, who's often panicked you and you at the Capitol Theater, will open at Paul Young's next Tuesday. He's said to have refused a role in "Artists and Models" to keep faith with his Washington public.

THE CHATEAU INTERNATIONAL, new room of the Old New Orleans, is due to open around Thanksgiving. The new Tahitian Room of Ruby Foo's should make its debut at about the same time, while the Club Jalna promises to open early in November . . . Manager Garry Gerry of the Old New Orleans plans to make the Chateau Internationale as exclusive as all get-out with admission by card only.

The Washington Newspaper Guild will give a dance in the Hall of Nations of the Washington Hotel on December 2. Music by Washie Bratcher, the blonde bombshell of swing.

CHEERFUL LITTLE EARFULS. Bandleader Bill Grassick of the Metronome Room is beaming because he's finally heard from his brother, Paul, who was taken prisoner at Bataan . . . It's a little late but we've just discovered that Eddy Whitesell, of Pete Macias' band in the Lounge Riviera, took first prize in the Alexandria Victory Garden contest, was subsequently embarrassed to death as he played his accordion atop a parade float . . . Armando of the Copocabana has promised to treat us to a squid (devilfish) dinner. They don't put squid on the Copocabana menu for fear of terrifying the customers. Armando buys it for himself . . . Everyone who's seen Patsy Gallagher at Kavakos' Grill comes back with the same verdict—the gal is a "natural" and one to be scanned by all talent scouts . . . The indirect lighting at the new Windsor Room does flattering things to femme faces . . . Johnny Shaw of the Mayflower Lounge scooped the town on getting the tunes from the new smash hit, "One Touch of Venus."

IVORY TICKLING ANGLES. Vic Nini, pianist at Ciro's, is a musician praised by professional musicians. His ease, power and dexterity make listeners perk their ears with delight . . . Jerry of the Anchor Room has a smooth piano way that's ingratiating . . . Sid Willoughby of Burt's Trans-Lux, is a complete master of the novachord, has taught many another musician the subtler tricks of this complicated instrument . . . Hi Hat's Jack Neal is a veteran ace of the piano, has made a number of popular records . . . Bob Brewer of the King Cole Room is a rare keyboard individualist. He rambles suavely from one tune to another, improvises magically.

It was hard to say whether George Marshall, owner of the Redskins, and the 35,000 spectators at Griffith Stadium on Sunday were more pleased with the football game or Carmen Cavallaro's surprise appearance. Carmen was at his "out of the world" best, played everything from Tschaikowsky to "P. P. Mamma."

FAVORITE TRINKETS. Adrian Rollini now at El Patio has a watch with a rare inscription. It says "From Joan, Barbara, Hannah and Jack," meaning the entire Jack Dempsey family. Needless to say, it was given to Adrian a few seasons ago . . . Leo, the seer of Mayfair, is never without his lucky wishbone tie clasp . . . Maestro Myles Hallett of the Cafe Caprice sports a handsome star sapphire ring . . . Fred Miller, co-owner of Restaurant "823," has a dear little loving cup. It holds five bottles of champagne.

Fingerprint Evidence Not Divulged Until After Arrest of De Marigny

Nassau, Oct. 26 (AP).—A detective who played a leading role in the investigation of Sir Harry Oakes' slaying told today of learning only after Alfred de Marigny was arrested that a fingerprint of the accused son-in-law was found on a screen in the death room.

"Strange," wrote Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly in the records of the Bahamas Supreme Court after Capt. E. W. Melchen said he traveled for 36 hours in the company of a colleague, Capt. James O. Barker, without being told about the fingerprint—the main evidence with which the crown seeks to convict de Marigny of murder.

Relentlessly Cross-Examined

The fact came out during a relentless cross-examination of the stout little American who had testified that there were burned hairs on the defendant's arms after the slaying; that de Marigny could not produce the shirt he told of wearing on the fatal night and that he admitted hatred for his father-in-law.

Barker will take the witness stand tomorrow to give the jury the full story of the print for the first time, but the defense already has been sniping at the evidence.

"I learned about it (the fingerprint) for the first time when Captain Barker told Lady Oakes the afternoon after Sir Harry's funeral," Melchen said.

"During the 36 hours you were traveling together he said nothing to you about that fingerprint?" shouted W. E. A. Callender, defense counsel.

"Nothing whatsoever," the detective replied firmly.

Moment for Prejudice

Asking whether it was proper to tell Lady Eunice Oakes, the widow, the details of the slaying so quick-

The chief justice scolded the added: "I suggest you chose the proper time to prejudice Lady Oakes against the accused."

"That is not so," Melchen said.

The Chief Justice scolded the American for not directly answering questions, and wrote in his longhand account of the proceedings:

"It is strange that Barker did not tell about the fingerprint."

De Marigny, suffering from a cold and sore throat, grinned at the turn the questioning took.

Earlier, Melchen has said that not only De Marigny but also Harold G. Christie—close friend of Sir Harry's—and Harcourt Maura, stable master at Westbourne, the Oakes estate, had been examined with a microscope for burned hairs.

Sticking to his previous story, Melchen said "as many as 3 out of 10" hairs on De Marigny's forearms were singed, curled or destroyed.

While the jury was absent from the courtroom, Melchen conducted an experiment designed to show the scorching power of gasoline, which the Crown had indicated might have been the inflammable agent sprayed on Sir Harry's body.

He ignited a can of gasoline near a lamp and pointed out to the court and the attorneys that the lamp shade was unscorched.

Christie, a house guest at Oakes estate, known as Westbourne, discovered the burned and beaten multimillionaire's body on July 8. Maura had quarreled with Sir Harry.

Callender pounded with his questioning at Melchen's statement that De Marigny failed to produce the shirt he told of wearing the fatal night—a significant failure, the prosecution alleges, because the clothing of the attacker likely would show bloodstains or burns.

The attorney asked whether De Marigny had not displayed many soiled shirts to officers who searched his home.

"The accused found no shirt anywhere in the house like that he described as the one he wore the night before," Melchen replied.

Mosquito Blood

The defense questioning, as frequently it has all through the trial, turned again toward Christie, and Callender asked Melchen to describe the bed Christie told of occupying the night of July 7.

"It had been slept in," replied Melchen. "The sheet had several blood spots, but close examinat on disclosed they were the remains of mosquitoes, and it was concluded the spots resulted from the killing of mosquitoes. There was one blood spot on the pillow, also the remains of a mosquito."

The defense has questioned whether Christie actually remained all night at Westbourne, as he testified he did.

Jurors Inspect Bed Screen

The bed screen was unfolded in court today for inspection by jurors. On it the prosecution charges De Marigny's fingerprint was found.

Referring to Melchen's trip to Maine, Callender asked whether the officer told De Marigny's wife, Nancy, and Lady Oakes that "the assailant slipped into the garage, picked up a stick from a pile of railings in the garage and hit Sir Harry on the head."

"I did not," said Melchen.

"Did you tell them the bed had been sprayed with an insecticide?"

"I didn't name the liquid."

"Did you tell them that Sir Harry was revived by the flames and attempted to fight off his attacker?"

"I did not."

Beret Will Replace British Army Field Cap

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—A new beret type of cap has been approved for the British Army and will replace the field service cap in units not already wearing berets, Sir James Grigg, War Secretary, told Commons today.

Maj. Maurice Petherick, Conservative, complained that the present caps are "not practicable, extremely ugly and often worn on the back of the head, pushing down one ear."

Husband Faces Quiz in N. Y. Wife's Death

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—Assistant District Attorney John Loehr of New York City announced tonight in Toronto that Wayne Lonergan had waived extradition proceedings and will be brought to New York tonight or tomorrow for questioning in connection with the murder last Sunday of his heiress wife, 22-year-old Patricia Burton Lonergan.

Previously, the 26-year-old Royal Canadian Air Force cadet was threatened with a charge of homicide in the bludgeon-slaying if he resisted efforts to extradite him for questioning, Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet said here. Lonergan has steadfastly disclaimed any complicity in his wife's death.

The district attorney's office here reported that medical experts had identified as bits of human flesh material found under the fingernails of the vivacious Mrs. Lonergan after her nude body was discovered Sunday sprawled across a bed in her lavishly-appointed home in Beekman Hills.

Lonergan was wearing civilian clothes and was reported by authorities as having scratches on his face when taken into custody at Toronto. He was quoted as saying he received the scratches in a scuffle with an American soldier at New York who, he said, stole his uniform.

Grumet termed the recitation "a cock and bull story."

"He says it (the uniform) was stolen by an American soldier whom he befriended and had taken to Harjes' (John Frederick Harjes) home, but there is no reason why an American soldier should want a Canadian uniform," Grumet said.

What-Is-It

Senator Tom Connally was irritated by the "heckling" he received at the hands of certain of his fellow Senators in Monday's opening debate on the resolution bearing his name. Actually nobody really tried to heckle him. All that happened was that he was asked a series of polite but pointed questions designed to bring out what, if anything, the Connally resolution really means.

But this was obviously most embarrassing to the distinguished chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. His personal views on American postwar policy—views which he recently expounded at some length and with his accustomed vigor in a speech he made in Texas—are fairly clear cut and quite far-reaching. By temperament and conviction he belongs to the Senate group which wants a strong resolution. As author and sponsor of the Connally resolution, however, the Senator from Texas is not acting in propria persona, but as the bellwether of a motley flock. Obviously the Connally resolution is not designed to be a platform upon which this Nation can stand. It is a Maypole around which isolationists and internationalists alike can dance in fraternal abandon before the gaze of a world vitally interested in knowing where we stand.

Senator Connally's obvious aversion to being questioned on his resolution was, therefore, understandable. For the text of the resolution is so vague in its phraseology as to point in all directions at once. Erstwhile and still unrepentant isolationists like it because it says nothing. Others favor it because, reading it in the light of their own desires, they view it as a pronouncement that definitely looks away from isolation. To say what the resolution really means might antagonize one group or the other.

No wonder, then, that Senator Connally got a bit short-tempered when Senators Burton, Hatch and Pepper applied the Socratic method to the Great Legislative What-Is-It of 1943. One may reasonably suspect that his irritation grew when his colleague, Senator Gillette, essayed the task that the Texas Senator had shied away from. According to Senator Gillette, the phrase "free and sovereign nations" in the Connally resolution might be construed—although he personally did not favor such construction—to exclude members of the British Commonwealth of Nations such as Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and Eire.

Strangely enough, this interpretation was not challenged, though it obviously flies in the face of the facts. By virtue of the Statute of Westminster, the self-governing dominions and Eire are co-equal with Great Britain and, like Great Britain, free and sovereign states. In fact, every one of the dominions entered the war voluntarily, while Eire, exercising its prerogative, remained neutral. On the other hand, under Senator Gillette's interpretation, such nations as Spain, Sweden and Argentina, which sat out the war, would be entitled under the Connally resolution to join with us in the "establishment and maintenance of international authority with power to prevent aggression and preserve the peace of the world."

The fact of the matter is that to define the Connally resolution is to destroy it. To ask what it really means is like asking the promoter of a shell game to tell where the peas are hidden before the bets are laid. A world which wants to know where America really stands will not be fobbed off with such counterfeits of statesmanship.

Rabaul Again

Since they occupied Rabaul early in 1942, the Japanese have built up that New Britain port as their most formidable air and sea base in the South Pacific. That is why it was universally assumed that even after the Allies had wrested New Guinea and the Solomons from the enemy, the capture of Rabaul would still be a costly and difficult task. But such estimates, thanks to air power, can now be revised in our favor. From October 12 to 24 Rabaul has been subjected to a series of devastating raids by Allied air power, the latest involving the use of 300 Allied planes. The result of these raids has been the destruction of 311 enemy aircraft and the probable destruction of many others. In addition, considerable damage has been done to ships, harbor installations and airfields.

Since Allied air power in the South Pacific is growing while Japanese air power is not, it is possible to foresee the day when Rabaul will be sufficiently softened up to make an invasion possible and profitable. In this connection it must be remembered that Japan's air losses are constantly mounting. Today they are probably at a rate beyond her present replacement capacity, for during the past two weeks no fewer than 800 Japanese planes have been shot down or destroyed on the ground. Our own losses have been relatively insignificant.

Navy Day

Perhaps the best sermon on Navy Day, 1943—more eloquent in its way than anything that may be said in course of the celebrations here today—was delivered yesterday in Tokyo. The speaker was no other than Premier Tojo himself. Addressing a special session of the Japanese Diet, Tojo said:

> The enemy (meaning especially the United States), who was defeated at the beginning, is, in fear of the richness of our conquered territory, trying to overwhelm our nation. The enemy is overcoming many difficulties and dangers, and the war is growing in intensity.

Though that is something of a grotesque understatement, it is correct enough in outline.

Yet less than two years ago the United States Navy experienced what seemed one of the most disastrous defeats in all naval history—a defeat comparable in magnitude, and in historical implications, to the destruction of the Persian fleet at Salamis, or of the Invincible Armada in the English Channel, or of the French fleet at Trafalgar. The responsibility for Pearl Harbor certainly does not rest entirely upon the Navy. But certainly it was the Navy that suffered. At a single stroke the Pacific Fleet, representing the bulk of American naval strength, was virtually wiped out. With the destruction a few days later of the British battleship Prince of Wales and the cruiser Repulse off Singapore, and the subsequent destruction of the Dutch fleet in the Java Sea, the Japanese Navy became virtual mistress of the Pacific and possibly the greatest single naval sea power.

Today, exactly 22 months and 20 days after Pearl Harbor, the United States has become the most formidable naval power the world has ever seen. The Navy is immensely stronger than it was on the evening of December 6, 1941, and it will grow in power with each month. Mere figures cannot tell the story, but the number of American naval vessels now in operation is nearly 14 times greater than in 1940 and the number of fighting ships has been pretty nearly doubled. This is after discounting all losses, which, as is well known, have not been negligible. But even greater perhaps than the quantitative increase of power has been the qualitative increase. The firepower of our warships, and especially of the battleships, has been augmented to an almost incredible degree—in the case of one ship, by as much as 1000 per cent. And the planes of the naval air arm, now representing more than a fourth of the entire Navy strength, are admittedly the finest in the world.

Surely history can offer no other example of such a recovery in so short a time. That recovery has been marked, moreover, by many a victory which has more than effaced the disgrace of Pearl Harbor. But the reckoning is to come. The offensive against Japan, no matter what the strategy, must be primarily a Naval offensive. In this conflict, certainly, Japan will have the advantage of position. But whereas our Navy is immeasurably stronger than in 1941, hers is weaker. Thus it is no longer a question of whether victory over Japan is possible, but simply of the cost of victory. In all this it is a bit ironic to recall the controversy which raged throughout the 1920s and 1930s as to whether the Naval construction policy of the United States should be based on a defense of American interests in the Far East against the growing menace of Japan or upon a policy of strictly continental defense. As it turned out, it was neither our statesmen nor our naval expects who resolved this question. It was resolved for us by the Japanese.

New OPA

Little change may be expected in the Office of Price Administration as a result of the appointment of Chester Bowles as Price Administrator in succession to Prentiss M. Brown. Actually Mr. Bowles has been running OPA since August 1. He became general manager in an organizational shake-up which became comprehensive on his assumption of responsibility. Congress in an anti-academic outburst had insisted upon the displacement of theorists by businessmen. A businessman himself, Mr. Bowles doubtless found the task congenial. At any rate, he has changed virtually every department head at the headquarters in Washington. In addition, he has replaced every division head in the price department with men of long practical experience.

This is not the only reform that was demanded before Mr. Bowles came to Washington. Policy as well as personnel changes were indicated. One, of course, goes with the other, and Mr. Bowles' new appointees have been directing those changes. For instance, the clamant need from the standpoint of business was the simplification of rules. This is now going on apace. In the rationing department, for instance, all food-rationing practices and procedures are under review. In this connection Mr. Bowles is abiding strictly by the injunction of Congress requiring consultation with industries before regulations are framed.

In our reference to the resignation of Mr. Brown, we expressed the hope that there would be an end to selling OPA and a concentration on administration. This seems to be Mr. Bowles' objective. It lies at the heart of all his changes. One of these developments which will insure smooth administration is a decentralization of function. New authority has been given the field organization which was formerly held in Washington. This is the way to administer OPA intelligently. Cooperation on the part of business and the consumer public is best assured by the realization that the administrators are living next door to the problems with which they are called upon to deal. We wish Mr. Bowles every success in his administration. Under him OPA has already lived down most of the confusion and demoralization which used to beset it.

Home Front

That there is no such thing as a home front in time of total war is a presidential thesis which has never been sustained by the facts. Certainly there should be a correspondence between home and fighting fronts. In this war we should all feel ourselves part of the fighting front. Actually the spectacle facing this country, as both coal and railroad dislocations are threatened, is a dual and a conflicting one. Abroad the boys are marching irresistibly to victory. At home the front appears to be in the penultimate stage of administrative disintegration.

The outlook is so bleak that the time has gone by for tinkering. There must be a new beginning. In one respect a fresh start is indicated by the dispute between the Comptroller General's office and the War Department on the inflated prices awarded for the war contracts which now make up the bulk of all American business. Here is the root of most of our present administrative ills. Inflation is a phenomenon of those high prices. The fires that are feeding it can be seen in the wage demands which, in the vast majority of cases, are coming from the employers themselves. They are generated by the need to justify high prices with padded costs. If this situation could be remedied, then the pressures would be relieved from the war administration—from the War Labor Board, anxious to maintain wage controls, from the Treasury, anxious to keep inflation in bounds, from the War Manpower Commission, anxious to make maximum use of labor, and from the War Production Board, anxious to stimulate war production. The problem thus requires over-all treatment by Justice Byrnes' OWM.

It must be admitted that a high price structure has been allowed to grow for the very best of reasons. After Pearl Harbor we required war materials, and we required them quickly. If the contracting officers of the War Department have not been as eagle-eyed as they should have been, they could retort that the need of this Nation after Pearl Harbor was haste and more haste. And none could gainsay their contention. Clearly there would have been nothing but delay if all contracts, fixed-price as well as cost-plus, had had to be screened through the General Accounting Office. Procrastination is not unknown at the GAO, nor has that procrastination yielded to the pressures of war. Indeed, examples are available of hairsplitting at GAO which could parallel the instances of waste in the War Department, and in time of war, when time is of the essence, they provide something of an offset. For instance, GAO once held that while the Navy could pay for the hospitalization of British sailors under lend-lease, nevertheless the Navy couldn't pay for burials and removals if the sailors were inconsiderate enough to die.

Haste is still required in turning out war goods. But the very existence of high costs has actually created bottlenecks that are hampering maximum production. When a businessman pads his costs by buying more materials than he needs, he may be diverting materials from somebody who can put them to use immediately. Labor hoarding creates another set of bottlenecks when there is an over-all labor shortage. Accordingly haste in contracting may no longer mean speed in production. On the contrary, output can be and is being retarded.

For this and other reasons action must be taken over the heads of the War Department and the GAO. A ukase only can cut the Gordian knot. Surely it is plain, in view of the predominance of war business in our economic structure, that an imposed cut in prices on war contracts would be a powerful agent in putting the economic system on an even keel. A contractor faced with lower prices would have to study his costs, and, in consequence, would find places where the water might be extracted from his outgo. There would be a real incentive, in other words, for economy and efficiency of production. Yet improvement of procurement to this end seems to be impossible under the present setup of the War Department and the GAO. Since they are at odds, the interposition of a neutral agency should be welcome to both. Since the problem is one which involves not only war contractors but also the suppliers of civilian goods, the workers, and, most importantly, the consumers, it should be treated as part of the program for economic stabilization.

A FALL GARDEN

This is the last time
You will weed this bed,
Let it have its head now.
The spider swings its web
From aster to aster, the last
Marigold spills its seed.

Under the dusty leaf,
The dry stem,
The grasshopper rasps and leaps
For the last time.

Today all things have wings,
The bird, the seeds in flight,
The wind is wildfire; leaves
Flutter, they rise and scatter
Over your garden bed. Better
Let it run away, now,
Let it have its head.

JOYCE HORNER.

Postwar Resolution

By Mark Sullivan

Senate Action

ABOUT THE PENDING Senate resolution, on postwar world organization to preserve peace, there are two expectations. One is that the resolution will not be changed, that the proposed amendments will be voted down. The other is that the resolution, as written, will pass by a non-partisan vote, and by an overwhelming majority.

These expectations arise mainly from certain facts. The resolution was phrased by a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. This subcommittee was tripartisan—five Democrats, two Republicans, one Progressive. The subcommittee has held weekly sessions almost constantly since last March. In phrasing this resolution, the subcommittee had before it, and gave intent study to, some 13 other proposed resolutions, from Senators and members of the House. The subcommittee was in "constant and sympathetic contact with the State Department"; and the present resolution is believed to be in accord with the wish and judgment of the State Department, as to what is best to do at this time. The subcommittee was in constant consultation with responsible spokesmen of our own and other United Nations. A member of the committee, Republican Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, was justified in saying: "I have never known any committee that more constantly or more conscientiously kept to its critical task."

There are many earnest persons who hold that a different resolution would be better than this one. Some have written out what they think the resolution should be. But it is perfectly safe to say that no such person has had the access to information nor the materials for judgment that the Senate subcommittee has had.

THE PRESENT resolution not only reflects the Senate functioning in a nonpartisan way and an otherwise lofty way. It reflects the American Government functioning in the field of foreign relations, as it was meant to function, but has not always done. This resolution is the Senate giving "advice" to the President—in full accord with the Constitution, which says that the President may make treaties "with the advice and consent of the Senate." The "advice" part of that injunction has sometimes been ignored.

After the Great War, President Wilson went to the peace conference at Paris without getting the advice of the Senate, and without the Senate tendering it; and without taking any Senator with him to the conference. When the Senate learned the nature of the treaty (including the League of Nations pact) which Wilson was writing, the Senate at that point undertook to give advice, belatedly—and in the irregular form of a public round robin signed by 39 Senators (6 more than enough to reject a treaty). Wilson, ignoring this irregular advice, went on with the treaty and pact, and submitted them to the Senate written out in minute detail. Thereby the Senate was given only the opportunity for "consent," which it refused. Therefrom followed much grief.

Of that unhappy event, several Democrats who were regretful witnesses, or reluctant participants, in Congress or otherwise in public life, are still active. They include some present official and unofficial advisers of the President—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, James F. Byrnes, Bernard M. Baruch. They include the President himself, who was in Wilson's Cabinet as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Evidently the tragic mistake of a quarter century ago is to be avoided—and adoption by the Senate of the pending resolution, is the first step in the better way.

THE PENDING resolution includes these words: "That the United States, acting through its constitutional processes . . ." This means, and says to the world, including the heads of nations concerned, that whatever is done about postwar international relations must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate. Or, as to some types of agreement, by a majority of the Senate and the House.

The concluding words of the pending resolution, stating the purpose for which all is done, read: ". . . to prevent aggression and to preserve the peace of the world." These words mean that whatever the United States does about postwar international relations, whatever agreement it makes or whatever organization it joins, is to be limited to one purpose only, the preservation of peace. This limitation is highly important. There are proposals for an organization of nations, a federation of the world, or whatnot, which would have functions going beyond, and additional to, the preservation of peace. Some such proposals would have the organization of nations supplant, or overlap upon, functions which now are exercised exclusively by the United States (and other countries) as sovereign nations. If there is to be an organization of nations having functions other than the preservation of peace, it will have to get approval from the Senate by action other than the pending resolution.

One Year Ago

By Paul Schubert

How Times Change

AT THIS time one year ago, the battle of the Alamein Line was on in full fury. We scarcely realized it at the time, but this was one of the turning points of the war, immediately capitalized upon as a British success at Alamein was matched by the Allied landing in northwest Africa early in November, 1942.

Looking back over a year of time, our perspective is far better than is possible as we look at the news of today.

A year ago today, the forces of the Axis still threatened—or seemed to threaten—everywhere. In the fighting of the Mediterranean theater, the big name was Rommel, the crack combat organization was the German Afrika Korps. In daring offensive action, Rommel had pressed close to the Nile Valley. One more successful push, and he would be in Cairo and Alexandria. One more victorious campaign and he would have the Suez Canal and the Red Sea—the oil of the Middle East . . . most ominous threat of all, he would have established a link between the European and Asiatic components of the Axis—

IN RUSSIA, too, the Axis offensive seemed unstoppable. Axis forces were so close to Stalingrad that it seemed they must secure that city's capitulation before winter. German troops were deep into the north Caucasus. Surely by spring at the latest they would have Batum, Baku and Astrakhan, and after that they would drive through to the Persian Gulf, and there would be a second link between the European and Asiatic members of the Axis.

In other words, a year ago today we were thinking in terms of Axis success. We had gotten used to Axis success. War had made us "realists"—but our realism did not include forecasts remotely resembling the events which have actually taken place since the last week of October, 1942.

The battle of the Alamein Line was the first episode of the "turning point" period that put an end to German expansion and saw the Axis European area begin to shrink.

What was responsible for the change of fortune there in the Mediterranean theater?

Was it Montgomery's assumption of the command of the British Eighth Army? Was it the personal equation between Montgomery and Rommel?

Certainly the personal equation had something to do with it—but beyond that, the tools with which Montgomery was able to work and which later were at the service of the British and American allies in northwest Africa and the succeeding Mediterranean combat theaters had a lot to do with it, too.

MONTGOMERY'S ATTACK on the Alamein Line opened with an artillery bombardment. For a distance of 6 miles, the British had a 25-pounder gun every 23 yards. These hundreds of guns opened up simultaneously, pouring a devastating fire upon the enemy positions. Fire power made the advance possible.

Even before the artillery commenced the actual attack, air power made itself felt in concentrated bombings of the German supply line. Some of that air power was American air power. It was in the air that American strength first made itself felt in the Mediterranean theater.

A little later when the battle of armor began, the Germans discovered that the Eighth Army was using American-made General Grant and Sherman tanks as well as British Crusaders. The new tanks were tough.

American-made tank-destroyers also played a part in the armor battles of North Africa.

Apart from all this, there was the question of manpower.

Up to the autumn of 1942, the Mediterranean fighting had seen German-Italian forces on the one hand fighting against British troops on the other. But a year ago, at this hour, American troops were at sea on their way to the invasion of North Africa. And Free French troops were gathered in equatorial Africa for an advance that would ultimately join up with the forces of the Allies.

A year ago today, our American forces were relatively green and inexperienced. What a lot we had to learn!

But we have learned. And we have grown stronger, and more numerous, as well as more experienced.

Fire power, air power, armor power, manpower—all have played a role in this turning-point year. Sea power has enabled us to move our strength to the battle area.

Good generalship, both American and British, has seen to it that our strength was used effectively after it was deployed.

As a result, we look forward to the events of the year to come with a great deal more confidence than we felt a year ago when the Battle of Alamein was going on.

Reply To La Piana

Since Professor La Piana has made a personal issue of my review of the interesting and able book published recently by him and Professor Salvemini on "What to Do With Italy," it would not be good manners on my part to ignore it.

I respect their opinion and their knowledge. Mr. La Piana is entirely within his rights to express his opinion. It differs from my own. I do not feel myself capable of answering categorically the question, "What to Do With Italy"; I do not feel that he has answered it dispassionately and convincingly.

I may be entirely wrong in believing that what to do with any nation has nothing to do with government. It has to do with people, with the inherent dignity of human persons, although the person himself may be unconscious of it, confused, or ignorant. I believe that we Americans are essentially involved in human affairs, inescapably, and that we are in great danger unless we accept and understand that truth of the dignity and inviolability of the person. Forms and methods of government, the physical means of promoting social well-being all that surrounds the life of men, are secondary to this main essential fact. Dr. La Piana does not prove to me that he has the solution in his grasp.

Financing Unions

Apropos of your editorial about Messrs. Kaiser and De Lorenzo, how are the legal staffs, publications and other functions of labor unions, necessary to protect the workers' interests in a peaceful way, to be adequately financed on a long-range basis without compulsory contributions of the members of the bargaining unit under majority rule. Without these contributions, those not contributing will enjoy the benefits of the union's activity without sharing the cost of the protective services.

How long could we operate city governments if only those voluntarily joining civic associations paid for the cost of governing a city? Your statement that "unionism now enjoys a security which is unchallenged and unchallengeable, as an argument against the union shop, is open to question, though your protest against "Caesarism" in labor unions (or in any "private" economic organizations) is certainly appropriate and timely.

Union Leadership

I read with much interest, your editorial regarding the type of leadership of the CIO union which has strangled production at the Brewster plant. That type of leadership seems to be the rule rather than the exception, and if something is not done to curb unions and their leaders, all of them, there will be no end of trouble in this country after the boys return from this terrible war.

As the situation now stands, all plants where unions have bludgeoned their way in, either have or are striving for the closed shop, together with the check-off system, which makes those union goons absolute dictators over the laboring man who is working for a living. The result is that the guarantee under the Constitution of the United States that every man is entitled to "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" is worthless.

The millions of boys who will return from the war will be unable to get work because the unions will hold all the positions when the conversion is made to peacetime manufacturing from war industries, and those who may be fortunate enough to get work will have to join a union and pay a handsome initiation fee plus monthly dues for the privilege to work. Why this condition should be allowed to exist is a mystery in the minds of millions of others in this country and something should be done about it by Congress and every other body of free thinking people.

Make the unions account for every dollar collected, pay taxes as every other organization does, and limit the salary of every leader in every union, and prosecute every grafter in the union ranks. In other words, if we have to have unions, let the Government control them instead of the union controlling the Government. H. H. CHAPMAN.

Franco Spain

While it is difficult for Americans to understand and, consequently, take sides on the complex issues of the Spanish Civil War, a set of simple facts marks General Franco's government as our enemy:

(1) The Germans and Italians trained their troops and perfected their combat techniques on the Spanish battlefields in furthering General Franco's cause;

(2) General Franco has a large body of troops opposing our valiant Russian allies;

(3) At the time of the severest fighting in North Africa, we had to hold an entire army in readiness to combat a possible attack from Spain and Spanish Morocco.

The net effect of these actions is to prolong the war and increase our casualties.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Private Papers Of Private Purkey

Dear Harriet:

Everything is going good and we are capturing whole armies and generals in bed I gess and it all goes to show our boys is good. They got to be good to do what they do, with all the mistakes made by their superiors. The one thing that strikes you before you are in the army six months is the way it has developed the art of misplacing G.I.'s to a science. This comes to mind again on account of I just ran across a man who was a head pharmacist in a big Chicago hospital and what do you think they got him doing here? Driving a truck.

* * * *

He is one of the best pharmacists in the country and one of the worst truck drivers in the world. I know a electrician who has been in the Army a year and he is being used as a baker. And I met a G. I. who was a branch manager of a chain grocery and have they got him doing anytning in the food end? No ma'am. He was tried out as a carpenter, a radio expert and a hospital worker and when he failed in them duties they put him in charge of some mules.

* * * *

I just got a letter from my brother Luke who has been let out on account of being over the age limit and he says at the camp back home where they mustered him out they wanted to doll up a house where a colonel is living, painting it inside and out. He says there must be 50 professional house painters among the thousands of G. I.'s in this camp but they just call names at random and he is detailed with a lot of other guys who don't know a pot of paint from a jar of mustard to do the work.

* * * *

He told me a funny thing about this camp. It seems the finance department which pays off a man before he gets his discharge was in a building about a mile and a half from the dock where a guy is put on a ferry after he is discharged and paid up. Well it turns out that this mile and a half is lousy with crap shooters. So many guys was getting took for all their pay-off dough between the finance department and the ferry that it was a problem.

* * * *

Every day a bunch that had just been paid off and discharged would totter back and ask to reenlist or something on account of they had no dough left to go home on. So they decided to move the whole finance department down to the river edge. The idea is that they will shove a guy his money and then shove him right onto the boat.

* * * *

Well Luke was among them that lost their money between the finance department and the boat and it seems an officer lent him some money but put him on the detail that had to transfer the finance office down to the river. It was a big job and it is just Luke's luck to be assigned to move a couple of safes. He never lifted nothing heavier than a stein in his life. So he sprains his back, drops his end of the safe on a sergeant's foot and almost gets took back into the Army and sent overseas again as punishment, only they could not find no way to do it. Later he gets into another crap game and loses the money that was lease-lended to him. He got on the ferry anyhow and is now thumbing his way home.

* * * *

P. S.—I am sending a new snapshot of me. I look awful sunburnt but it is not that at all. We have to use water so careful over in this part of the global war where I am that when I shave I've been using my coffee to lather my face.

* * * *

Secretary Morgenthau is giving up his dairy farm after 20 years. We understand he finds it hard to make a profit these days because of the Government's financial policies.

* * * *

Probably Mr. Morgenthau had an extra difficult time trying to make both ends meet in the milk business. Every time he tried to milk a cow he would have trouble trying to begin at Section 1, Paragraph A, or skip to Item 4, Paragraph D.

* * * *

And it's tough figuring out a surtax while sitting on a milkstool with a cow knee-deep in questionnaires.

* * * *

We can imagine Henry, sunk in a sea of milk and deficits and exclaiming, "In business today, if it isn't one thing it's an udder."

* * * *

Here is a great chance for the Republican Party. If Wendell Willkie is smart he will buy in the Morgenthau herd and make it pay even if he has to sell the movie rights.

* * * *

Mr. Morgenthau will henceforth raise fruit, he announces. His success in supplying millions of Americans with raspberries may have gone to his head.

Kos And Corsica

We should like to express our appreciation of your interest in the Dodecanese Islands as evidenced by your recent editorial, "Kos and Corsica." Support of this kind in which the issues at stake are fairly evaluated is most helpful to our organization, which has been working for the freedom of the Dodecanese from Italian occupation. The people of the islands consider this freedom to be synonymous with return to Greece.

The most powerful ally of freedom everywhere is the free press. We are grateful to your esteemed paper for lending us this support.

U. S. Public Favors Destroying Nazi Army Even If It Ousts Hitler and Offers Peace

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 26.—what would the reaction of the American people be if the German army were to get rid of Hitler, give up the conquered countries, withdraw behind the borders of German and offer to make peace?

The question, which is of growing significance as the German forces fall back in Russia and in Italy, presents a hard choice between saving the lives of many of our soldiers by making a negotiated peace, or invading Germany proper until the army of the Reich is utterly destroyed.

If the question were left up to the American people to decide, the overwhelming weight of opinion today would be to give no quarter to the German army—to ignore all peace offers, however attractive, until the military forces of the Reich was crushed.

This sentiment is revealed in a Nation-wide survey among men and women in all the 48 States on the following question:

"Suppose the German army gets rid of Hitler, gives up all the countries Germany has conquered and offers to make peace. If that happens, should we make peace, or should we continue the war until the German army is completely defeated?"

The vote is:

Make peace if German army gives up conquered lands	24%
Continue fighting until German army is crushed	70
Undecided	6

Students of our national psychology will be especially interested in the difference in attitude among men and women on the question of making peace if the German army gives up its territorial claims and ousts Hitler.

American women interviewed in the survey are far more willing to accept the idea of such a peace than American men are. The greater pacifistic tendencies of women as compared to men were noted in surveys before we entered the war, but never to quite the extent that is shown below:

	Men	Women
Make peace if German army gives up conquered land	19%	30%
Continue fighting until German army is defeated	76	64
Undecided	5	6

The principal reason given by the majority for crushing the German army is the feeling that "we made the mistake of not finishing the job in 1918." As one voter put it: "We should have marched into Germany after the last war. She might not have been so ready to start another scrap if she'd tasted defeat on home ground. we're likely to have another war again soon if we don't get in this time."

Americans reject by an even higher majority the idea that Germany should be allowed to make peace on the basis of maintaining her present territorial position in Europe. Such a plan got voted down 10 to 1 in a recent survey.

Alert Brings First Market Overtime

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—Today's practice air raid alert caused the New York Stock Exchange to suspend for the first time the rule which says that trading shall cease at 3 p. m.

Business was halted on the Exchange floor at 2:38 by the first alert signals. At 3 o'clock Exchange officials announced trading would be resumed at 3:20 and continue until 3:30.

The market got through its interruption without loss of earlier gains led by liquor shares and specialties.

Calculated Risks

Lessons Of Italian Campaign

GEN. SIR Harold Alexander has now frankly acknowledged what had long since become an open secret: that the Allied invasion of Italy has not worked out according to plan. After landing at Salerno, the Fifth Army was supposed to cut across toward the Adriatic, cutting off the German troops in the boot which the British Eighth Army was pursuing. The landing was made as soon as it was physically possible to organize it after the Sicilian campaign. Salerno was at the extreme range of fighter planes from the bases available in Sicily. Indeed, the air coverage was organized like a man standing on the shoulders of a man walking on stilts. The advanced air coverage was provided by aircraft carriers, which in turn had to be protected by fighters from Sicily.

LINDLEY

When the signal was given there were no Germans at Salerno. But they guessed right and managed to get a division established with plenty of artillery in the highlands overlooking the beaches. They almost split the Fifth Army and drove it into the sea. For a couple of days the decision was touch and go. The beachhead was saved by heavy and persistent naval bombardments of shore positions and augmented air coverage. The delay was enough, however, to permit the German forces in the south to get away.

It was a bold plan, which miscarried as a trap, but did not fail as a landing. As Mr. Churchill officially revealed some time ago, the still bolder corollary — to land an American air-borne division around Rome — was blocked at the last moment by German seizure of the airports, which Badoglio reported to the Allied high comamnd.

THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN is likely to continue to move slowly. The terrain is rough and the Germans are clever defensive fighters. There is always the possibility of another Allied landing farther up the west coast, endangering the German troops to the south. From Naples and environs air coverage can be provided for another landing considerably farther to the north. The Germans evidently are worried about this possibility.

The Allied high comand may or may not deem such a landing worth the investment. The fact is that the setbacks and delays in the Italian campaign have had no real strategic significance. We have already harvested most of the profit to be gained from the invasion of the mainland. The Badoglio-Savoy government capitulated and has become a cobelligerent. We have the Italian fleet. Most important, we have the big airfields in the south, from which to bomb the Balkans and south central Europe.

The liberation of Rome would be most desirable. It is valuable both as a symbol and as an administrative center. Whether it can be captured without serious injury to the city is an open question, to which the Germans must supply the answer. It might be liberated by envelopment. But the Germans, if they are so minded, could wreck it anyway. The desire of the Allies to avoid damage to the cultural and religious monuments and relics of Rome, their willingness to regard it as an open city, is well known to the Vatican, as well as to the Germans.

Meanwhile, the Germans have built up in Italy a considerable military force—estimated at upwards of 24 divisions. This, almost certainly, is far larger than the Allied forces on the Italian mainland, although the disparity at the fighting front is not so great, and we have reserves which can be moved in if necessary. As things stand now, however, a smaller Allied force is tying up in Italy a larger German force. If these German divisions were not there, they almost certainly would be waiting for a cross-channel attack or would be on the Russian front. In fact, it has been definitely established that some of the German troops in Italy were only recently transferred from the Russian front.

THE ABILITY of the Allied ground troops in Italy to advance in spite of possibly equal German forces on the ground and certainly greater German forces in Italy as a whole is due largely to superiority in the air. The Germans show no signs of being able to overcome this advantage. They are straining themselves to counter the more direct and decisive threat from the Allied air forces in Britain.

The plan of the Italian invasion is concrete evidence in answer to the insinuation that the Allied high command is unduly cautious. The risks were calculated to a fine point—almost too fine as it turned out. It's possible, of course, that the close call at Salerno will make the Allied high command a little more cautious in its next venture. It may be, for example, that a major cross-channel invasion could be undertaken successfully with less strength and elaboration than was thought necessary a few months ago. But if the attempt should fail, we might be set back a year—without considering the unnecessary casualties.

There are always risks in war. London and Washington are just as eager as Moscow to defeat the Germans as quickly as possible. But when victory is almost surely in sight, long-shot gambles are not necessary. The preparations for the kill can be methodical and complete, and should be. For the Germans are trapped and can escape defeat only if the Soviet-British-American combination should dissolve or blunder from overconfidence.

Meanwhile, disturbed by contribution lags as great as 50 per cent below quotas in some District divisions, Commissioner Guy L. Mason is preparing to send memoranda to the delinquent groups.

The Commissioner yesterday addressed a rally of District department heads assembled at his request to discuss means of boosting returns in "certain spots" without resorting to "coercion or brow-beating."

Yesterday's reports showed 83 per cent of the District's quota in the present campaign already pledged or received, and Commissioner Mason said there was no doubt the $87,106 quota would be reached by the Thursday deadline.

Fire Department Lags

Fire Chief Stephen T. Porter, declaring "I'm ashamed to make a report," said his department had reached only 59 per cent of its quota and that his deputy chiefs just couldn't get to first base in collecting contributions. But he said the present collections are 12 per cent above the percentage collected last year.

Health Officer George C. Ruhland reported his department had subscribed only a little more than 50 per cent of its quota, probably because many Health Department employes are parttime professional people and say they subscribe elsewhere.

The schools, officers, teachers, and employes, however, have subscribed 115 per cent of their quota, Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock reported, and gifts are still coming in. Haycock pointed out that this record had been set just after the over 100 per cent subscription by the schools in the third war loan drive.

Librarian Clara Herbert reported that the public library has subscribed $2341, and its quota was only $964.

Others reported the following proportions of quotas reached: Executive Offices, 90; Police Department, 83.29; Engineer Department, 72.88; and Welfare and Recreation Association, 94.

Allies Reported Massing on Corsica

A Little Republic Holds Head High at 'Crossroads'

"EUROPE'S CROSSROADS," the new issue of the March of Time we have been talking about off and on lately, will be a bit of a revelation to the casual picturegoer, but perhaps not for the reasons he anticipates.

CHARLES BOYER

Previewed yesterday morning in conjunction with "Dr. Gillespie's Criminal Case," this interesting subject proved to be anything but a "cops-and-robbers" thriller of international spies and political intrigue in the only remaining neutral gateway open to the embattled continent.

It is, on the contrary, an orderly, thoughtful and picturesque study of the tiny republic so earnestly engaged in preserving the national traditions of centuries. Disclosed on the screen are many facts and reminders that the average spectator either never knew or has forgotten.

Portugal turns out to be quite a country—minding its own business, prospering in a new-found wartime wealth and maintaining itself as a solvent and—so far as the film reveals—a level-headed country, under the shrewd guidance of Premier Salazar. Worth seeing for the very reason that it is not dedicated to sensationalism.

"Europe's Crossroads" will not be visible until it bobs up at Loew's Palace with "Sweet Rosie O'Grady"—which will be whenever "Johnny Come Lately" gets out of "Sweet Rosie's" way.

There is, it seems, a Halloween Night coming up. According to custom it will be celebrated at the Washington Variety Club by its "first big fall affair.' This will take the form of a large evening, beginning at 8:30 o'clock on Sunday night, October 31, at which there will be 30 door prizes for the ladies, games of various descriptions, with the accent on "Wahoo;" midnight entertainment and dancing from 10 p. m. to 2 a. m. Limited to members and two guests each, who must have tickets and be accompanied by their member-host to gain admittance to the clubrooms in the Willard Hotel.

And it is the Kogod and Burka Amusement Co., that comes through with the first announcement of Halloween costume parties for the youngsters. These will be held on Saturday, October 30, at the Apex, Atlas and Senator theaters, with cash prizes for the most effective costumes in two groups—one embracing the ages 2 to 6; the other, 7 to 16.

Its Advertising Sets Hot Pace

If "Flesh and Fantasy," the first independent production of Producer-Actor Charles Bover and Producer-Director Julien Duvivier, for release through Universal, lives up to the artistic standard of the handsome brochure sent out in its honor, it will be a honey. This obviously expensive booklet elegantly announces a cast that costars Mr. Boyer and Barbara Stanwyck and includes Robert Benchley, Edward G. Robinson, Betty Field, Robert Cummings, Thomas Mitchell, C. Aubrey Smith, Anna Lee, Dame May Whitty, Edgar Barrier and Charles Winninger—an assemblage of the caliber usually referred to as "all-star." Provided with an adequate script, they should amply justify the recherche printing job that serves as their precursor But why so profligate with these books? I received three of them on the same mail!

In view of the hullabaloo raised over the Radio City engagement of M-G-M's "Lassie Come Home," I decided it might be a good idea to read the copy of the late Eric Knight's book sent me by Oscar Doob, exploiteer de luxe, fresh off the Third War Loan Drive. It is as fascinating a dog story as eye ever met. If the Collie cast in the title role is as good as they say she is, it is no wonder that M-G-M has clamped a five-year contract on her. It's about time we had another Strongheart or Rin-Tin-Tin, anyhow.

William Winfield Crawford, the baritone appearing in Harry Anger's "Salute to the Seabees," on the Earle stage come Friday, hails from Oklahoma City, Okla., and has been a professional singer for five years. When he was 16, he sang in Radio City, for NBC, and with various symphony orchestras in the West. Besides some concert tours, he took part in theatrical productions and was soloist with the Oklahoma Symphonic Choir. He also sang at the World's Fair in New York. For the past six months he has been engaged in recreational work with the Seabees. So now you know.

Finishes Part

His portrayal of Irene Dunne's son in M-G-M's "The White Cliffs" finished, Roddy McDowell checked out of the Sidney Franklin production. He returns to Twentieth Century-Fox where script of a sequel to "My Friend Flicka" is currently being readied for him.

LEONARD LYONS

Loose-Leaf Notebook

New York, Oct. 26.

Shortly before Winston Churchill returned to England, the President took him on a trip to Frederick, Md. . . . Roosevelt showed him the countryside, and started to explain its historic significance in the Civil War. Churchill spared him the explanation—by reciting all of "Barbara Fritchie."

GYPSY ROSE LEE

Last week Sylvan Joseph, regional OPA administrator for the N. Y. region, resigned from the job. Because of the post her husband held, Mrs. Joseph, naturally, never received offers from shopkeepers to supply her with meat, tinned goods or nylons, at above-ceiling prices. . . . On the night the administrator resigned, Mrs. Joseph told their cook: "Mr. Joseph is giving up his OPA job today" . . . "That's fine," said the cook. "Now we'll get something to eat. So I'll stay."

When, a few days ago, Marshall Field reached his fiftieth birthday, and inherited 68 million dollars, one of his associates went to his office, wished him a happy birthday, and kiddingly said: "Well, 68 million dollars isn't an awful lot of money." Mr. Field replied: "Oh, yes it is. It is quite a good deal of money" . . . That day, one of the wire-room boys suggested to a reporter that they get together a kitty for a present to the boss. An hour later he asked the reporter: "How's it coming?" The reporter replied. "Great. Is $12 enough?"

Louis Bromfield saw Greer Garson in "El Morocco." "Look," he said, exhibiting a $9000 check from Metro, "this is the last installment due me, and I have no financial interest in the picture any more. So you can see I sincerely mean it when I say it would be wonderful if you'd appear in 'Mrs. Parkington' " . . . The 350 soldiers rehearsing in Moss Hart's "Winged Victory"—many of whom are Hollywood and Broadway actors—recently had to interrupt rehearsals for 90 minutes to listen to an Army sex lecture . . . George Metaxas will return to Broadway in the Ursula Parrott-Chester Erskine play, "For All Our Lives."

Gypsy Rose Lee, author of "The Naked Genius," and George S. Kaufman, who directed it, didn't attend the opening. They had announced that the play was opening against their wishes. On opening night, Miss Lee attended an auction, and Kaufman left the State—fleeing to his farm in Pennsylvania . . . The day after the critics had done their worst, Kaufman phoned producer Mike Todd—who reported: "There was standing room only. We had 14 standees" . . . "Say that slowly. I know you must be hysterical. What was that again?" . . . "Fourteen standees. And an advance sale of $3,800," said Todd . . . "Send me the statement, verified," said Kaufman. "And if what you say is true, then I'll quit show-business."

Upon Mrs. Roosevelt's return from her tour of the Pacific fronts, Bert Andrews, Washington reporter for the Herald Tribune, requested permission for the male reporters to attend her press conference. The request was approved, the men attended the conference—and not one of them asked a single question . . . When they left, the men started to discuss the weight Mrs. Roosevelt had lost on the trip. Some said it was 15 pounds, others insisted 50 pounds. Andrews therefore telephoned Malvina Thompson, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, and told her of the discussion . . . "Why didn't you ask Mrs. Roosevelt?" said Miss Thompson . . . "A man can't ask a lady such a question," Andrews replied . . . "You men are inhibited," said Miss Thompson. "A woman reporter would have asked the question." But Miss Thompson didn't tell him how much weight Mrs. Roosevelt had lost.

Representatives of all the principal radio forums met here last week to decide that they should not accept commercial sponsorship or permit the radio chains to assign unfavorable time-spots to them. . . . The Woman's Home Companion invited Ambassador Winant to write an article, but he didn't want to do it for pay or an involved transaction where he would receive money and present it to a charity. That's why Winant's article is in the form of a Letter to the Editor. . . . Lester Herzog and Frank Russell are the leading contenders for the OPA post in N. Y. . . . MGM signed "Lassie," the dog, for 5 years.

Eric Blore, the British actor, saw George Jean Nathan sitting in Sardi's, and introduced himself. "I've admired you for many years," Blore told him, "and I shall be eternally grateful to you for one particular thing you wrote—you included my name in a list of 12 English Actors America Could Do Without" . . . "I never limited it to 'Twelve'," Nathan insisted. "I said 'ALL'."

New York Director Signs for Pictures

Robert Elwyn, youthful founder and owner of up-State New York's noted Woodstock Playhouse, has signed an MGM director contract.

During the past five years Elwyn, who is 30 years old, has directed Helen Hayes, Jane Cowl, Ruth Chatterton and Elissa Landi at his unique little theater which was designed by Norman Bel Geddes.

Elwyn's Broadway background also includes stage appearances with Eva LeGallienne in "Peter Pan," Ernest Treux in "The Hook-Up" and Van Heflin in "The Night Remembers."

At MGM he will join the short-subjects department where Harold Bucquet, Jules Dassin, David Miller, Fred Zinnemann and Roy Rowland, among others, served their directorial novitiate.

The Washington

Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

RECENT WAGE CONFERENCES at the White House and the War Labor Board have sent officials away with brows even more furrowed than during the coal strike crisis last spring. For today, with the coal strike deadline only a few days off, the Administration also faces a serious rail wage crisis.

Having both these disputes come to a head at the same time, advisers admit, may be disastrous. For if a real wage increase is given to the miners, the rail men will be seething mad; may call a general strike.

But if the coal miners don't get any real wage boost, they are almost sure to strike. So the Administration is caught coming or going—unless wage boosts are given all the way around and the plug is pulled on inflation.

Meanwhile, there has been more grousing against the President among hitherto vigorously pro-Roosevelt labor leaders than at any time in 10 years. Dave Robertson, president of the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, has been saying privately that the President has let the railway workers down, that his men are so rebellious he will have to get wage increases for them if he wants to keep his job.

George Harrison of the Railway Clerks has been saying much the same thing. At the AFL Convention recently he let loose a rip-roaring speech against the bungling of the railroad wage question. Last week, at a White House conference, A. F. Whitney of the Railroad Trainmen also did stiff talking, though his criticism was aimed not at the President but against Economic Stabilizer Vinson.

Double-Talk

WHITE HOUSE LABOR advisers fear that part of the railwaymen's ire results from the fact that the President told them one thing, while Judge Vinson ruled another. Back in midsummer, when the special railway mediation board recommended a wage increase of 8 cents an hour for nonoperating workers, they say the President told Brotherhood leaders that this increase was in the bag.

Then, after the brotherhood bosses had gone back and promised their members the raise, Judge Vinson, whose job is to prevent inflation, partially ruled otherwise. He ruled that the 8 cents must go chiefly to lower-bracket workers, with upper-bracket workers getting proportionately less.

White House labor advisers now wish the President had consulted his Economic Stabilizer before being too genial and generous.

Note: Labor advisers last week dusted off the 48-hour week as the best way out of both the mining and railroad dilemmas. If the miners work 48 hours they get time-and-half-time for 13 extra hours. This means both more pay and more coal—which the Nation needs badly. Also it is no violation of the Little Steel formula.

Railroad workers are not included in the Wage-Hour Act. When it was passed they didn't want it. So they don't get paid time-and-half time until after they have worked 48 and in some cases 54 hours. However, by a simple act of Congress they could be included in the Wage-Hour Act, which would give them extra pay after 40 hours. This is what labor advisers last week suggested to the White House as the best way to head off both strikes and inflation.

Capital Chaff

FIRE BROKE OUT the other day in the State Department basement. After guards had applied the extinguisher to a burning box, they found it contained books in German . . . Before Leo Crowley took over Rubber Development Corp., a plan was approved to send U. S. newsmen in a tour of the Amazon. Crowley expressed strong disapproval of junkets in wartime, but it was too late to call off the trip. The men are already in Brazil . . . The Government of Haiti has bought one million dollars worth of U. S. war bonds . . . The Argentine government had already retracted its ban on the Jewish press even before President Roosevelt denounced the ban . . . Foreign Economic Administration, which does a lot of business with Latin America, is worried over the fact that its initials, FEA, mean "ugly" in Spanish. . . . There's a new breath of life in State Department press conferences since Ed Stettinius took charge . . . Jesse Jones hasn't held a press conference for more than a year.

Labor Doctor McGrady

A FEW YEARS AGO, Ed McGrady, labor adviser to the Un-Undersecretary of War, was bundled into a taxicab by irate Elizabeth City, Tenn., businessmen and driven across the State line with the warning that if he ever came back, they would bury his bones up in the Tennessee hills.

But today McGrady is one of the best liked figures in Washington. And this week he will receive an honorary doctorate of laws from Holy Cross University, Worcester, Mass.

"Think of it," says McGrady, "Me, a doctor of laws! What the hell are values these days?"

Back to Normalcy

INDUSTRY'S EAGERNESS to get back to peace-time operation is seen in the deluge of mail received by the Chemical Division of WPB. Theme of every letter is: Unlace the strait jacket and give us a chance to expand.

This pressure hits the Chemical Division more than any other because of the tight control which that division has exercised over the industry, and also because of the tremendous future of plastics and other developments in the chemical field.

Controls are so tight that no materials may be bought or sold without clearance with WPB, and in the course of getting clearance, the applicant must state a lot of intimate facts about his business, including buying price, selling price, profit, and inventories.

Actually, the form for stating these facts is reasonably simple, yet the chemical industry is crying, "Free us from paper work!"

The real meaning of the complaint is that the industry is not worried about paper work so much as it is worried about limitation on profits. Under Government control, prices are held down by the fact that sales are limited to war needs, but when this restriction is removed, the demand for chemical materials will be terrific, and profits will go through the ceiling.

Vaudeville Bear Wins Film Break

Hollywood.—Oddest addition to the cast of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's technicolor musical, "Mr. Co-ed," is Jim, a trained bear owned by oldtime vaudevillian Gust Stevens.

Stevens and his bear have just been handed a featured assignment in the comedy, which stars Red Skelton and spotlights such able entertainers as Harry James and his band, Xavier Cugat and his orchestra, Esther Williams, Carlos Ramirez, Jean Porter and the swing organist, Ethel Smith.

The bear, throughout the picture's action, is called upon to wrestle, dance and intimidate the cast.

George Sidney directs.

Chooses Players

Pete Smith has assigned the leading roles in his M-G-M Specialty "Practical Joker," to Suzanne Kaaren and Harry Barris. Will Jason is directing. Story, by Joe Ansen, takes a poke at the funny fellows whose playful pranks often border on mayhem.

Postal Clerks Ask Congress To Act at Once on Wage Issue

The executive board of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks yesterday urged Congress to take "immediate action" to improve the "scandalously low postal wage scale" by changing present overtime legislation to "an honest, fair and equitable time and a half basis."

Meeting in the Hotel Continental in a session that is replacing the national convention which had to be canceled because of wartime traveling restrictions, the board stated that "at present postal employes are paid what amounts to a scant time and a fifth for overtime" and declared that "the continued rise in the cost of living makes it imperative that Congress act at the earliest possible moment."

"The already acute manpower shortage," the executive board asserted, "is aggravated by the failure of administrators and legislators to take steps necessary to bring wage and working conditions in the postal service to a level which even approaches the needs of the times."

John J. Barrett is president of the association and Thomas P. Bussler is secretary. In addition, the executive board consists of 12 vice presidents from throughout the country and Harry Roesinger, secretary-treasurer.

2 Legislators Lend Support To Mission on World Order

By Robert Tate Allan

Senator Joseph H. Ball (Republican) of Minnesota and Representative J. W. Fulbright (Democrat) of Arkansas, champions of postwar peace resolutions, have indorsed the Christian Mission on World Order, it was learned last night.

In messages to the Washington Federation of Churches and the Washington Council of Church Women, cosponsors of the Washington phase of the mission, the legislators praised the purpose of the project, which aims to mold public opinion for a just and lasting peace. Missions will be held in 100 major cities from November 1 to 20, with November 9 as the local date.

Senator Ball declared:

"It seems to me that there is no more important task in America, next to winning the war, than discussing with the American people the issues involved in building a lasting peace and crystallizing public support for those measures necessary to achieve that end. The Christian Mission on World Order is one of the most helpful activities along this line in our country."

Representative Fulbright said it was "encouraging" to see the church actively participating "in promoting intelligent thought and action in behalf of world peace and order."

"The mission will be the third major step taken by churches toward building a permanent and Christian peace. Regional conferences were held at Hood College, Frederick, Md., and other places last summer, and a joint statement of Catholics, Protestants and Jews on postwar peace principles was issued early this month. Many churches have been holding study courses on postwar peace.

The Washington Mission will be centered at First Congregational, Calvary Baptist and Mount Vernon Place Methodist Churches. Additional programs will be held in 20 high schools and 4 colleges.

Jury Qualifies To Reconsider Sedition Cases

The District grand jury which will hear sidition cases prosecuted by the Justice Department was sworn in yesterday by Justice Edward C. Eicher of District Court.

Cases against persons accused of conspiring to undermine the morale of the armed forces will be presented, the Justice Department stated. Previously 33 persons were indicted on the charge, but because of technicalities, the Government will seek reindictments.

Foreman of the grand jury is John W. Francis, 44, of 1414 Montague st. nw. He is assistant manager of the Washington Wholesale Drug Co.

Other jurymen are:

Mrs. Mary C. Anderson, 38, of 711 D st. se.; Mrs. Catherine P. Atwood, 48, 7435 12th st. nw.; Mrs. Elizabeth B. Aubrey, 37, of 2319 Huidekoper pl. nw.; Marion, 40, of 1232 Y st. ne.; Charles T. Burley, 21, of 1303 K st. ne.; Earl V. Conway, 52, of 930 Belleview st. sw.; Adolph Dissin, 64 or 2013 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Thomas J. Donellan, 38, of 3739 Neal st. nw.; John S. Downs, 39, of 4421 Jay pl. ne.; Thomas F. Feally, 28, of 3525 Minnesota ave. se.; Joseph E. Fleming, 64, of 609 44th st. ne.; Albert A. Goabel, 60, of 4915 Arkansas ave. nw.; Mrs. Vivian B. Talman, 29, of 1801 24th st. ne., and Edwin G. Thomas, 42, of 1346 Ritchie pl. ne.

Service Center Near Union Station Will Open Today

A service center for members of the armed forces of the United Nations, both men and women, will be opened today, following dedication exercises at 5 p. m. in the former Capitol Hotel, 500 N. Capitol st. ne. It is said to have advantages not enjoyed by any other center in the United States.

FWA officials enumerate outstanding advantages of the project developed under its supervision as proximity to a large railroad terminal, Union Station, and facilities for the comfort of the guests.

Children as well as adults will be provided for in rooms specially designed and equipped for them. There mothers, wives and visiting relatives may leave youngsters while they shop or go sightseeing. The center will be opened immediately after the dedication, although the kitchen is not expected to be ready to operate. Its opening will be delayed 10 days or a fortnight owing to trouble in obtaining equipment.

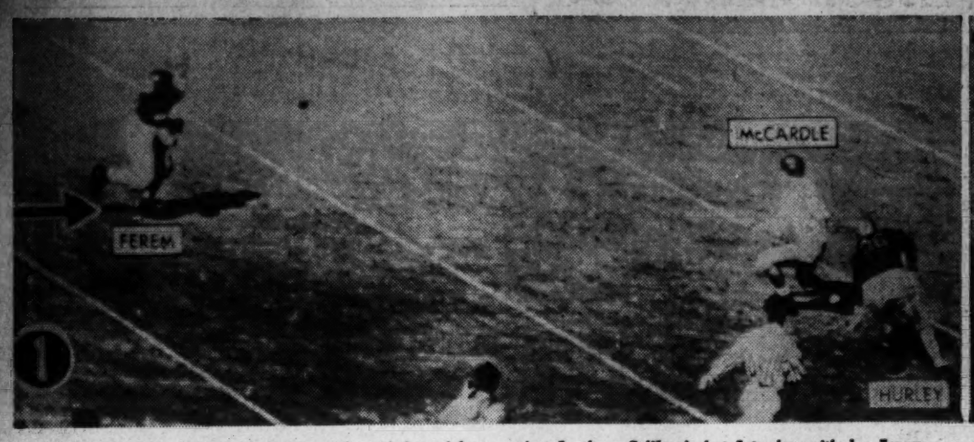
The Camera Testifies on Clipping Play That Cost Stagg's Team 6-0 Defeat by Trojans



Here's the start of the College of Pacific's voided touchdown against Southern California last Saturday, with Joe Ferem on his way to the goal line after taking a forward pass from Halfback Johnny Podesto in the second quarter.

As Ferem nears McCardle, Southern California safety man, the tackler is removed by a block thrown by End John Hurley, of Pacific, the play which the officials called clipping.

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS

Ferem now heads for the goal line unmolested for the touchdown that was called back by the officials. Southern California won, 6 to 0, but has offered to play Pacific again.

WASHINGTON, OCT. 27, 1943

Navy Grid Squad Hit by Colds and Injuries

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

And now we have the latest intriguing twist in Washington's fistic affairs—a fighter insisting he took a dive and being told by the District Boxing Commission, in effect, to prove it.

Ordinarily it's tough to wring that sort of admission out of a fighter under a fancy grilling, but here is one laid in the laps of the commission and it is not being embraced with much enthusiasm. In fact, the signs are that it leaves the commission quite cold. It may be positive indication that the boxing commission is getting quite smart as well as skeptical.

POVICH

John Garner, colored middleweight, has told the commission in a signed letter that his bout last week with Tee Hubert at Turner's Arena was a "business" fight; that he was paid $300 for taking a dive and carried out his end of the business by getting knocked out in the fourth round. That's what he says.

That sort of confession is usually reason enough for a boxing commission to start swinging and suspend everybody in sight, but the D. C. commissioners are showing a complete and what may prove to be admirable restraint.

It's pretty significant that six hours after the commission read Garner's confession, the man the fighter said paid over the "fix" money to him, was seconding another fighter on a Turner's Arena show, with the apparent blessings of the commission and still very much in its good graces.

Apparently the commissioners aren't falling for Garner's story, else they would have suspended Hubert's manager right away, at least pending further investigation. They didn't do that and, in fact, made no gesture in that direction, and we'd say the commission's reaction is tantamount to telling Garner to prove that he took the dive he's trying to confess.

In the light of all the angles, it seems to be a bit of nice going by the commission which is refusing to be stampeded by a confessed tank artist. The whole thing looks a bit suspicious, we'd say. How come Garner gets such a sudden attack of righteousness, anyway? It could be a likely tale, at once an alibi for the licking he took and a slap at the enemy camp. It seems to have left the commission unconvinced of anything.

The funny part of it is that when Garner penned his confession there wasn't any call for him to confess anything. He hadn't been charged with anything despite talk that the fight looked queer. He was going into the Army, where he figured to be safe from any commission action, two days before the commission was scheudled to hold its inquiry.

Maybe the commission was struck with another angle of the matter. When Garner weighed in at 168 pounds before the fight, Hubert and his manager picked up the $300 forfeit which Garner had posted to guarantee he would weigh in at 165 pounds. The commission may think that may not have pleased Garner who thus netted less than $30 from the fight, and thus his sudden desire to admit that he got licked in a business fight.

Garner says he took a dive in a "fixed" fight, but there are a few glaring omissions in his confession, such as when the $300 immersion dough was paid over to him, and where, and who the witnesses might be. His memory was not quite so ready on those points. Garner's simple admission that he got the dough doesn't help the commission to prove it, and the angles being what they are, the commission is reacting as if the burden of proof is still Garner's, and that seems to be a sensible way to look at it.

Nobody could tell much from the fight, the way it was fought. Garner is an eccentric sort of fighter anyway, and anything he might do in the ring could be either deliberate or just plain screwy. Certainly in the first round he showed no intention of taking a dive. A less sturdy lad than Hubert would have been knocked out by some of the punches Garner threw.

In the fourth and final round, just before Garner says he fulfilled his contract, he did go down once from a funny-looking inside punch, but the punch that put him down for keeps was a beaut. Hubert hit Garner on the chin and literally stiffened him. The crowd not only saw that one, but heard it. Garner went down like timber falling before a woodsman's ax.

The kind of a fall Garner took isn't the kind a tank artist can stage. It was too pretty to be anything but involuntary. The first thing that hit the floor was Garner's chin. If the punch didn't knock him cold, his collision with the canvas did. If Garner got $300 for taking the fall with his chin, well, we'd say it was every bit of a $300 fall, and he earned the dough and is entitled to it.

But it's getting to be a fine state of affairs when a fighter wants to confess a tank job and can't convince the Boxing Commission. As we were saying, we think our commission is getting very smart.

He Missed a Field Goal

Injured Penn Player Totals 21 Points in 15 Seconds

Frank McKernan, Forbidden to Scrimmage, Is Coach Munger's Kicking Specialist

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP).—Penn has a point-a-second scorer ready for its clash with unbeaten Army Saturday on Franklin Field.

Lanky Frank McKernan, Coach George Munger's ace-on-the-bench, has tallied 21 points—including the one that beat Dartmouth 7-6—in Penn's first five games this season. And his playing record shows only 15 seconds of action.

Old football injuries that necessitated operations for the removal of cartilage from both knees cost the 6-foot-2 Philadelphian a chance to play regularly, and caused the Army to classify him 4-F. But they did not prevent him from becoming a place-kicking star on a team that may be one of Penn's greatest.

He Can't Scrimmage

As a result of the operations, McKernan walks with a slight shuffle, and has been forbidden to scrimmage because of the possibility of a disabling injury. But he gets up off the bench when Penn scores a touchdown, and trots out to kick the extra point. Against Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth, Lakehurst Naval and Columbia, he had 28 chances.

Because time officially is out during the try for point after touchdown, none of these is listed on McKernan's playing record. The 15 seconds of action was recorded in the Dartmouth game when he attempted—and missed—a field goal from the 28-yard line.

A star end in high school, and a promising candidate at Penn until the injuries kept him off the playing field, McKernan volunteered this year to help Assistant Coach Paul Riblett instruct the Penn ends. He began appearing at River Field a half hour before practice time, spent the time place-kicking, and one day Munger suggested that he specialize.

He's Not a Natural

"He's not a natural kicker," says Munger, "practice and the will to play have made him good."

There's nothing unusual about McKernan's kicking style. He takes two steps before kicking and his cleats dig divots like a good golfer playing out of a bad lie.

Father Flanagan Will Kick-Off Gonzaga Game

Father Flanagan, founder and sponsor of Boys Town, Nebr., doesn't kick often.

But he feels he has a kick coming a week from Sunday afternoon, November 7, at Griffith Stadium when his Boys Town football team meets Gonzaga's Eagles in a mammoth benefit game at 2 o'clock.

Briefly, Father Flanagan has promised to kick off just prior to the game's opening and adds: "I'll try and make it a good kick!"

Father Flanagan will arrive here next Tuesday morning, and will address the weekly luncheon of the Touchdown Club at 12:30 Tuesday. Next Thursday night he will be the guest of the Nebraska State Society of Washington, at a combination meeting and party at the Statler Hotel.

Maybe He Should Let His Daughter Dress Him

Seattle, Oct. 26 (AP).—Jimmy Cain, former Washington football halfback, found his slip-on shirt a bit snug as he suited up to referee a game

"Golly, how these things shrink," he muttered.

Danger Ahead

Giants Loom As Redskins' Late Nemesis

The most disturbing score to the Redskins of the four games in the National Football League last Sunday was not the fact they beat the Chicago Cardinals only 13-7, but the 42-14 lacing the New York Giants handed the Phil-Pitt Eagles in New York.

Stout Steve Owen had his fellow coaches feeling sorry for him as the early season reports told of the Giants' sorry plight. They lost more key men to the services than any other club, and when they lost their first game to Phil-Pitt, 28-14, despite 10 Eagle fumbles, it looked as though they would follow their baseball contemporaries—into the cellar.

The Giants beat the Dodgers, 20-0, in their second game, however, and came back Sunday to wallop the Eagles, leading by six touchdowns, 42-0, with four minutes to play. The Eagles clicked for a pair of screen passes against Giant reserves

Owen has suddenly come up with a good ball club. Tuffy Leemans surprised nobody by coming out of retirement and he made two long runs against the Eagles. Mel Hein couldn't stand the peace and quiet of the Union College campus on Sunday and he is back as a center replacement. As other steadying influences the Giants signed Bull Karcis, 1942 coach of the Detroit Lions and they picked up veteran Redskin Vic Carroll for nothing.

Emery Nix, another Texas Christian passing product, has done nothing to disturb the Horned Frogs' reputation for producing great passers. A rookie from Georgia Tech, Bill Paschal, is among the leading ground gainers and the Giants have the right to ask if any team in the league can produce two better tackles than Frank Cope and Al Blozis, former Hoya athlete. For insurance in the field goal and point-after-touchdown department the Giants have the old master, Ward Cuff. He made six straight last Sunday.

The Redskins will get their first touch of the Giants Sunday—not on the playing field but in the box office. The Green Bay Packers play the Giants at the Polo Grounds at the same hour the Redskins meet the downtrodden Dodgers in Brooklyn, and an expected crowd of 50,000 for the aforementioned game will naturally detract from the first New York appearance of Sammy Baugh & Co., this season.

The Eastern division race may be over by December 5, but if the Giants are still in the running the Redskins had better watch out. They have won only 5 of 12 meetings with the Giants since moving to Washington and lost four straight years in New York. The last team to beat the Redskins in a league game was the Giants, here September of 1942. The Redskins meet the Giants both December 5 and 12 and that is what's worrying the Redskins already.

WHITTLESEY.

Garner Faces Boxing Board Next Week

Local Fighter Says He Was Supposed To Receive Part of Bets for Taking Dive

John Garner, District boxer who admitted in writing he "threw" last Monday's fight at Turner's Arena to Tee Hubert, will face the District Boxing Commission in person some time next week, Camp Lee (Va.) authorities said yesterday.

Contacted by the District Boxing Commission yesterday, Army officials reported Garner ill in the Camp Lee Infirmary and would be confined there for at least a week or ten days. Camp Lee authorities notified the commission Garner would be ordered to appear and the commission would be notified at least two days in advance.

Garner, in his signed statement, said he "lost" to Hubert for the sum of $300, allegedly given him by John Carter, local Negro sportsman and fight manager. Garner, in a long-distance phone conversation with The Post Monday night, said he was supposed to have received more plus a percentage of the betting winnings, which he estimated to be between $2000 and $3000. Carter denied the charge, labeling it a "damned lie."

Leone to Meet Golden Greek at Arena Tonight

Michele Leone, the wild Boston grappler, and George Macricostas, the Golden Greek, will resume their mat feud tonight at Turner's Arena. Whereas last week the timekeeper's valedictory toot halted hostilities at 30 minutes with the grapplers stalemated, tonight the distance will be one-fall-to-a-finish, giving the behemoths ample opportunity to display their stamina and skill.

Promoter Turner virtually has promised the winner a shot at Yvon Robert, the National Wrestling Association titleholder, who last week successfully defended his crown against Maurice LaChappelle.

Turner also has indicated he is considering the winner of his semi-windup match between Cliff Olsen and for a battle with Champion Robert.

Ed (Strangler) White, former pro-footballer, will meet Paul Cunningham, a newcomer, in a special 30-minute match.

Dominic Serio will take on John Vansky and Bill Darnell and Chief Bamba Tabu will open the show at 8:45.

Durocher Retains Dodger Coaches

Brooklyn, Oct. 26 (AP).—As his first official act since his reappointment as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Leo the Lip Durocher today rehired Charles (Chuck) Dressen and John (Red) Corriden as his coaches for 1944.

Dressen, long regarded as the top "signal-stealer" in the big leagues, was one of those mentioned as a possible Dodger manager until President Branch Rickey yesterday signed the Lip to a one-year contract.

Wright Stops Spataro

New York, Oct. 26 (AP).—Veteran Chalky Wright, 132½, Los Angeles, scored a two-round technical knockout over Patsy Spataro, 135½, New York, in their scheduled eight-round windup at the Broadway arena. Referee Jack Sullivan stopped it after 2:16 of the second round because of a bad cut over Spataro's eye.

Horseman Joseph E. Widener Dies at Philadelphia Estate

Noted Stable Owner And Art Collector Gave D. C. Exhibit

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (INS).—Joseph E. Widener, millionaire sportsman, financier and art collector, died today at the age of 71 at his palatial residence in suburban Elkins Park.

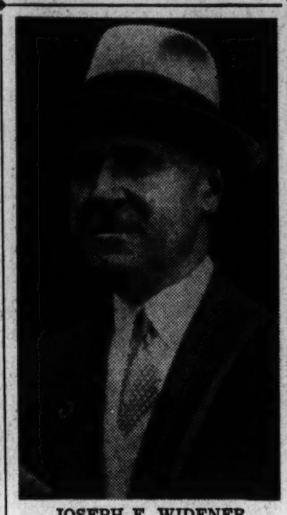
Widener's death followed an illness of several years. His two children, Peter A. B. Widener, 2d, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld, the former Josephine (Fifi) Widener of New York, were notified immediately.

Widener's vast fortune, which enabled him to collect art treasures worth millions and become a foremost national figure in racing circles, stemmed from his father, Peter A. B. Widener. One-time proprietor of a Philadelphia butcher shop, Peter Widener built his fabulous wealth in traction developments in Philadelphia and New York.

The art collection of Joseph E. Widener, valued at $50,000,000, was presented by him to the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C., in October, 1940. Prior to that time the paintings, including a $1,000,000 Titian painting of "Venus and Adonis," had been housed at his Elkins Park Home, Lynnewood Hall.

Widener's association with racing spanned nearly half a century. In 1909 he was elected to the New York Jockey Club, and in 1940 became a steward of that organization. A few years later he built the beautiful Hialeah Park race track in Florida. His stable produced many winners, including big stake events.

In 1934, his Peace Chance won the rich Belmont Stake for 3-year-olds, and with Chance Sun, he won the Belmont Futurity for 2-year-olds, establishing that horse the leading money winner of that season.



JOSEPH E. WIDENER

In 1925 he succeeded August Belmont as president of the Westchester Racing Association, and shortly afterward became the principal owner of Belmont Race Track on Long Island.

Among his famous horses were Fair play, Chance Shot, Osmand, Fairmount, Brevity, Lizard, Haste, Socialist, Fair Wind, Altawood, for which he paid $40,000; Paavo, Profiteer, Baletian, Swynford, Bourbon Lass, which cost $20,000; Carnation, Istar, costing $15,000; Stefan the Great, Grenadier, Houdini, Runantell, which he presented to the Polo Association of America; Duettiste, Philosopher, Neap Tide, Naturalist, Reine des Peches, which cost $30,000; Curate, Mr. Sponge, Kiev, Levinchaud and Arc Light.

Army Eleven Drills Indoors On Air Attack

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 26 (AP).—Army's undefeated football team canceled a heavy scrimmage today because of rain. Instead Coach Earl Blaik took his boys inside the field house and concentrated on a forward pass drill designed to penetrate Penn's defenses on Saturday.

QUAKER LINE-UP REVISED

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (AP).—Coach George Mumger revised Penn's line-up today to strengthen it for the Army class. Six-foot-three-inch Walter Stickel, a V-12 trainee, was given a tryout at left guard and Johnny Makar and Dudley Bundage rehearsed as wingbacks as well as tailbacks.

SMALL ELIS SQUAD DRILLS

New Haven, Oct. 26 (AP).—A handful of Yale gridmen worked out today under adverse weather conditions. Harry Oberhelman, former end converted to center, practiced passing and Ray Scussel brushed up on kicking a loggy ball.

Heavyweights To Head Arena Card Monday

Heavyweights again will be featured at Turner's Arena on next Monday night's boxing show.

The latest to be paired off are Clent Conway, the gangling Fort Monmouth (N. J.) scrapper, and Park Daniels, young Chicago defense worker. They were signed yesterday for a 10-rounder.

Daniels, who is managed and handled by Chris Dundee, will be fighting locally for the first time. He holds one victory over Conway and also one over Curtis Sheppard, rugged Detroit scraper.

Conway's last showing here was a gallant one. Bucking up against big Al Hart, the soldier fighter gave away more than 50 pounds and all but knocked out Hart.

Conway has won eight out of nine Washington bouts, having stopped, among others, Paul (Buddy) Komar, the former national AAU champion, now in the Air Forces.

Coach Holds All Names On Sick List

Light Drills Held Due to Muddy Field; 45 Players Make Cleveland Trip

Annapolis, Oct. 26 (AP).—Colds and injuries suffered by several members of Navy's football squad, in addition to driving rains and a muddy practice field, held the midshipmen to light drills today.

Expressing concern over the number of middies on the sick list today, Capt. John E. Whelchel, Navy's head coach, said he had hopes that at least some of them would be able to go to Cleveland for the Tars' clash with Notre Dame on Saturday.

Asked to name the sick and injured players, Whelchel replied:

"I won't do it. We'll just hope that they recover quickly, and we'll have to take our chances on that."

So, with their ranks somewhat crippled, the Middies worked on light offensive and defensive drills, keeping ever in mind the T-formation which the Irishmen have employed so successfully.

Meanwhile, Whelchel said that plans had been made to take 45 members of Navy's football varsity to Cleveland, that figure being dependent, of course, on whether or not his sick and injured players recover in time.

He did not say when the Middies would leave the Academy for Cleveland.

Irish Polish Up Aerial Warfare

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26 (AP).—Aerial offense, as interpreted by Angelo Bertelli and Johnny Lujack, occupied Notre Dame's undefeated Irish today as they continued preparations for the Navy tilt at Cleveland Saturday.

The long offensive drill gave evidence that Coach Frank Leahy intends to match his own passing ace, Bertelli, against the Wizardry of little Hal Hamberg, the Middies' chief aerial gunner.

Cleveland's Dean Inducted in Army

Cleveland, Oct. 26 (AP).—Lovill (Chubby) Dean, 27-year-old Cleveland Indians' southpaw pitcher, notified the Tribe front office today he had been inducted into the Army at Camp Croft, S. C. He came to the Indians from the Philadelphia Athletics in 1941.

Uncle Seaweed Wins 'Chase

8000 Fans Brave Rain At Pimlico

Caddie, Invader Trail in $7500 Added Feature; Riles on Winner

By Walter Haight

Pimlico, Md., Oct. 26.—With the jumping course resembling the bottom of the ocean here today it was only fitting that a horse named Uncle Seaweed should be a winner. And so it was. The $7500 added Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap, shifted here from Laurel, proved a hop, skip and a swim for Uncle Seaweed, racing in the silks of F. Ambrose Clark. The 5-year-old finished three parts of a length in advance of the Rokeby Stable's Caddie with Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Invader third and a dozen lengths behind the place money.

The race was contested through a driving rain and over a soggy, sloppy course wet enough for a regatta—every jump a water jump. The conditions riddled the field, nine scratches materializing before a field of seven went to the starting point. Only one mishap marked the running. Lieut. Bayard Sharp's Knight's Quest lost rider at the final fence but both boy and horse escaped injury.

Winner Pays $8.50

Uncle Seaweed, who lost rider when five lengths ahead and apparently a winner last time out, fenced in excellent fashion today and was clocked in 5:18 1-5 for the 2½ miles while bringing his backers an $8.50 mutuel.

Only 8,000 hardy customers reported for the afternoon's action and saw Mercator and Knight's Quest set and forced the pace in the jumping feature. Uncle Seaweed, nicely rated by Jockey Scott Riles, was in third position for the opening mile. When asked, Uncle Seaweed took command, drew far out, but had to be placed to a drive to stave off the closing rush of Caddie.

Uncle Seaweed, who has the makings of a great jumper, was winning only his second event of the year and his first major race. He added $6,625 to his earnings for the year to bring them to a total of $8,300.

Favorite and longshot players had their innings on the card. The daily double paid $92.50. Topping, owned by Mrs. George Brown, jr., won the first race at a $16.70 mutuel and A. S. Hewitt's Wing Tip accounted for the second event at $10.30.

Racing mourns the passing of Joseph E. Widener. . . . The game is a big loser. . . . He tried to put an English accent on American racing, but he had the respect of the $2 bettor as well as the clubhouse gang. . . . Beautiful Hialeah Park is a monument to him. . . . If Thursday's Eastern Shore Handicap draws 20 starters, the race will be split with each division taking down $10,000 in added money. . . . Jockey Nick Jemas had his ups and downs today. . . . In the first race, Ginomel fell with him. . . . He won the third aboard War Bonnet. . . . In the fourth, Sallymar broke down under him. . . . Thumbs Up may not start in Saturday's Pimlico Special. . . . He has been unable to work out since being cut in the Havre de Grace Handicap. . . . Jockey Jimmy Stout arrived from New York. . . . Hal Price Headley arrives tomorrow and will make up his mind on starting Anticlimax, Washington Handicap winner, in the Pimlico Special. Art Brown was over today and went down swinging on War Art.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOPPING, $16.60, $7.70, $4.40; MERCY ANGEL, $5.70, $3.40; BUSY NINE, $2.80.
TOPPING was well placed from start, rallied when pressed to pressure, disposed of BUSY NINE and was kept to drive to end. MERCY ANGEL was slow to begin, improved position steadily and closed willingly. BUSY NINE raced RUKSH into defeat to take command leaving backstretch, but weakened gradually through stretch.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1200; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 12:29. Off at 12:29. Winner, A. S. Hewitt's b. f. (2), by Pilate—Galcrest. Trained by B. F. Christmas. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:16⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WING TIP, $10.30, $6.50, $4.00; APPEAL AGENT, $11.10, $6.20; GAY BRIGADIER, $3.70.
WING TIP was off slowly, saved ground while improving position and closed with bold rush to win going away. APPEAL AGENT went to front early; set good pace but could not resist winner after bearing out entering homestretch. GAY BRIGADIER raced evenly while losing ground.

Daily Double, TOPPING and WING TIP, Paid $92.50.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 12:59. Off at 1:00. Winner, J. L. Leiter, jr.'s ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAR BONNET, $31.80; $13.60, $8.90; WAR ART, $16.70; $10.90; SUN GALOMAR, $8.50.
WAR BONNET was not hurried in early stages, came to outside while improving position and closed with rush under strong handling to win going away. WAR ART saved ground to improve position, came through on inside to take command between calls, but could not resist winner. SUN GALOMAR shook off ALSELEDA and GINOCA while setting pace and was tiring at end.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward; fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 1:29. Off at 1:29. Winner, E. F. †Broke down.
Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAREBELL, $4.70, $3.20, $2.70; NEDDIE LASS, $3.70, $3.00; CUSHLAMACREE, $4.80.
HAREBELL gained gradually on outside, responded when shaken up, reached DARK DANGER approaching stretch, took lead and was driving at end. NEDDIE LASS was rated closest to pace, responded gamely when placed to drive, but was no match for winner. CUSHLAMACREE could not keep up in early pace and closed willingly.

FIFTH RACE—Two and half miles. Purse, $7500 added; the Chevy Chase Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. (18 jumps.) Start good. Won ridden out; place driving. Went to post at 4:58. Off at 2:00. Winner, F. Ambrose Clark's dk. b. g. (5), by Jacopo—Marigal. Trained by H. Gaither. Net value to winner, $6825, second, $800; third, $300; fourth, $400. Time, 5:18⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNCLE SEAWEED, $8.50, $5.10, $3.90; CADDIE, $5.70; $4.20; INVADER, $6.00.
UNCLE SEAWEED was well placed from start, fenced faultlessly, went to front when asked, drew out, but had to be placed to pressure while tiring on final flat. CADDIE lacked early speed, improved position after mile and closed with good energy. INVADER was not a serious factor at any stage.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:29½. Off at 2:32. Winner, H. G. Bedwell's dk. b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNDULATOR, $5.60, $3.50, $2.80; MOST ALERT, $5.60, $3.60; WILTON, $5.00.
UNDULATOR was allowed to settle into stride, came through between horses entering stretch, took clear lead, but was kept to drive to stave off MOST ALERT. The latter was off slowly, lost ground while improving position and was going fastest at end. WILTON set and forced pace and weakened.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $3500. For 3-year-olds and upward; fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:03½. Off at 3:03½. Winner, G. R. Watkins' b. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GONDALINA, $13.70, $5.90, $4.00; PIG TAILS, $3.20, $2.70; CHERRYDALE, $4.80.
GONDALINA lacked early speed and was forced to take up when blocked leaving backstretch, came between horses boldly to take command when PIG TAILS ran out and barely lasted under strong handling. PIG TAILS was well placed on outside, took lead approaching stretch, ran to outside fence and came with bold rush at close. CHERRYDALE forced pace of TELLMENOW and tired in final drive.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2500. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:34. Off at 3:34½. Winner, Glen Riddle Farm's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOLDIER SONG, $4.30, $3.50, $2.70; KANLAST, $4.80, $3.30; HOMEWARD BOUND, $3.30.
SOLDIER SONG, first away, set pace accompanied by STAR BLEN and HOMEWARD BOUND, drew clear entering stretch and held away thereafter. KANLAST was allowed to settle into best stride, was shut off at far turn, came through on inside, but hung after moving up menacingly. HOMEWARD BOUND was rushed to hold forward position and tired through stretch.

"TALK ABOUT MILEAGE!"

Test car drivers in the Mojave Desert learned plenty about the new GENERAL from American-Made* Rubber

Yes, General's test car drivers know the score. They kept accurate mileage records on the new General from American-Made rubber . . . as they went, around the clock, over blistering desert roads.

Under the hot noonday sun and in the cold of desert darkness . . . through that peculiar, tire-destroying dust . . . these men kept at it to see how long these Generals would last.

It's not the kind of test you'd put a tire to, but it proved, beyond question, that the General, with American-Made rubber, delivers the kind of performance that originally built General's reputation for mileage and safety.

*Synthetic rubber—created from American raw materials—by American chemical research and American production genius.

But—Tires Are Still Precious

Because military needs come first—there are only a few civilian tires being made. There is still a tire shortage. So, until the time when everybody can have this new General, our earnest advice is to make your present tires last. Let us help you . . . with recapping, repairing, mileage advice . . . at Quality Tire Headquarters!

OWI Attempts To Rouse Civil Defense Corps

By Walter Wood

The OWI, in issuing a joint statement by the commanding officers of the Eastern Defense and First Fighter Commands, yesterday gave the OCD a boost which officials hope will arouse the Civilian Defense Corps from its lethargy.

Since the Army let it be known that neither Washington nor any other city on the East Coast could be surprised by an air raid in force, civilian defense volunteers, particularly in Washington, it was said, have been showing less interest in their work. Many refused to let the last air-raid warning sounded in the Capital disturb their slumbers.

The OWI announcement, designed to stop the inertia creeping over the civilian protection organizations, included the statements of Lieut. Gen. George Grunert, commander of the Eastern Defense Command, and Brig. Gen. Lawrence Craigie, commander of the First Fighter Command.

A program of action for Civilian Defense in the area embraced by the Eastern Defense Command, which includes Maryland, Virginia and the District, was given as follows:

1. Twenty-four hour operation of an adequate system for warning and mobilizing civilian defense protective forces.
2. Maintenance of the present trained force of protective personnel. (Washington area forces number approximately 75,000.)
3. Periodic drills and exercises, including blackouts, at such time as will assure alert and efficient volunteer forces.
4. Continued enforcement by Civilian Defense workers of such regulations as may be prescribed by the Army.
5. Continuation of the community war service work of the millions of volunteers now working under Defense Council leadership.

District Commissioner John Russell Young, regional OCD director, concurred in the statement of policy. Young said the protective services in the Washington area would continue for the duration and that practice blackouts and air raid drills would be held as usual and unannounced.

Wastepaper Black Market Is Revealed

Wastepaper, urgently needed for the manufacture of ammunition boxes, is going into a black market on a Nation-wide scale, it was revealed yesterday as the OPA and WPB outlined a three-point drive which is under way to save the paper salvage program.

Only about 35 per cent of the available wastepaper in the country is now being salvaged, it was said.

Key points of the program announced by C. E. Wilson, acting chairman of WPB, and Chester Bowles, new OPA head, are:

1. OPA ceiling prices on wastepaper will remain unchanged. Dealers and suppliers cannot benefit by holding off supplies awaiting higher prices.

2. Special OPA investigators have been assigned to the drive against handlers who violate wartime price ceilings. The WPB will make directives to control the distribution of wastepaper to wipe out the black market by channeling it into areas of greatest need.

3. Both OPA and WPB will campaign to increase the recovery of wastepaper by nearly one-third.

Old newspapers and magazines, as well as cast-off paper boxes and old letters, officials said, are needed in the manufacture of paper boxes and cartons essential for shipping war goods. They are required, also, for marketing civilian goods.

Many paper mills, it was said, are paying prices above ceiling for wastepaper needed to meet the quota required before manufacturing new paper. Some wastepaper handlers are using this as a black-market device, one official said.

In Washington, however, where school children as well as adults have been cooperating in the drive to collect paper, no black market exists, officials said.

Morgenthau to See Economic Experts

Cairo, Oct. 26 (AP).—Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the U. S. Treasury, said today he plans to meet with economic experts from this area as far east as Chungking in an effort to smooth out exchange problems raised by the presence of American troops.

Morgenthau added the principal problem was making sure that soldiers' pay is based on the proper exchange rate. Harry D. White, author of an American postwar stabilization plan, is accompanying Morgenthau. He said Russia had not answered an invitation to participate in the plan, but had sent an observer.

Tank Expert Reported Replacing Kesselring

London, Oct. 26 (AP).—Without naming the source of its report, the London Daily Mail said today that Lieut. Gen. Wittinghoff, described as a tank expert, had replaced Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring as German field commander on the Italian front.

Kesselring, it added, was given an air command on the Russian front.

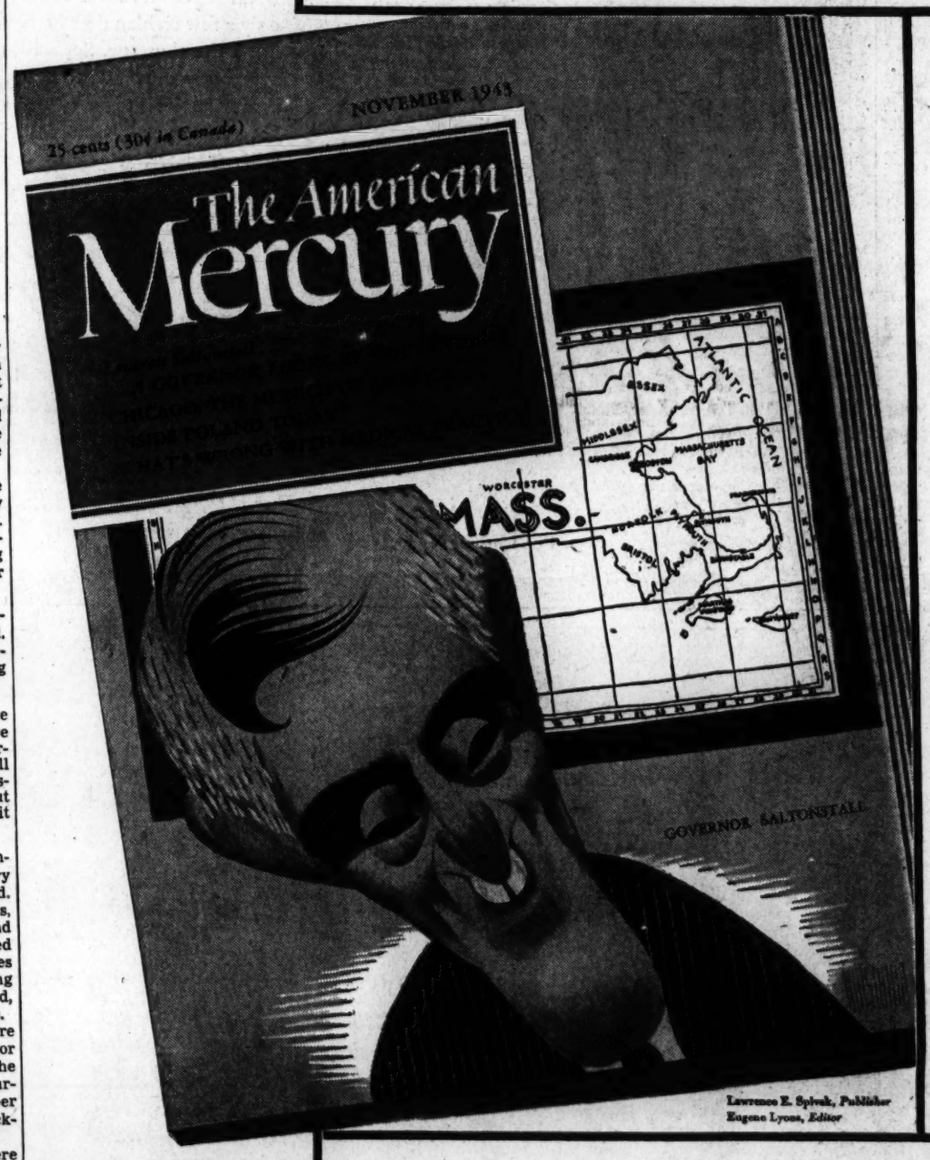
Chicago

THE MUNICH OF AMERICA . . .

CHICAGO, most paradoxical of American big cities, has now become the national sorehead center, home of assorted hates . . . Here the people who hate Roosevelt, Russia, Britain, Jews—more than they hate Hitler—still carry on . . . make the city headquarters for all the pre-war would-be fuehrers, and their willing or wacky followers.

"Isolationist" isn't a nice word now, nor "fascist" a fashionable label. All are "nationalists"! The names have changed, the chatter hasn't. In dignified business offices, the peace-at-any-price pacifists, the professional rabble rousers . . . the relics of the Klan, the Bund, the Christian Front, the various Colored Shirt groups . . . propagandize, solicit members, prepare the way for their fantastic revolutions . . . These are no cellar cabals. In open meetings, they are addressed by Congressmen, Senators and other prominent "respectables."

This amazing story has been written by two Chicago newspaper men, who name names, mention meeting places . . . and focus attention on activities worth watching by every alert American . . . In the November issue of The American Mercury—and not to be missed!



A new type, full color cover . . . caricature by Al Hirschfeld, illustrator and caricaturist who draws stage and screen characters for the New York Times.

OUT NOW

WASHINGTON . . . the City Awful

Some Washington residents couldn't get a dead horse removed. A woman reporter took their complaints to her Congressman, and thus started a Congressional investigation. The report of the investigators is something to make your hair rise.

Overcrowded, shy on housing, hotel rooms, places to eat, laundries, the City Beautiful can't get rid of its garbage, has typhus bearing rats in the best places. Child delinquency, venereal disease, meningitis and dysentery are on the rise. Everybody wonders what would happen if an epidemic hit the town . . .

"Washington Gets Soiled" is a detailed story of conditions in the nation's capital, by a veteran correspondent, Carlisle Bargeron.

A GOVERNOR LOOKS at Government

Late entry among Presidential dark horses, Leverett Saltonstall, Governor of Massachusetts, is held the white hope of the party in certain Republican quarters. . . . Old family, well-to-do, Harvard-schooled, political maverick, he beat the machine in Massachusetts, is now serving his third term as Governor. . . . In this article he gives his ideas of the real job of government . . . opposes any more Federal control, favors more state responsibility, free enterprise, and individual initiative . . . A fine self-portrait of a man who will be much in the news — and well worth reading.

The Camouflaged Communist Press

More dangerous than the Communist press is the press that pretends not to be but is — "The Camouflaged Communist Press." Frederick Woltman, who has specialized in exposing false-front Communist organizations, reveals the facts through a case study of one of the most cleverly disguised, "In Fact," which has won large readership as a courageous periodical among decent liberals and even conservatives who fail to recognize it for what it is.

INSIDE POLAND TODAY

Nazi occupied, plundered, starved, subject to inhuman restrictions and periodic round-ups of both men and women for forced labor in Germany, with a vicious program to demoralize and destroy her young people. Poland is still proud and fighting — but the Nazi morale has begun to crack. Read this authentic report of an underground worker — and the Nazi alibi for sustained brutality — for a better understanding of our enemies!

The American MERCURY

OPINION that gets action . . .

"I thought I had seen horror" was the way it opened . . . this four page article by an anonymous relief worker who told of famine in Greece . . . of food given only to those who had a chance to live, of Germans callous to starving children . . . "This Is Starvation" was reprinted from The Mercury by Reader's Digest, reproduced in newscolumns and editorials, quoted by radio commentators . . . and later credited by The Greek War Relief for contributions totaling $125,000.

In circulation, The Mercury is small compared with mass-popular publications. But in content, The Mercury carries much that makes Mercury readers make up their minds . . . want to start or stop doing something. And as Mercury readers include no mean portion of opinion makers . . . three thousand editors, reporters, and writers, for instance . . . it isn't hard to understand why important opinion in The Mercury so often initiates effective action.

700,000 Civilians Rate Navy Day Approbation

This is Navy Day. The man and woman in a Navy uniform is being honored for the Navy's fine work in this war. Our Navy is the largest and best in the world. But what about the 700,000 civilians who are the backbone of the Navy? They deserve a bow, too. Civilians do everything from design and build ships to operating the Navy home for old sailors. Without them our fleet would be helpless. Navy civilians have fought side by side with the fighting men; they're prisoners of war, and they build, supply, and repair the fleet. In short, here are a few of their accomplishments:

KLUTTZ

More than 10,000 Navy civilians are believed to be Jap prisoners; hundreds were thought to have been killed in the Jap attack on the Philippines; they took over guns to try to beat off Jap attacks at Pearl Harbor, Wake Island and other outposts; they are building all the battleships under construction; 43 per cent of the aircraft carriers; 31 per cent of the submarines; 10 per cent of the cruisers, and about 8 per cent of the destroyers. They do most of the repair work on United Nations ships and a large percentage of the Navy's guns and turrets are built here at the Washington Yard.

The Navy has one civilian—a gray little man—who has one of those bureaucratic desk jobs here and who this country and the United Nations will never be able to repay. His name is Dr. A. Hoyt Taylor and he's a physicist at the Bellevue Research Laboratory here. Dr. Taylor is the inventor of radar. Need more be said? He's certain to go down in history as having developed an invention that will have made this war a lot shorter. Another civilian, Frank M. Hobson, has indirectly saved the life of many a fighting man by his invention of the submarine escape lung. Since the war the Navy has given some 700 civilians cash awards that have saved the taxpayers millions of dollars through their inventions and suggestions. Some of the civilians will be awarded the Distinguished Service Medal when it is made available to people out of uniform.

At headquarters here are 20,000 civilians and 13,800, or about 71 per cent, are women. In the field service are 138,800 women, or about 21 per cent of the total. In the past six months the number of women has increased by 10 per cent. Women are taking the places of men in the shops and the men are going to war. All draft-age Navy men are on replacement schedules and they will be called up for military service when their time comes. The Navy now is trying to hire more women to take jobs here. It will replace 2000 officers and enlisted men with women and older men before the year's end if it can hire them. Washington is the nerve center of the Navy. The office here is like a gigantic switchboard that keeps contact with the fleet the world over. When work is delayed here the fighting forces will suffer. Hats off to Navy civilians.

This incident took place the other day at the Office of Strategic Services. An Army officer in charge of a division was informed that he would be given five additional soldiers.

"Fine," he said, "that's wonderful. Now I can release five civilians for combat duty."

Civil Service is making an appeal to housewives and students to take part-time Federal jobs. Hours will be arranged, but they shouldn't exceed more than three-fourths of the full-time workweek. Eligibles must live within a 50-mile radius of Washington. The jobs pay 66 cents an hour. You can get $13.27 for working 27 hours and $23.88 for a 36-hour week. But here's a tip if money is a factor: you can get more money by taking a charwoman's job . . . MEMO TO PUBLIC BUILDINGS: Treasury war bond employes in the building at 614 14th st. nw. have no heat. Several of the employes have colds and one is out with pneumonia. How about getting busy? . . . Paul Carrier, who operates the service shops in the West Potomac Government girl dorms, called yesterday to say that he would reimburse the girls in Barton Hall for the money they spent to buy coffee cups. His paper cup supply has been cut in half and he'll use paper cups every morning except Sunday. The girls must bring their pottery cups—leased from him at 15 cents each—to get coffee on evenings and Sundays.

President Roosevelt yesterday made his long-predicted statement on the draft and Federal employes. He cited facts and figures to show that the Federal service isn't a haven for "draft-dodgers," and he called those who say it "mud-slingers." He took the occasion, in letters to the House and Senate, to commend Federal workers for their part in the war. The Government's record on deferments, as the President pointed out, is much better than industry's. . . . A shotgun retirement took place yesterday in the Postoffice Department. Eddie Closuit retired, after 32 years, from the Division of Stamps, and his friends presented him with a double-barreled shotgun.

Court Releases Union's Funds With Warning

By Joseph Paull

Justice James M. Proctor of District Court refused yesterday to grant an injunction against the International Building Laborers and Hod Carriers Union but told attorneys for the rank and file of Local 74 that should they show any intimidation or bad faith practised in the future by the interantional officers the court would take action.

Justice Proctor said that an injunction would completely tie up affairs of the union and do irreparable harm to the 10,000 members of the local, because "although the men might be loafing on the street with jobs available, without the union functioning no one could assign them jobs."

Funds Released

The court order of two weeks ago padlocking all union funds and barring its officers from their right to office also was dismissed.

Attorneys Brien McMahon and Robert E. Lynch for the defense contended the court had no right to enter the dispute as the anti-injunction law or Norris-LaGuardia Act of 1932 limited a Federal Court's jurisdiction in labor disputes.

Attorneys Hyman Glickstein and Samuel Levine contended the anti-injunction law held only as to labor-management and interlabor disputes between labor members and their union heads.

Citing what he considered abuse of union funds by Kelly, Clickstein said Larry Kelly, now a fugitive from a grand jury investigating possible criminal aspects of the union case, had no authorization to sign checks.

Signed Checks Anyway

"But he did it, didn't he?" asked Justice Proctor.

"He did it," replied Glickstein.

"Yes, he did," concluded Justice Proctor.

The courtroom was crowded with union membership, mostly Negroes, who sat quietly throughout the hearing.

Justice Proctor said that in dismissing the restraining order and denying the temporary injunction asked, he did so without prejudice and said that attorneys for the rank and file could come before him any time after December 1 should they find future injustices.

2.47-Inch Rainfall Recorded Here for 24-Hour Period

Exactly 2.47 inches of rain fell in the metropolitan area between 10 p. m. Monday and 10 p. m. last night, the Weather Bureau said, and predicted that there would be a few light showers today and early tonight, accompanied by continued cool temperatures.

Some damage was done, principally to uniforms of a class of District police officers taking motorcycle training on the old circus grounds at 4th and Market sts. ne. The officers, slogging in the mud and wet as they handled unfamiliar steeds, were often spilled.

Citizens Approve Home Rule Measure

The Holman "home rule" resolution for Washington was approved yesterday by the Hamshire Heights Citizens Association. The association also started on a survey of the local school situation in an endeavor to have the schools in the section rezoned in such a manner as to make it unnecessary for pupils to cross dangerous intersections on their way to school. Improvement of playgrounds in the section was recommended.

For Flexibility

Cafe Code Is Redrafted In Senate

By Anne Hagner

A Senate District restaurant subcommittee yesterday submitted to Chairman McCarran a report approving the bill establishing a restaurant sanitary code, but redrafting the measure to provide "greater flexibility through a grant of authority to the Commissioners to prescribe standards for grading."

Senator Overton (Democrat) of Louisiana, chairman of the subcommittee, explained that the major purpose of the bill was "to set up in the District a system of restaurant grading which will bring the power of public opinion to bear as an agency for enforcement of the maintenance of sanitary conditions."

The bill was redrafted after hearings last month, Overton explained, because the subcommittee felt that provision of such standards in detail in an act of Congress would not permit sufficient flexibility to meet conditions as they might occur.

Job for Commissioners

"Your committee believes the existing District restaurant regulations can be strengthened by adopting some of the standards set forth in the bill as originally introduced, but feels that such changes should be made by the Commissioners of the District, by ordinance, rather than an act of Congress."

He declared that "considerable newspaper publicity" was one of the factors responsible for the citing of several restaurants recently for revocation of licenses because of repeated or serious violations.

"Fines for violations have in nearly all cases been relatively small, at least until recent months, and have not constituted a sufficient threat to make possible strict enforcement," Overton continued. "It is the view of your committee that the weight of public opinion, brought into play by use of the restaurant grading system, would constitute a means of enforcement much more efficacious than mere fines. To further strengthen enforcement, the bill provides for a maximum penalty of $1000 for violations, as compared with a maximum of $300 provided under the existing ordinance promulgated by the Commissioners."

Given Greater Power

It was pointed out that the proposed bill vests a greater power in the District health officer than in the previous act, in that "it makes his finding that food is unwholesome or adulterated conclusive to the fact."

The bill also specifically provides that Government eating places shall be operated in conformity with the same standards applied to other restaurants, but that to avoid conflicts in authority, inspections of Federal restaurants shall be handled by the Public Health Service.

District Committee to Consider Bike Registration Tomorrow

The House District Committee will meet at 11 a. m. tomorrow for consideration of a measure providing for a 25-cent registration fee and licensing of all bicycles in the District.

Also on the House side of the Capitol, Chairman Randolph yesterday answered Comptroller General Lindsay Warren's report protesting against the proposed "simplified" budget which, Warren declared, would deprive Congress of some of its present control over appropriations.

Randolph's answer was that he concurred with the Comptroller General's opinion and that "I trust you have brought the matter to the attention of Representative Mahon of the Appropriations Committee."

The West Virginia Congressman revealed that he had received an urgent request from Frank E. James, chairman of the safety committee of the Benning Citizens Association, for action on the installation of a walk-light at the east end of the Benning viaduct, described as a six-way intersection where school children crossed several times each day.

Randolph immediately sent a letter to John Russell Young, president of the Board of Commissioners, asking for a report on the walk-light.

D. C. to Pay Tribute to Greatest Navy

Navy Day, inaugurated in 1922 in celebration of the birthday of President Theodore Roosevelt, who led in the development of a naval policy for the United States, will be celebrated here today with tributes to the present wartime Navy—the largest in the Nation's history.

At 12:30 p. m. the Military Order of the World War will conduct traditional exercises at the John Paul Jones Statue in Potomac Park, when wreaths will be placed by patriotic organizations.

Speakeers at Monument

Principal speakers at the monument ceremony will be Rear Admiral Clark H. Woodward, chief of the Incentive Division of the United States Navy; Vice Admiral Raymond A. Fenard, chief of the French Naval Mission to the United States, and Rear Admiral Adolphus Staton, past commander of the Military Order of the World War.

The Navy Day dinner will be held tonight at the Mayflower Hotel with Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as principal speaker. Representative Wadsworth (Republican) of New York will be toastmaster.

Lions to Have Program

A Navy Day program will be given at the Washington Lions Club luncheon at 12:30 p. m. in the Mayflower Hotel. Commander E. J. Spaulding, procurement officer of the Construction Battalion of the United States Navy, will direct the program will be presented by Construction Battalion men who have served in combat areas.

An exhibit of naval wartime art is on display in the north gallery of the Mayflower Hotel. It includes paintings by Lieut. Comdr. McClelland Barclay, reported missing in action; Chief Boatswain's Mate Hunter Wood of the Coast Guard, and a series by Lieut. Carl Shreve of the United States Marine Corps.

A musical program of Navy songs has been arranged by a group of WAVES for 8 o'clock tonight at the USO Club for servicewomen at 1911 H st. nw.

Adventists Open Annual Autumn Parley Tomorrow

The General Conference of the Seventh Day Adventists will convene its annual autumn council tomorrow at the headquarters in Takoma Park, Md. Representatives of churches from all parts of the United States, Canada and such foreign countries as war permits will be in attendance. The session will continue for a week.

Study of postwar needs and ways of meeting them will be the underlying theme of the conference, together with plans for rehabilitation in connection with the church's work in the war-torn countries.

It is expected that upward of 100 members of the executive committee will be present when the session opens at 10 a. m. in the assembly room of the theological seminary.

Trial Begun In PEPCO Rate Suit

The District Court suit by which the Government seeks a rate reduction of 10 per cent in charges by the Potomac Electric Power Co. went to trial yesterday before Justice Jennings Bailey.

The suit was instigated by the Office of Price Administration, the Office of Economic Stabilization, the Procurement Division of the Treasury and the Federal Works Agency, all claiming the Public Utilities Commission had "unjustly permitted" PEPCO to "enrich itself at the expense of consumers."

Harry R. Booth, OPA utilities counsel, explained the background of the case which began last March when the Government attacked the sliding-scale arrangement under which PEPCO operates.

S. R. Bowen, a PEPCO attorney, challenged the right of OPA to instigate the suit, stating that OPA in no way has been damaged by the PEPCO action. OPA insists that the utility, because it allegedly could operate on a smaller profit, is charging inflationary rates.

The Government contends that, as PEPCO's largest consumer and paying five million dollars yearly, it has been damaged by the action.

Booth charged that PUC denied the Government a full and fair hearing last March, and that the rates were calculated erroneously.

The PUC on April 26 gave consumers a reduction of 1.5 per cent retroactive to March, 1943, but the Government contends this is far too small a reduction.

Prince Georges Gambling Spots Quiet as Grave

All of the gambling joints in Prince Georges County have been closed since Saturday, it was learned yesterday. In addition, the Sunday and after-hours liquor sale ban was strictly enforced.

Both actions followed a grand jury report criticizing liquor and gambling conditions in the county.

Although reticent to talk about this side of county affairs, numerous officials interviewed admitted that all gambling houses, including the famous one on Bladensburg rd., near the District line, were reputedly shut down.

The most notorious place in the county customarily shuts down during the county horse racing season and it was pointed out that this year all the southern Maryland tracks had combined in one meet, hence that might account for the shutting down of this club.

However, this would not account for all of the lesser houses closing their doors.

Mushrooming Reported

For some time there have been reports that gambling joints were mushrooming throughout the county, springing up in the rear and over such places as barber shops and in consequence the control of them was getting more and more difficult.

A. Gwynn Bowie, Prince Georges State's attorney, said he had "heard" they all had closed, but denied any personal knowledge of their either having been open or—more recently—their closing.

Bowie denied there had been any raids as a consequence of the grand jury report, but admitted he had "discussed" the grand jury report with county police officials.

Whether the shut down was voluntarily on the part of the operators or as the result of pressure, could not be officially ascertained.

How long the current reform wave would continue could not be ascertained either.

But it was made known there had been received numerous complaints of whisky selling after hours by some liquor stores not far from the District line and also of extremely high prices being asked for the liquid wares thus sold. Police checked the liquor houses Sunday night.

Bowie made it clear that "if the places were closed," he did not take credit for it all.

From other sources, however, it was disclosed that the miracle of reform had been accomplished by other officials with a few discreet telephone calls last Saturday.

Capt. Clark Gable Here to Explain Training Films

Clark Gable, captain in the United States Army Air Forces and holder of the Air Medal for "exceptionally meritorious achievement" in five bomber missions, came here from the European war theater via New York, yesterday.

He conferred with Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's Theater chain, at the Carlton Hotel. Entering and leaving, Gable was recognized by dozens of persons. Gable, who enlisted in August, 1942, is here to show and explain training films made in England for the Air Force, and to wait other assignments.

On January 6, he was awarded the wings of an Air Force gunner at Tyndall Field, Fla. He was then a second lieutenant, having been commissioned from corporal in October, 1942. Captain Gable won the Air Medal for action above Nantes, France, September 23, when he manned a Flying Fortress gun and at the same time operated a camera for action pictures of the type he will show trainees based at American airfields.

Father of Five Admits Slaying Of Secretary Found in Street

Interior of Death Car

found in his Packard sedan parked outside. The car also was blood-stained and there was a bullet hole in a rear window on the right side.

Mergner, who had been drinking heavily, police said, acted like a wild man when he appeared before Commissioner Turnage.

"I didn't kill her. I don't even know her," Mergner shouted when Turnage read to him a charge of premeditated murder.

Accused Man Screams

"I don't give a damn who you are," the accused man screamed, partly rising from his chair and shaking a finger at the Federal magistrate. "You can't accuse me of killing her."

Turnage, after United States marshals and detectives restrained the man, read the charge to the defendant again.

"What do you mean 'kill and murder?'" Mergner demanded. "I don't even know what you're talking about, Pal . . ."

The defendant then slumped into his chair and broke into tears.

"I have five children and their mother is dead," sobbed Mergner. Please—please take care of them. Have somebody go to them and take care of them and I won't care what you do to me."

"I'm drunk and you accuse me of murder and everything else, but please take care of my kids."

Commissioner Turnage told the police he felt Mergner was not in a condition to be arraigned and continued the case for one week. He denied bail to the defendant.

Lived With Mergner

Inspector Barrett said he was told by the suspect that Mrs. Robinson had lived with him until about a month ago. Records at District Court at the time of her naturalization, August 3, of this year, listed her address as the Mergner home. She was born in Germany.

The 17-year-old daughter of the suspect was interviewed by detectives last night and revealed how she telephoned Mrs. Robinson, Monday night and made the appointment for her father which led to the tragedy.

It was revealed Mergner became enraged that Mrs. Robinson had a date with another man Saturday night. He made repeated telephone calls to the victim's rooming house Sunday, it was said.

Mergner said, according to Barrett, that he met Mrs. Robinson by appointment at 4th and East Capitol sts. about 8 p. m., Monday night. They argued about the separation, it was said.

Mergner was quoted by Barrett as saying he stopped at 4th and A sts. ne. to talk and shot her when she refused to come back to him.

It is believed the first shot passed through her left hand and into her head and was the fatal wound. The other three shots struck her left cheek.

Mergner then drove to 7th and A sts., according to his story to Barrett, and intended to put the woman's body into a manhole. He said he was interrupted by a woman walking by and told Barrett he asked the woman "What in the hell are you looking at?"

His words are identical with those quoted to police Monday night by Mrs. Robert Lucas, 631 A st. ne., who found Mrs. Robinson's body and saw a man flee in a car.

Mrs. Robinson, records at District Court disclosed, was born in Germany February 25, 1913, and came to America in September 1924. Her name previously was Emmi Mallwitz.

Mrs. Robinson's father, police reported, was an officer in the German army.

Mergner, a shipping clerk at the Charles Schneider Bakery, was indicted in March, 1939, on a charge of performing an abortion on his wife. Indicted with him was Dr. Fred F. Deming, 44.

It was charged at that time that both men performed the operation which led to Mrs. Agnes Mergner's death at Providence Hospital on March 5, 1939.

Indictment Ignored

The indictment against Mergner subsequently was ignored. Dr. Deming, however, was sentenced to serve from three to nine years in jail.

Police reported last night that Mergner is well off financially. His money, it was said, was inherited from his wife who was the heir of a large chain bakery fortune.

The suspect's five children, three boys aged 6, 8 and 12 and two girls, 14 and 17, were being cared for at his home by their grandfather, the defendant's father.

Mergner's arrest and the quick solution of the murder was attributed by Maj Edward J. Kelly and Commissioner John Russell Young to the coordinated activity of Detective Bureau investigators.

It was pointed out that Mrs. Robinson was not identified until 1:15 p. m. yesterday and that Mergner was seized at 2:40 p. m.

The dead woman's body was identified at the Morgue by her landlady, Mrs. Maurine B. Schroeder, 325 East Capitol st. Her identification and the fact Miss Harrison, Mrs. Robinson's roommate, recalled the latter's association with Mergner "cracked" the case.

At Police Headquarters last night were Miss Harrison, John L. Mergner, brother of the suspect, and Mrs. Robinson's landlady. According to the police they made "routine" statements.

Victim Divorced Convict

The murder of Mrs. Charlotte W. Robinson, War Hospitality Committee secretary Monday night, revealed a tale of devotion usually associated with fiction.

It was learned last night that she was investigated by the FBI last year because of her enemy alien status, being a native of Germany, and because of her two marriages to the notorious Brown Wiley Robinson, alias Jimmy Russell, 28 times arrested and now serving a 10 year term in Fort Leavenworth, Kans., federal prison, on a conviction of interstate transportation of stolen jewelry.

In spite of her German birth, the FBI declared nothing in Mrs. Robinson's record had been found which showed her disloyal to the United States and because of that, in May of this year, her request for citizenship was approved. She married Robinson in 1935 but divorced him in 1937. The next year she remarried him in St. Louis. They were divorced again in 1943.

In 1940, Mrs. Robinson came to Washington, where her first local address was 1344 Parkwood pl. nw. She was then a stenographer for a carbonated beverage company. About Easter time in 1942 she accepted a job as housekeeper for Mergner, father of five motherless children.

Sen. Smith Addresses Citizens Association

Senator Ellison D. Smith of Southm Carolina last night addressed the Arkansas Avenue Citizens Association on "Community Spirit."

New Type Army Kitchen Car Now Has Showers for KPs

A new type Army kitchen car, completely equipped with coal ranges, refrigerators and showers for the KP's, was exhibited yesterday at Union Station to Government officials and high ranking officers of the armed services who inspected the car and sampled a typical GI meal cooked in the kitchen.

Built with a minimum of strategic materials, the new car is designed to release for commercial use railroad dining-kitchens and a number of baggage cars which have been serving as makeshift kitchens in the mass movement of troops.

The car is equipped with 12 ceiling and eight side ventilators and seven windows, a departure from the old type kitchen which lacked ventilation and was closed except for four sliding baggage car doors.

In use, the troop kitchen car is coupled at the center of a train and food is dispensed from either end.

OCD Anniversary

The second anniversary of the Mid-City Area of Civilian Defense will be celebrated by a meeting of area workers tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. at Patterson High School, Vermont ave. and V st. nw. Pvt. Guest speaker at today's Federal Bar Association luncheon will be Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat) of Oklahoma, who will discuss "Some Postwar Problems." Announcement was made by Judge George Neilson of Municipal Court, chairman of the association's luncheon program. The affair will be held at Schneider's Restaurant, 427 11th st. nw. at 12:30 p. m.

Church Told To Meet Issue Of Juveniles

Leading clergymen of Washington's principal religious denominations last night placed squarely on the church greater responsibility for correcting juvenile delinquency in this community.

Reporting to the Advisory Committee on Wartime and Postwar Problems of the Child, which met with civic and educational leaders, the church sub-committee, chairmanned by the Rev. A. F. Elmes, agreed on these major proposals looking toward positive participation by the church with the schools in the problem:

1. As a means of "bringing the church to the school," the committee suggests assemblies, possibly twice a month, at which representatives of all the faiths could discuss closer integration of family life with civic responsibilities.

2. The public schools and the churches should explore ways of gearing their educational machinery together for greatest impact on young people.

3. School and church leaders should begin to explore the area of weekday religious instruction.

4. The resources of the D. C. Recreation Department in leadership and equipment as aid to the churches ("the churches can make more use of their buildings and other facilities for youth gatherings, scouting, neighborhood councils and leisure time activities") should be made known to the leadership of the churches.

Parent Important

Bringing to specific terms the agreement of all present that after all other corrective agencies have done their work, it is the parent who exerts greatest influence on the problem child, Rabbi Norman Gerstenfield won unanimous support for his proposal that a "parent's manual" be prepared and sent to the fathers and mothers of every child registered with or about to enter the public schools.

Such a manual, he declared, would offer "concrete" suggestions to the worried parent about specific corrective measures, agencies which might help, and civic facilities for diverting the child from the streets to constructive play.

The Rev. John W. Rustin, vice president of the Washington Federation of Churches, deplored the "social" relationship between clergymen and their flocks which often rules out frank and unafraid discussion of family delinquency problems. Establishment of what he termed "clinics or confessionals" would help the church member bring his worry about a wayward son or daughter or wife to the pastor, without fear of social censure, he said.

A "progress report" of the General School Committee on Juvenile Delinquency, given by Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock, disclosed the concrete steps which have been taken in the District elementary schools to help "problem children."

Must Report Cases Early

Judge Fay Bentley of the Juvenile Court told the meeting that the courts will do everything possible to correct juvenile delinquency, but they must have the immediate cooperation of parents, the schools and civic groups in reporting individual cases in their incipient stages. She offered to bring actual case histories to future meetings to show what could be done by the court in this respect.

Following a statement by Msgr. Lawrence J. Shehan that Catholic groups here are banding together on the problem of juvenile delinquency and will take it directly to the churches for discussion and action, it was learned that an FBI representative has appeared before the ministerial conference with material on the situation. Representatives from FBI will also be sent to individual churches studying the problem, it was stated.

City News In Brief

The Commissioners announced yesterday that two detective sergeants had been demoted to privates for conduct unbecoming to officers. The men are Robert Maghan, jr., and William McEwen.

The demotions, which will become effective November 1, were made by the Commissioners on the recommendation of Maj. Edward J. Kelly. Neither the Commissioners nor Major Kelly would discuss the case other than to state that it was "for the good of the service."

Trouble Brews in Family, Stepfather Reports, Because He Keeps Close Watch Over Teen-Age Boy and Girl, Distrusting Their Mother's Policy

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I hope you can give me some advice; because I feel at a loss to know what to do next. I am the stepfather of a girl 16 years old. She is a nice little girl, but the whole trouble is, she wants to stay out after 10 o'clock each night. I say 10 o'clock is late enough for her, as she is in her last year at Junior High School. She resents any advice I give her; says her mother will tell her what to do. Now, all my thoughts are of the child. I want her to be the best and I am very good to her. She gets about what she wants in clothes and spending money.

Her mother tells me to let her alone; that she is able to take care of herself, even though she is out late. But I know that to be dangerous. Being a man, I know what the conditions are now. I try to talk to the girl and tell her the right thing to do; but being a stepfather, I realize I have two strikes on me to start with. The other day, I read part of a letter written to her by a boy in the service, in which he said: "I am sorry you are not on good terms with your stepfather. No, I don't think he should tell you how long to stay out; and you will soon be old enough that you can do as you please." He went on to say that all stepfathers are the same. If that is true, there are no bad ones; for I am as much interested in this child as if she were my own.

Her mother doesn't give her any advice; so I must double my efforts to see that she is told what is best for her, before it is too late. All this is creating plenty of trouble in our home. I changed jobs so I could be home evenings with the children and watch over them. I also have a stepson, almost 14 years old. They think I want to be mean to them. But what I want is a fine family,—all willing to listen to each other, and ready to help one another; and most of all, I want us to confine our affairs to our own family. Please advise me soon; as this problem is more important than you may think.

R. W. D.

Man's Performance Is Not Wholesome

DEAR R. W. D.: I get an unfavorable impression of your attitude toward your stepdaughter. It seems to me there is a jealous, overweening quality of solicitude in your concern for her; something not quite wholesome; almost as if you were too interested in this "nice little girl's" comings and goings. And I feel, definitely, that you are giving a bull-in-the-china-shop performance in setting yourself up as St. Peter-at-the-Gate, to check on the children's evening excursions. I think your presentation of the case is a very smooth job of giving yourself the best of it; but to one long schooled in reading between the lines, it doesn't ring true. Something is wrong with the home situation. I don't doubt that. I believe your statement that there is "plenty of trouble" brewing. But if we had all the facts on the table, I imagine we would find that most of the trouble stems from you.

I am interested in your significant statement that the girl's mother "doesn't give her any advice;"—followed by the self-justifying remark that you must therefore redouble your efforts "to see that she is told what is best for her, before it is too late." In the words of the old almanac puzzles, "What is wrong with this picture?" I am sure you don't know, or you wouldn't be acting as you are. And if you can get it through your head just what is wrong with that picture, and revise your own conduct in the light of that knowledge,—it is probable that your stepchildren will stand a better chance than they do now of making out all right. So, to explain: To the extent that you have aggressively muscled in to the children's lives and social relations, in the role of absolute dictator, to that extent have you driven your wife instinctively to a defensive, protective, unfortunately too-indulgent championship of them; and also, perhaps, to a secret combine with them, to outwit and defy your unseemly authoritarianism.

Which means that if your wife isn't "giving any advice" to the youngsters, undoubtedly it is because you long ago swindled her out of the feeling that she could wisely and justly do so,—along lines that would, from her view, best promote the children's welfare. Having elbowed her out of her rightful position as chief counselor and reasonable guide in their affairs,—indeed, having pushed her into the hapless role of underground plotter with them, as the only method left to her of trying to preserve for them some sense of being able to "call their souls their own"—you then proceed to espouse and enact the philosophy that you HAVE to run the whole show, and call every turn, because she is falling down completely on her job! Now, do you begin to see what's wrong?

Youth Gives Respect Where It Is Deserved

As for what to do about it,—if you really want to steer in the right direction, my advice is to turn the reins of child management over to your wife; and let her call your authority into play when she feels a need of it, to strengthen her hand. And if this new arrangement should seem to go badly at first, don't blame her or the children. Blame yourself, for having sown seeds of rebellion-against-authority in their hearts, by your past "heavy" mismanagement of the situation. And don't be such a fool as to kick up a row over the serviceman's letter,—and the girlish confidence that went before. It is proverbial that eavesdroppers hear no good of themselves; and you had no business snooping in her mail. That act in itself is enough to justify her complaint of undue surveillance by her stepfather. If you gave her reason to like and respect you, and brag about you,—she would.

American Beauties

Both the savory cheese dish and the lovely roses pictured here, deserve this title

Martha Ellyn's Platter Chatter

If someone refers to you as a "hunk of cheese" you can be sure in these wartime days, that you are a rather precious person. The firm and even-textured Cheddar cheese, best known in this country as American cheese, is a versatile and popular food in the average home, and doing its patriotic bit along with all other cheese which is available.

Martha Ellyn

American cheese is made in various sizes and shapes. It has many uses—as a filler for sandwiches, in a variety of cooked dishes, in salads, as an accompaniment to pie, as a dessert when served with crackers or fruit, as an appetizer, alone or in combination, and for snacks.

Macaroni and cheese has long been a favorite main dish. Now with our pivotal dishes needing special consideration because of rationing and availability of foods, we need to know a number of dishes which will fill the bill and so vary menus.

An attractive version of macaroni and cheese is the kind for which the recipe is given today. This is a recipe from the splendid collection of the cook book, "Favorite Recipes, from America's Dairyland."

Let's fit this nutritious, appealing dish into a dinner menu pattern. Here is a suggested one:

Dinner Menu

Macaroni with Cheese—Olive Sauce
Fresh Green Beans
Calavo—Grapefruit Salad
Enriched Bread Butter
Cranberry Pudding Coffee

The following recipe for the macaroni-cheese dish is not the familiar baked one, but it is just as delicious and very easy to make:

MACARONI WITH CHEESE—OLIVE SAUCE

Cook macaroni in boiling salted water to make 2 cupsful. Make a white sauce of 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour and 2½ cups milk. Add 2 cups grated American cheese (reserving enough for garnishing) and 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Stir until cheese is melted. Add ½ to 1 cup sliced, stuffed olives. Arrange the cooked macaroni on warm serving plate and pour over it the sauce. Garnish with grated cheese. Serve with grilled tomatoes on buttered toast rounds.

When you want to make a rather special dish, the combination of macaroni, cream cheese and chicken as used in the following recipe will furnish you a splendid main dish.

HUNTINGTON CHICKEN

Cook macaroni to make 2 cupsful. Make a cream sauce of ½ tablespoon butter, ½ tablespoon flour and ½ cup scalded cream. Add 1 cup cream cheese, 3 tablespoons finely cut pimiento, 1 cup hot chicken broth and mix well. Add 2 cups diced cooked chicken, the macaroni and salt and pepper as desired. Pour into buttered casserole. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, 30 to 45 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Much Easier

When using both rind and juice of lemons or oranges, Westinghouse home economists grate rind before squeezing. It's much easier that way.

News of the Women's Clubs

By Genevieve Reynolds

What does the future hold for women of the enlisted forces? The pros and cons of the question will be threshed out in a weekend conference sponsored by the World's Y. W. C. A. at the National Education Association Building, 1201 16th st. nw.

GENEVIEVE REYNOLDS

General theme of the meeting is "The Effect of the War on the Life of Women." The opening session gets under way Friday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock, with the chairman, Miss Ruth F. Woodsmall, presiding. Mrs. Janet Fowler Nelson of New York, member of the USO staff of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., will discuss "The War and the Individual Woman" and Miss Charlotte Whitton will talk on "Women and the Future of Family Life."

The evening session will be a group discussion led by Mrs. J. D. H. Hutchinson. On Saturday morning the events will center around vocational experiences. Miss Louise Stitt will talk on "New Vocational Trends for Women in the United States." Mme. Marguerite Thibert, member of the staff of the International Labor Office in Montreal, talks on "New Vocational Interests Opened to Women by the War and Prospects for the Future." Miss Vilet Tennant, chairman, presides.

Lieut. Comdr. Mildred H. McAfee, representing the Navy Women's Reserve; Maj. Elizabeth Strayhorn of the Women's Army Corps, Section Officer Mary A. Clarke of the Royal Canadian Air Force (women's division) will participate in a symposium on "What Does the Future Hold for Women of the Enlisted Forces?"

Questions of citizenship will be the principal topic of the Sunday afternoon session, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, with Miss Marion V. Royce presiding.

Milk Must Be Conserved

Today, the demand for milk by our armed forces—and on our Home Front—is increasing much faster than production.

With this situation growing worse—there just isn't enough milk available to supply the full needs of everybody.

Naturally—the demands of our fighting men for this vital food must be fully met. So must the needs of those on our home front whose needs are greatest.

The importance of milk in the diet of adults is just as great as ever, but it is generally recognized that they can get along with less milk than can babies and the sick. We are confident, however, that this sacrifice, when necessary, will be made as a patriotic duty and in a spirit of understanding and cooperation.

In this present emergency, it is more important than ever that you buy only the amount of milk you actually need—and don't waste a single drop.

Junior League Members Aid Fund Drive

Leaving no stone unturned, which in this case means no door bell unrung, the Junior League of Washington has gone all out for the Community War Fund Drive and again has taken the Dupon Circle section as its particular job.

An innovation in this year's organization for the league is its Placement Committee for the campaign. Led by Mrs. John B. Cleland, jr., one of the regular placement groups, a number of members have taken full responsibility for recruiting workers for the league division, thus freeing team captains to devote their full time to campaigning. Proof of the success of this system is that over 160 Junior League workers are giving some time to the drive for funds.

Some of these workers have lived in foreign countries so that appeals for help for our Allies have a very personal meaning for them. Almost all have someone in the armed forces so that the work of the service organizations is well known to them. Every Junior League member, through her training courses and her regular volunteer work in the community, is aware of community needs. All this adds up to a determined group which knows exactly what it wants to do and how to do it.

Miss Elisabeth Houghton is chairman of the Junior League divison with Miss Fountaine Flannery as her assistant chairman. They have six teams, each having a captain and cocaptain. These leaders include Mrs. Gregory Prince, Mrs. Hill Carter, Mrs. Walter K. Myers, Mrs. D. W. O'Donoghue, jr.; Mrs. B. Lowndes Jackson, jr.; Mrs. Robert L. Graham, Mrs. William C. Foote, Miss Margot Chase, Mrs. G. Howland Chase, Mrs. J. William Magee, Mrs. Clifford D. Smith and Mrs. M. M. Hendrick.

Egyptian Legation To Be Opened for United Nations Club

The Egyptian Minister and Mme. Hassan will open the Egyptian Legation tomorrow evening to the United Nations Club party, to be held from 8:30 to 11 o'clock. The entertainment, which will feature games and individual performances, will be marked by a Mexican dance executed in costume by Talia Wermuth, well-known Washington dancer and sister of Arthur Wermuth, the famous hero of the Philippine battle.

Lieut. Richard Deneau, who has returned from active duty with the Army and who is convalescing at Walter Reed Hospital, is also expected to attend. A former tenor with the Philadelphia Opera Company, Lieutenant Deneau will sing several numbers during the evening.

Sunday evening, club members will attend the fifth in a series of dances at the Chauncey Depew home, now headquarters of the Texas Oil Co., on Massachusetts ave. A feature of the evening will be a Viennese Waltz Contest led by junior hostesses from the Navy League and judged by a group of United Nations' officers. Mrs. Arthur MacArthur will be hostess.

About Washington . . .

MRS. ROOSEVELT yesterday verified the report that Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins soon will move from the White House. At the same time, she let it be known that their extended sojourn definitely had not been a man-who-came-to-dinner affair . . . and that she and the President would be sorry to see them go.

"They have been the nicest guests one could possibly have," the First Lady told members of her weekly press conference.

And just when will they move? Even Mrs. Roosevelt didn't seem to be sure about that. "When the house is ready," she said, referring to the place at 3340 N Street which belongs to Mrs. Harold Walker and which is being done over to suit Mrs. Hopkins' taste. Difficulty is that Mrs. Hopkins negotiates a full-time job as a nurse's aid at Columbia Hospital and hasn't much time to supervise work on her house.

Mrs. Hopkins

Reasons for the move? Well, it seems Mr. Hopkins' health has improved considerably the past year, and his work is better organized, so that it is not necessary for the President to have him under the same roof all the time.

"Might the prospective move mean that Mr. Hopkins was losing his influence with the President?" a reporter asked.

Mrs. Roosevelt answered with a brief dissertation on friendship, influence, and the give-and-take of daily contact. "Any man with great responsibilities," she said, "wants around him at all times people whom he can call upon for information on a variety of subjects. Sometimes they become friends; sometimes they remain merely acquaintances.

"Then, being human beings, most people must have some people around them whom they can trust, who look at life from the same point of view. They don't always agree, but they have an honest approach and will give you an honest opinion. All people require that contact whether they wish to see people in time of leisure or for the 'intellectual filling up' of what has been drained from them through the day. It's a personal thing."

Incidentally, Mrs. Roosevelt hasn't yet had time to go over and see the house into which the Hopkinses will move.

BACK IN THE LUSH, plush prewar days, guests at embassy dinners in Washington accepted lavish menus as a matter of course, and—as you probably remember—nobody ever called attention to any special dish, no matter how delicious. But the changes war has wrought evince themselves in manners, along with everything else: and on Monday night at the Turkish Embassy dinner with sliced roast beef, piping hot and cooked to a queen's taste, was passed around—virtually every guest thanked the Turkish Ambassador and Mme. Ertegun all over again for being invited to the party.

"How long did you have to save up points for this?" somebody asked Mme. Ertegun. The inquisitive guest showed by that query she knew nothing about the "institution rating" accorded to embassies, legations, the White House, hotels and clubs. The "rating" is as it should be, of course; for chiefs of missions have to do much entertaining—it's all a part of job . . . and the number of meals served one month determines the number of points allotted for the next.

Person of special interest at the dinner was United States Ambassador to Turkey Laurence Steinhardt, who after a six-week stay in this country will be off soon to return to his post at Ankara. A former envoy to the Soviet Union, Mr. Steinhardt is one of the few persons around here whose optimistic opinion on the outcome of the current parleys at Moscow bears weight. Mr. Steinhardt, incidentally, is the only envoy we have ever sent to the Soviet who could speak that language. Both he and his wife are accomplished linguists and can also talk to the Turks in their own tongue.

"IN MY NEXT incarnation, I hope I'm a bachelor . . . in Washington," said a local matron at a luncheon the other day. She was enviously eying one of the average men-about-town, who had a bevy of sweet young things around him . . all looking as if he were the only man in the world. In a city where the female population is always much larger than the male, bachelors have a mighty good time . . . and an unattached man of almost any type needs to be only halfway presentable to get about quite a lot. When he's a dapper diplomat, blessed with continental charm and a brilliant mind, he has to work hard . . . ever to have a moment to himself.

Turkish Minister

All of which is a roundabout way of saying that Our Town soon will lose two of its attractive bachelors, both of whom are in the diplomatic contingent and have had their share of Capital invitations. The Turkish Minister, Mehmet Ali Sevki Alhan, is slated for transfer to his country's legation at Ottawa, and Capt. Guerin de Beaumont, who has been serving here with the Fighting French Delegation for some time, will go to New York to be consul for the National Committee for French Liberation. Replacing the latter will be Raoul Aglion, who will come here to serve as legal adviser for the French delegation.

Minister Sevki Alhan arrived here a year ago from Cairo, where he was envoy for nine years. Before that he was counselor in London and then returned to his homeland to serve in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for a time before being sent to Egypt.

Purely Personal

Justice and Mrs. William O. Douglas will be guests of honor at an informal dinner to be given tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Barnet Nover.

The Counselor of the Cuban Embassy, Dr. Vicente Valdes Rodriguez, is in Havana, where he will spend a month's vacation.

William H. Davis, chairman of the National War Labor Board, and Mrs. Davis, have sold their home in Georgetown which they purchased last year and have taken an apartment at the Shoreham for the winter.

Miss Betty Jean Brown, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Clarence Brown of Ohio, will be hostess to the associate members of the Congressional Club at a Halloween party on Friday evening at Alban Towers.

Mrs. Edmund Starling was honored at a luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower, when Miss Meredith Howard entertained a group of Mrs. Starling's friends in another of the many farewell fetes for the popular Starlings, who will leave Washington today for their home in Miami Beach. Among others at Miss Howard's luncheon were Mme. Ertegun, Mrs. Paul McNutt, Mrs. Scott Lucas, Mrs. Claude Pepper, Mrs. Albert Cox, Mrs. Thad Brown, Mrs. Theodore T. Hayes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson, who recently joined the WACS, has been stationed at Fort Washington, Va. She is the former wife of Harold O. Thompson.

Mrs. Mary Bruce Wallace will entertain at a tea tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at 2115 P st.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

When He Comes Back From the Wars

YOU WILL never again grit your teeth when you find the window sill, the mantel top, the radio cabinet and virtually every other flat area in the house strewn with match folders from which one match has been used.

You will never look at him long sufferingly as he flings hat, coat, collar and tie about the living room when he comes home tired from the office (or even when you find his shoes parked neatly under the piano).

You will let him carelessly flick his cigar ashes on your best rug, yes and burn a hole in your mahogany table, and only sit and beam at him happily.

You will stay relaxed in your chair, nay even give thanks at the sound of crashing dishes in the kitchen where he has gone to find a glass or a cup.

YOU WILL listen raptly—and SILENTLY to his longest stories and never, never, never again help him out on what he is going to say, or finish a sentence for him.

You will not stop him in company when he starts relating again the old incident in his boyhood that everybody present has heard. You will not even demur when he starts on the not so nice story that you don't think he should tell.

You will come eagerly from the kitchen no matter if the pie burns to a crisp when he calls to you to listen to what the paper says about the increase in Japanese beetles or the number of bicycles sold in 1895.

You will ruthlessly freeze out windy telephone callers who hold you interminably when he is home, especially if he is casting reproachful glances at you and the clock.

YOU WILL never again change the position of the furniture, especially not his chair, his lamp, his table and his radio.

You will let his old trousers, hats, and golf shoes accumulate in his closet for the next century and never upset and alarm him by even suggesting they ought to be given away where they could "do some good."

When he keeps underfoot on his day off, you will never have a momentary longing that he will take a notion to go to the drug store. Instead you will revel happily in his presence even though he leaves a trail of disorder in every room.

You will not nag him with questions or try to make him fix faucets, put in electric bulbs, or straighten pictures the minute he comes in the house.

You will be more particular about how you look at home but not so particular about how he looks.

NO MATTER what he does, you will never again put him mentally in the doghouse and drive him wild for days because he can't figure out what is wrong, of what it is he has done that he shouldn't.

You are never again going to let the house own you. Rather you are going to put first things first and spend in his companionship more of the few precious moments of time remaining to you.

You are going to take things easier and be less tense about everything's being just right. You are going to cultivate more the art of gayety and the relaxation of laughter. You are going to quit your eternal planning for a happier tomorrow and try to make a happier today.

You are never again going to let your relationship with him become a prosaic, matter-of-fact affair. You are going to revive and cherish that wonderful, glowing inner tie of spirit that both of you knew in the beginning and that the tragic realities of war have revealed to you as the most important thing in your life.

Your Figure, Madame!

By Ida Jean Kain

Your own good muscles are intended to act as stays through the midsection. And if they don't you are really missing that prewar girdle.

You haven't any boning to hold you in shape from the floating rib to the crest of the hip bones, but you do have a raft of muscles. They run every which way and as long as they keep their snap, they hold you in shape. When they lose it, your figure spreads every which way!

You have a gloomy premonition that it will take a lot of exercise and a long time to make the changes you want. But in two short weeks of special calisthenics you will begin to acquire such a firm, fit feeling that you will keep on going until you are really in shape.

It is better to start off easily and to work into harder exercises. This is what is called progressive exercise—and you make rapid progress with it. Here is an easy-to-take program that gets results.

1. Start with a wall stretch. Stand against a wall with one entire side touching it, that arm stretched overhead, the other down and relaxed. Slowly inch your hand up the wall until you are as far up as you can get without standing on tiptoes, hold it, and come down. Repeat five times, relax, and repeat on other side.

2. Lie on your back on the floor with hips on floor and feet elevated to low chair or stool, knees straight. Very slowly raise hips off the floor until you are in a straight line from chest to toes, hold it, and lower. Continue for 10 counts, rest, and then, keep hips elevated and alternate flexing knees to chest for four counts.

3. Now, here's a tough one, but it is really streamlining. Lie on back on floor with feet hooked under the chair, arms stretched up on floor overhead. Keep your feet on the floor, come up to sitting position, and bend over and touch hands to toes. Try to go back to floor just as slowly and carefully as you came up. Repeat three times and add one count each day until you are up to 15.

Do You Have a Room for Repairs?

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin

Room for repairs—that is the dream of many a homemaker (harassed or otherwise). And now, with repairs on the home front more essential than in the profligate days of peace, is the time to translate that dream into reality. For serious sewing and mending, and the pressing and shoe shining jobs that you used to send out, will keep the whole house in a mess if you don't have a good place for the work.

In many homes, there is often a small room available and handy to use for this purpose. Or the guest room can serve in its off hours, with a nook for this need—using a closet or a dramatic screen for getting the equipment out of the way when company does show. For that matter, a well organized closet devoted to the repair department will serve if it's all you can manage—or a corner of dining room or bedroom if you must—using a handsome screen for cover-up.

The most important equipment is a sewing machine—whether you just use it for mending or expect to give the coutouriers some competition. Electric if you can of course, and a portable if space is really scarce, but a cabinet model is much handier for the long pull if you have room for it. Even that old treadle-type machine can still do the work if it's the best you can manage—after all a good many generations of women did fine jobs with it. Remember that reconditioning is available even for the most battle-scarred veterans, and inexpensive tune-ups are offered on less ancient models. A tune-up special in neighborhood sewing centers is offered at $3.95 and covers average ailments.

You can also get missing or broken parts replaced and needles are available—thanks to the Government's recognition of the importance of keeping the Nation's sewing machines on duty.

Like other pieces of good furniture, a nice sewing machine cabinet oughtn't to be painted. But many an old war horse of a sewing machine can have its face lifted with paint till it's presentable to go in your best rooms. If your best room is on the dignified side, paint it in some antiqued finish, maybe with delicate French flowers for decoration. If your room is jaunty and casual, paint it bright and add some saucy peasant type of decorations.

In the sewing line, if you're really serious about it, you'll want a Mehitabel of some sort—one of the old-time dress forms will do, or an adjustable model, but the new ones that really shape are more efficient.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

When mothers write, as so many do, and describe a child as "my baby"; I find it pretty difficult to guess the age of the child.

Mrs. C. W. T. leaves me in a quandary when she says that relatives pooh-pooh her fears because her baby does not eat and tell her it is due to teeth. She explains that the baby has been this way from birth.

At present the mother devotes an hour each morning to feeding the baby and manages to get down eight ounces of formula. At noon the baby takes three ounces of milk and a jar of strained vegetables. At supper the same.

She takes an ascorbic acid tablet instead of orange juice and vomits very easily. The baby, despite her feeding habits, is pleasant and sleeps well.

Without knowing the baby's present age or weight I cannot even attempt to determine whether the present food intake is adequate or whether the baby is, in truth, ill-nourished as the mother imagines.

Since she has been a vomiting baby from birth it is probable that a thickened formula might be better retained. This means that the water content of this present formula—whatever it is—could be cooked with barley or wheat or oats then strained and added to the milk and sugar. The strained gruel should be about the thickness of a breakfast food wheih is made with half the amount of cereal called for in the recipe. When added to the milk this makes a formula about as thick as mustard. This will not go easily through an ordinary bottle nipple which will have to have a larger hole burnt in it with a red-hot darning needle. Put the end of the needle in a cork and hold the tip end over a gas or a candle flame until it is red, then puncture the nipple with this.

Please let me hear from you again, with more definite details of baby's age, weight and the formula now used.

Our leaflet, "Vomiting," mentions the ordinary reasons why babies vomit too often. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

A gift he'll welcome for the Christmas male

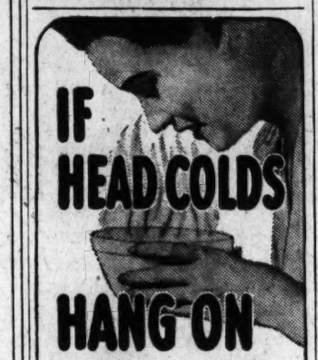
Mrs. Roosevelt Has Full Schedule Of Engagements

It's a busy week for Mrs. Roosevelt.

Yesterday the First Lady entertained wives of the Cabinet members at luncheon and last night went to Baltimore to open a bond rally held at the Museum of Art.

Today she will be guest of honor at the Soroptomist Club luncheon; will be honor guest at the Women's National Press Club at tea, when she will tell them of her recent trip to the southern Pacific area. Between the two afternoon engagements she will visit the new United Service Center.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guest of honor of the American Newspaper Women's Club at luncheon tomorrow at the Mayflower and will tell that group and their guests of her trip. She will speak again that evening to members of the Women's Advisory Committee of the War Manpower Commission.



DO THIS! To relieve discomforts, one of the best things you can do is put a good spoonful of home-tested Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water.

Then feel the wonderful relief come as you breathe in the steaming medicated vapors that penetrate to the cold-congested upper breathing passages! See how this soothes irritation, quiets coughing, and helps clear the head—bringing grand comfort.

FOR ADDED RELIEF . . . rub throat, chest and back with VapoRub at bedtime. Vicks VapoRub works for hours—2 ways at once—to bring relief from distress. Remember—it's Vicks VapoRub you want.

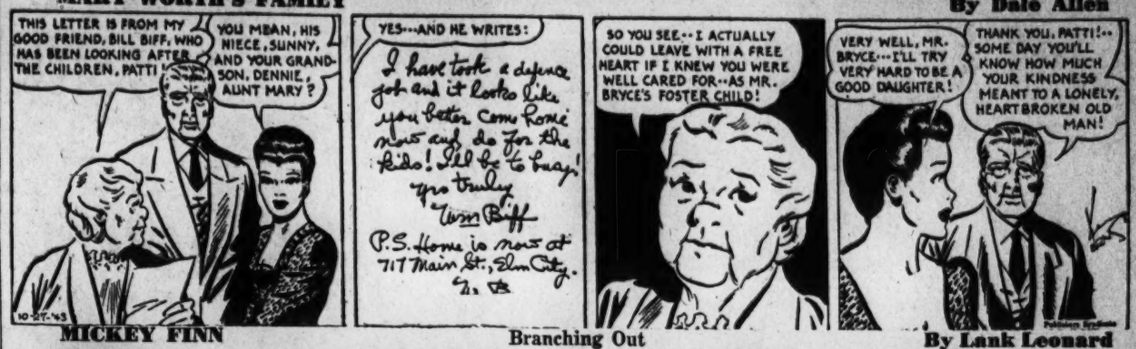
TERRY AND THE PIRATES — Three-Way Stretch — By Milton Caniff

WHAT'S TERRY DOING NOW, FLIP? GETTING RID TO THE AIRPLANE, GRETT!... LOTS OF NEW GADGETS TO TRY OUT...
WELL, HERE IT COMES! --HE'S PULLED UP TO LOSE SPEED AND GET HIS LANDING GEAR DOWN... WHY DID I GO INTO THIS BUSINESS..?
BABY DOES IT, TERRY! LIGHTLY AND POLITELY!
WELL--ALL THREE OF US MADE IT!

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — By Dale Allen



THIS LETTER IS FROM MY GOOD FRIEND, BILL BIFF, WHO HAS BEEN LOOKING AFTER THE CHILDREN, PATTI!
YOU MEAN, HIS NIECE, SUNNY, AND YOUR GRANDSON, DENNIE, AUNT MARY?
YES--AND HE WRITES:
I have took a defence job and it looks like you better come Rome next and do for the kids! I'll be to busy! yrs truley Tom Biff
P.S. Home is next at 717 Main St., Elm City.
SO YOU SEE--I ACTUALLY COULD LEAVE WITH A FREE HEART IF I KNEW YOU WERE WELL CARED FOR--AS MR. BRYCE'S FOSTER CHILD!
VERY WELL, MR. BRYCE--I'LL TRY VERY HARD TO BE A GOOD DAUGHTER!
THANK YOU, PATTI!-- SOME DAY YOU'LL KNOW HOW MUCH YOUR KINDNESS MEANT TO A LONELY, HEARTBROKEN OLD MAN!

MICKEY FINN — Branching Out — By Lank Leonard

DID'JA HEAR ABOUT PHIL FINN? HE'S TAKIN' BETS ON THE HORSES--ON THE SIDE!
NO KIDDIN'? WELL, HE'S ONE BOOKIE I OUGHT TO BE ABLE TO BEAT!
HOT DOG! LEAD ME TO HIM!
WE'D LIKE TO GET DOWN A BET, PHIL!
I NEVER LET PLEASURE INTERFERE WITH BUSINESS, BOYS --SEE ME AT LUNCH TIME!
TWO BUCKS ON "QUEENIE" IN THE FOURTH!
JUST A MINUTE, GEDNEY! I WANT TO GET ALL THESE ENTERED CORRECTLY!
FIVE-TEN-FIFTEEN-TWENTY-TWENTY-FIVE! NOT A BAD DAY'S PAY, CLANCY!

MR. AND MRS. — A Sound in the Night — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoover

WHAT IS IT? WHAT'S THE MATTER?
LISTEN! WE'VE GOT A CRICKET IN THE HOUSE! HEAR HIM? A CRICKET'S GOOD LUCK
IS? SURE, IT'S A CRICKET
THE CRICKET ON THE HEARTH. DON'T YOU KNOW WHAT THAT NOISE IS?
IT'S THE COLD WATER FAUCET IN OUR BASIN. IT NEEDS A NEW WASHER
TRUST YOU TO FIND SOMETHING THAT WILL COST ME MONEY

DIXIE DUGAN — A Miracle — By J. P. McEvoy and H. J. Striebel

RIGHT AROUND HOME — By Dudley Fisher

DON'T YOU THINK MY POP WAS SWELL TO TRADE ME HIS OLD SHOES FOR JUST MY No 18 COUPON!
FOR AN 18 COUPON I'LL TRADE ANY PAIR OF SHOES I OWN, INCLUDING THE SOCKS!
I'LL TAKE YOU UP ON THAT, POP!
HEY, MOM! WHERE'S MY NUMBER 18 COUPON?
OH, GOODNESS! I USED IT, MYSELF! I DIDN'T THINK YOU'D MISS IT!
THE DEAL IS OFF, POP! I TRADED WITH MOM!

JOE PALOOKA — Gotta Stay — By Ham Fisher

I KIN WORK AS A ORDERLY--JIST SO I'LL BE AROUND HERE--I GOTTA BE HERE--PUH-LEEZE, DOC.
WE-E-LL--MAYBE YOU CAN BE OF HELP TO US--AND YOU CAN SLEEP ON THE COT IN MY QUARTERS.
LOOK, TOMO--IF NADA COMES LEMME KNOW BEFORE SHE GITS IN--SAVE--UH--RAZUMEN?
DA.
HOKY SMOKES AM I LUCKY--WHEW!* IT TOOK SOME SELLIN' T'STAY HERE.
WHATCHA COOKIN'? I'M HUNGRY. I'M WORKIN' HERE.

JANE ARDEN — Why, Miss Flora! — By Monte Barrett and Russell Ross

YOU'RE SO DEAR AND KIND--ALWAYS THINKING OF OTHERS--IT'S HIGH TIME SOMEONE WAS THINKING OF YOUR HAPPINESS!
OH, TUT-TUT-- I GET ALONG ALL RIGHT!
I KEEP THINKING OF THAT BECAUSE YOU'VE MADE ME SO HAPPY--
I'M GLAD OF THAT-- I WANT YOU TO BE HAPPY, MISS FLORA--
I AM-- I'M ALWAYS HAPPY WITH YOU--
WHY, MISS FLORA--
AND SINCE I'VE KNOWN YOU, I REALIZE MORE AND MORE THAT I COULD NEVER BE HAPPY WITH ANY OTHER MAN!

SUPERMAN — Hear Superman 5:45 P.M. Today—WOL — By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

MR. AND MRS. EVAN DOUT HAVE ESCAPED! AND I'M WONDERING IF MAYBE YOU ALLOWED THEM TO ESCAPE!
WHY ON EARTH WOULD I LET THEM DO THAT!
BECAUSE--ONCE A TRAITOR, ALWAYS A TRAITOR--AND YOU'VE ADMITTED YOU DISTRIBUTED THEIR FIFTY BILLION DOLLARS IN PERFECT COUNTERFEIT CURRENCY WHICH WILL DOUBTLESS RUIN THE NATION'S ECONOMIC SYSTEM!
ME OH MY...
FOR SOMEONE WHO'S KNOWN ME AS LONG AND AS WELL AS YOU HAVE, YOU SHOW VERY LITTLE UNDERSTANDING. BUT THEN, YOU WERE NEVER FAMOUS FOR YOUR TACT...
TACT BE HANGED! WHY DID YOU LET THEM ESCAPE!?
JUST WANTED TO BE SPORTING, THAT'S ALL--GIVING THEM A LITTLE HEAD START!
BUT THEY WENT THAT WAY!!!

NAPOLEON AND UNCLE ELBY — By Clifford McBride

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Jerry and Tojo — By Frank Martinek

DON'T OVERDO IT! LET'S GET INSIDE!
AFTER A CAREFUL EXAMINATION
HMMMM--JUST TAKE THINGS EASY--YOU'RE GOING TO COME ALONG ALL RIGHT
YOU SAID IT! CAN'T BE SOON ENOUGH--DIXIE SAID SHE'D MARRY ME!
DO YOU LOVE HIM?
I LIKE HIM, DOCTOR--BUT KNOWING HE HADN'T LONG FOR THIS WORLD I JUST WANTED TO MAKE HIM HAPPY--LIKE YOU SAID
WELL--THERE'S SOMETHING YOU MUST KNOW--A MIRACLE HAS HAPPENED
THE KID'S NOT ONLY WALKING BUT HE'S GOING TO GET WELL!!

BIG CHIEF WAHOO — By Saunders and Woggon

WE RETURN TO GOWTRO'S FORTRESS
GREDA, WERE WE FOLLOWED?
NO, MASTER! WE HAVE VANISHED INTO THIN AIR ACCORDING TO THE RADIO REPORT!
WE KILL TO STRIKE FEAR IN THE HEARTS OF OUR ENEMY!!

DONALD DUCK — Air-Raid Siren! — By Walt Disney

I GUESS I DIDN'T REALIZE HOW MUCH I LOVED YOU, STEVE--- TILL I THOUGHT I'D LOST YOU! PROMISE ME YOU'LL NEVER LEAVE ME AGAIN!
I WISH I COULD, DARLING! --BUT SINCE A LITTLE GUY WITH A TRICK MUSTACHE DECIDED HE COULD EAT THE WORLD LIKE AN APPLE, A LOT OF US BOYS HAVE HAD TO PUT OUR HOUSE-SLIPPERS AWAY IN MOTHBALLS!
EVEN SO, I'VE BEEN PROMISED A 10-DAY LEAVE FROM MY LITTLE JOB, AND--WELL--THAT'S LONG ENOUGH FOR A SHORT HONEYMOON--! WHAT DO YOU SAY, MINNIE-HA-CHA?
ALL I CAN SAY IS--THE HAPPIEST BRIDE IN AMERICA WILL MEET YOU TOMORROW MORNING AT THE LITTLE CHURCH ACROSS THE STREET!!
YIPPEE! THAT'LL BE MUY BUENO! WON'T IT, CHIEF?
YEP!-- WAHOO HEAP HAPPY--TO SEE HIS BEST FRIENDS HAPPY!

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED — By Zane Grey

KING HAD TOO MUCH OF A START! GET MY PONY, BIG CUB... IF HE ENDANGERS WHITE FAWN, I WILL BE WATCHING AND WILL SEND ARROW INTO HIS HEART!
FASTER, ROGUE! KID AND PENNY ARE AT THE MERCY OF THAT MANIAC, DIABLO!
NO, DIABLO! YOU CAN'T KILL US IN COLD BLOOD!
YOU SHOULD HAVE THOUGHT OF THIS WHEN YOU SPOILED MY PLANS, PENNY!
